WPA DEMANDS RELIEF VOTES

AID OF HOPKINS TELLS HOW TO CAST BALLOTS

Back 'Man in White House,' Plea.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., June 27.—[Special.] — Following the example of President Roosevelt in dropping the mask of nonintervention in Democratic primaries, the administration today came into the open with its purpose to mobilize voters on relief rolls and the relief billions to keep the administration in power.

Aubrey Williams.

Throwing to the winds the previous pretense of nonpartisanship in the relief administration, Aubrey Williams, deputy administrator of the WPA, frankly told representatives of 2,760,000 persons now on relief rolls that they will do well to keep the present administration in power if they know on which side their bread is buttered.

Asks Continuation of Power.

Williams delivered himself of this admonition in remarks to 800 members of the Workers' alliance, radical relief enrollees' organization, who had gathered to protest against wage decreases for professional classes of workers on WPA projects.

"Judge your friends by the crowd they run with," said Williams. "You know who your friends are. Keep your friends in power. The people who stand for government support of these things [i. e., work relief] are those who are going to win the elections."

The deputy administrator explained that when he urged his listeners to keep their friends in power, he meant "the man in the White House" and all office holders who support him.

A Word for Right Congressmen.

With particular reference to their friends among candidates for congress, he said that "you will know your friends when they come to you for their support."

A change in the present administration, Williams warned, "might undo all that has been done for the unemployed."

The deputy administrator's remarks and announcement that a limitation of white collar work funds to $1,000 per man per year has been rescinded were uproariously cheered by the workers, a majority of whom are employed on federal professional projects.

Visions New Job for Government.

"I have a feeling," he said, "that the production of symphonies, art, writing, and other artistic pursuits is going to be the business of government. I think we will see the day when writers won't be forced to go to this or that stuffed shirt before he can write a book."

Then he dilated upon the great benefits the present administration has brought to the people and was reminded thereby that the accomplishments of the administration would have been even more noteworthy had it not been for the failure of certain members of congress to support the President—members whom the President himself has marked for political slaughter.

"Some things would be different at this very hour," Williams remarked significantly, "if President Roosevelt had got votes on the hill at critical times."

Endorses Leaders' Views.

Williams sympathized 100 per cent with the views of leaders of the Workers' alliance, which enjoys close relations with John L. Lewis' Committee for Industrial Organization.

The alliance, which frequently calls strikes of relief workers to obtain increased relief pay and other concessions, has succeeded to a remarkable degree in establishing a vested interest in relief.

VISITOR FEARED BIG CITY—BUT THE CITY FEARED HIM MORE

When Paul Gebhart left his native Decatur, Ill., he remembered the tales of the fearsome Chicago gangsters and brought along his trusty .22 caliber target pistol—a weapon all of 12 inches long.

Last evening, having made the journey without a mishap, he began looking for a friend who, he remembered, worked in a drug store on Clark street somewhere between Diversey and Fullerton avenues.

It wasn't long until the phone at the Sheffield avenue police station was ringing, again and again. The callers all insisted that they had been scared practically witless by a man in riding breeches who had a pistol in his hip pocket that was so long it extended up to the shoulder blade.

In a few jiffies Paul Gebhart was under arrest, charged with disorderly conduct for frightening Chicagoans. He said this was a surprise to him, as the Decatur police let him carry his pistol everywhere, and even borrowed it occasionally for target practice.

It'll Take Him Five Days to Do Favor for Friend

New York, June 27.—[Special.]—When the case of John Galluccio, charged with donning his bathing suit on the Coney Island beach yesterday, was called today, Salvatore Sarracino answered. When Magistrate James E. Finnegan imposed a five day sentence, Sarracino hastily disclosed his real identity, explaining that Galluccio was at work and had given him $5 to pay the anticipated fine for his offense. "How do I know who you are?" demanded the magistrate. "When I called for Galluccio, you stepped up. I sentenced you to five days in jail and you are going to go."

Forgets Trap Under House, but It Vividly Reminds Him

Hyannis, Neb., June 27.—[Special.]—John Yauncey was exploring under the house, Mrs. Yauncey holding a lighted lamp for him, when something bit him. His yells and the attendant commotion frightened Mrs. Yauncey so much that she dropped the lamp, extinguishing the light. When she returned from a hurried trip for matches they discovered Yauncey had sat down in a coyote trap, there so long it had been forgotten.

Woman Holds Home in Lieu of Wedding Bells

Irvington, N. Y., June 27.—[Special.]—Rollo K. Blanchard, 50 years old, vice president of the Neptune Meter company of New York, conferred unsuccessfully today with his attorneys on ways of terminating the "lie down strike" of Mrs. Nell Heusser, 27 years old, at his estate here.

Ensconced on the second floor of the large English dwelling, Mrs. Heusser, a native of Switzerland, began the second week of her stay and declared she would remain until "Mr. Blanchard fulfills his promise to marry me." She displayed a diamond studded wedding ring which she contended Blanchard bought two weeks ago for the ceremony.

Blanchard and Mrs. Heusser each has two children and each was divorced about three years ago.

Denies Any Obligations.

Blanchard announced through counsel that he was under no obligation to Mrs. Heusser and would not marry her, but that he would "continue to be a hospitable host to an unwelcome guest."

Not venturing near the house himself, Blanchard installed four private detectives to protect the place against damage, according to his attorney. Threats by the detectives to cut off the food supply, water, gas, and electricity left Mrs. Heusser adamant.

Even Mrs. Heusser's own attorney could not induce her to leave the premises. She would not leave her room, where she placed herself defiantly on the bed whenever a detective entered.

Defies Her Own Attorney.

"You have no more right to be there than I have," shouted her attorney from the lawn, where he stood in a heavy rain. "All Mr. Blanchard has to do is swear out a warant against you, charging trespass."

"He won't go that far—he loves me," replied the Titian haired woman, shivering in a flowered negligée at her second floor window.

"Mr. Blanchard's attorney says that if you leave the house he will talk terms with you," continued the attorney.

2 WOMEN SEE A GENT IN A BEAUTY PARLOR, THEN GO INTO ACTION

The sight of a gentleman having his finger nails manicured in a beauty shop at 4819 Diversey avenue yesterday seemed to irritate the two women who peered through the window, according to Policemen John Dawson and Joseph Foster.

The scoffers were Mrs. Jean O'Connor, 2062 North Lockwood avenue, a blonde, and Mrs. Anna Schwald, 2531 North Parkside avenue, a brunette. And well fortified they were from an afternoon tour of the neighborhood taverns, the policemen said.

Refused admission to the salon by the owner, Miss Ruth Hartley, who heard them calling her customer a sissy, the women heaved a stone through the window, she said. Half an hour later policemen found them in another tavern whence they went to the Racine avenue station.

BROTHER SHOT AND SEIZED ON ILLINOIS FARM

100 Take Part in Tri-State Hunt.

BY JOSEPH ATOR.

Two outlaws who had fatally wounded an Indiana state policeman were cornered yesterday on a Kankakee county farm. One of them, Clarence Easton, was killed. His brother, Orelle, was wounded and captured. The end came after the outlaws had been driven to a last stand by more than 100 officers who had blocked all roads.

A few hours later their victim, Ray Dixon, died in Holy Family hospital at La Porte, Ind. It was the wanton shooting of Dixon, wounded three times when he offered the desperadoes help with their stalled car, which started the manhunt.

Kidnap Three in Flight.

Before it was ended the fugitives had kidnaped two deputy sherifs and forced them to drive westward toward Illinois, had fought a running battle with Illinois highway police, had kidnaped a farmer, and just before they were brought to bay, had fought off Indiana officers armed with a machine gun.

Then their car stalled in the sticky mud of a country lane. Two deputy sherifs, familiar with the countryside, sped two miles over gravel roads and trapped them in the farmyard of Byron Warner, near Deselm, a Kankakee county hamlet.

Two shots from the rifle of Deputy Clinton Craig killed Clarence Easton. A random bullet through the kitchen door behind which he was hiding nicked Orelle's shoulder and brought him out with his hands in the air. He was taken to the Kankakee jail, to be told a few hours later that he will be extradited to Indiana and placed on trial for the murder of Dixon.

Each Has Year in College.

Clarence Easton was 27 years old. His brother is 25. Their father is a respected insurance man in Valley City, N. D. The brothers were graduated from high school there, each had a year at college, then they were employed on odd jobs about the town. They had no police record, except Clarence's arrest last January on a charge of drunkenness.

On June 9 they left home. Their father understood they were going to seek work in Chicago. They told each other they would make some quick money robbing banks, but the limit of their audacity until Sunday night was a half dozen petty stickups and robberies of motorists waylaid on lonely roads.

They stole one automobile in Minneapolis, another near Cameron, Wis., a third at Stevens Point, Wis. Twice they exchanged shots, harmlessly, with officers who pursued the stolen cars. The car which they were driving had been punctured by bullets in one of these fights, so they took another one last Thursday from a woman at Columbus, Wis. The Columbus police chief was in the car, Orelle Easton said yesterday, and they took his gun and $65.

Drive Through Chicago.

Over the week-end they drove through Chicago to Three Oaks, Mich., where they stole a set of license plates on Sunday and placed them on their stolen car.

Sunday night the car stalled on a highway outside La Porte. Policeman Dixon, called to the neighborhood to investigate a minor automobile crash, stopped and offered them help. When the brothers saw his uniform they opened fire. He fell with two bullet wounds in the abdomen, a third in his hand. Orelle Easton denied yesterday that he had fired any of those shots.

Before the brothers could leave the scene two Porter county, Ind., deputy sherifs drew up, unaware of the shooting of Dixon. The outlaws disarmed the deputies, Charles Hahn and Joseph Kowaczyk, who were forced to drive them off in the deputies' car.

Blockade Spread in Three States.

Within a few minutes news of the shooting of Dixon and the kidnaping was broadcast by police radios. Michigan state police put their highway blockade system into force along the

Gunn Elected to High Court in 3d District

BY PERCY WOOD.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]
(Picture on page 2.)

Springfield, Ill., June 27.—[Special.]—Central Illinois sent a Republican to the state Supreme court today, electing Walter T. Gunn of Danville in preference to Judge Walter L. McLaughlin of Sullivan, a Democrat who had the support of Gov. Henry Horner. The new member of the high bench will serve the four years remaining of the term of the late Chief Justice Lott R. Herrick of Farmer City, who was a Democrat.

Walter T. Gunn.

Returns from 812 of the 820 precincts in which votes were cast today gave the Republican candidate a lead of nearly 15,000 votes, the count showing Gunn, 80,369; McLaughlin, 65,686.

The vote by counties follows:

County—	Pcts.	Rptd.	Gunn [R.]	McLaughlin [D.]
Champaign	75	75	7,698	4,887
Coles	48	45	2,982	3,595
Dewitt	21	21	2,250	1,817
Douglas	25	25	2,339	2,789
Edgar	28	28	2,840	2,457
Ford	17	17	2,492	1,225
Iroquois	35	35	3,204	2,748
Livingston	36	36	5,804	4,223
Logan	34	34	2,851	3,008
Macon	70	70	8,260	8,085
McLean	87	87	6,018	4,790
Moultrie	19	19	1,727	2,507
Piatt	18	18	2,017	1,564
Sangamon	155	155	15,652	11,253
Tazewell	50	50	1,870	2,372
Vermilion	102	97	12,965	8,357
Totals	820	812	80,369	65,686

Selected by Horner.

The issue created by the Republican nominee and his campaign speakers was that Gov. Horner had handpicked Judge McLaughlin and therefore was attempting to pack the Supreme court.

An analysis of the returns showed that the voters of five of the sixteen counties changed the party affiliation they recorded in the April primary fight. Gunn carried eleven and Judge McLaughlin five counties. Four of those in the Republican column today voted Democratic last April 12. They were Dewitt, Edgar, Macon, and Vermilion. In contrast, Douglas county, Republican in April, went Democratic today.

Carry Home Counties.

The four other counties in Judge McLaughlin's list were Coles, Logan, Moultrie, and Tazewell. Each candidate carried his home county, Gunn, Vermilion, and McLaughlin, Moultrie.

In 1933, when Justice Herrick defeated James S. Baldwin, he polled 105,207 votes to 74,727 for his opponent.

About 150,000 votes were cast, a total that appeared at least one-third too large in the midafternoon predictions when workers reported a light vote. It was about 60 per cent of the total of 244,379 cast in the April primaries.

Will Take Oath Soon.

Gunn, who will take the oath of office within a few days, although the court will not be in session until October, will become the second Republican on the Supreme bench. The other is Judge Clyde E. Stone of Peoria.

The new member is 58 years old and has practiced law in Danville for thirty-six years. He never has held elective office. He was born in La Salle county, received his law degree from Illinois Wesleyan university at Bloomington, and was admitted to the bar in 1902. He has been an assistant state's attorney and a master in chancery in Vermilion county and corporation counsel of Danville.

G. O. P. PREDICTS 100 SEAT GAIN IN NEXT HOUSE

Party Leader Snell Will Retire.

BY CHESLY MANLY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., June 27.—[Special.]—Republican gains of 75 to 100 seats in the house of representatives and six to ten seats in the senate were predicted by members of the party's national executive committee, who discussed plans for the 1938 campaign at a meeting here today.

National committeemen reported widespread swings away from the Roosevelt administration, especially in the northeastern, north central and some northwestern states.

The ten states listed by national committeemen as offering the best chances for Republican gains in the senate this year are Oregon, Utah, Idaho, South Dakota, Kansas, Iowa, Illinois, Ohio, New Jersey, and New Hampshire.

Snell Will Retire.

As the executive committee assembled to discuss finance and plans for the forthcoming campaign, Representative Bertrand H. Snell of New York, Republican leader of the house, announced his retirement from public life after twenty-four years of service in congress. He said he would not be a candidate for reëlection this year.

"The public responsibilities that have been mine for a number of years past have been exceedingly heavy and constant, and my business accordingly has been neglected greatly," Snell said. "The time comes when one's family and health must have some consideration." He will be 68 years old in December."

Snell is expected to be succeeded as Republican leader of the house by Representative Joseph W. Martin of Massachusetts, who is serving his seventh consecutive term. Martin has been assistant minority leader in recent years and is chairman of the Republican congressional campaign committee.

Demand Hamilton's Removal.

It became known today that former Gov. Alf M. Landon of Kansas and Frank Knox of Chicago, the Republican candidates for President and vice president respectively in 1936, have been demanding the removal of John Hamilton, chairman of the national committee. Landon and Knox, it was said, are opposed to Hamilton largely because he is favored by former President Herbert Hoover, and would like to replace him with former Gov. Walter Kohler of Wisconsin.

Representative Hamilton Fish of New York also has resumed his long standing fight against Hamilton, charging that he won't give the Republican senatorial and congressional campaign committees a voice in the handling of campaign funds.

His Job Is Safe.

Hamilton, however, is overwhelmingly supported by national committeemen and there will be no change in the chairmanship before the November elections, some of them said. The executive committee adopted a resolution approving the work of Hamilton and saying the national committee had functioned efficiently and adequately in full coöperation with the congressional and senatorial campaign committees.

Hamilton is confronted by the task not only of financing the 1938 congressional campaigns but of paying off a $700,000 deficit remaining from the 1936 campaign.

Refuting Fish's charge that the national committee, under Hamilton, won't coöperate with the campaign committees, the finance committee of the national executive committee voted to allocate $175,000 to the senatorial committee and $500,000 to the congressional committee for the campaigns this year. These were the sums requested by Senator John G. Townsend Jr. of Delaware and Representative Martin, chairmen, respectively, of those committees.

Iowan Is Optimistic.

Harrison E. Spangler, member of the executive committee from Iowa, predicted that his state would elect a Republican governor, a Republican senator [former Senator Lester J. Dickinson] and at least seven Republican members of the house this year.

"We have four out of nine members of the house and we are not conceding a district now," Spangler said. "We'll elect at least seven members of the house and former Senator Dickinson will win easily.

He lost by a margin of only 2½ per cent in 1936.

"Iowa this year will go solidly Republican. The people, including the farmers, are fed up with the Roosevelt administration."

Don't Want Yes-Man.

Ezra R. Whitla, member of the executive committee from Idaho, predicted defeat of Senator James P. Pope, an administration yes-man who has been rewarded for his services with a $9,900,000 hydro-electric power and irrigation project and a joint congressional committee to study the use of phosphates. The Republican senatorial nominee is expected to be Don Callahan.

"Idaho will go Republican this year," Whitla said. "The Democratic regimé out there has been involved in scandals and prosecutions. Some of the governor's appointees have been convicted. Senator Pope will be defeated, if he is the Democratic nominee, because the people of Idaho don't want a yes-man."

Thirteen of the 21 members of the national executive committee attended the conference. They were: Hamilton, Vice Chairmen John E. Hillman of Colorado and Mrs. Worthington Scranton of Pennsylvania; Treasurer C. B. Goodspeed of Chicago; Henry P. Fletcher of Pennsylvania, general counsel; Robert P. Burroughs of New Hampshire, Mrs. Paul Fitz Simmons of Rhode Island, Walter S. Hallanan of West Virginia, Harrison E. Spangler of Iowa, R. B. Creager of Texas, Whitla, S. F. Pryor Jr., of Connecticut, and F. F. Taggart of Ohio.

DRUM REPORTED CHOSEN FOR 1ST ARMY COMMAND

Maj. Gen. Hugh A. Drum, who commands the 6th corps area and the 2d army with headquarters here, has been tentatively scheduled to take command of the 1st army and the 2d corps area, with headquarters on Governor's Island, N. Y., it was reported yesterday.

It was reported that formal orders will be issued about Sept. 1, a month before Maj. Gen. Frank R. McCoy, now commandant of the 1st army, is detached from duty when he reaches the statutory retirement age of 64.

Gen. Drum, who is 59 years old, also has been prominently mentioned as a possible successor to Gen. Malin Craig, chief of staf, who reaches the retirement age in August, 1939.

Murder Charge Against Confessed Killer Dropped

A murder charge against George Kubanda, confessed killer of William Pawlick, was dismissed by Judge Joseph Sabath yesterday when Benjamin Nelson, assistant state's attorney, said there was little likelihood of a conviction. A jury trying Kubanda for the killing disagreed on June 4. Kubanda, who is 21 years old, lives at 2154 Superior street. He killed Pawlick, called by police a neighborhood bully, in a fight on March 5.

G. O. P. Leader Retires

STATE TO GET ALL RENTALS FROM NEW ARMORIES

Money derived from renting the new state armories to private enterprises will be used to help defray building costs, Gov. Horner said yesterday. At present they go to the regiment occupying the armory.

Gov. Horner said he had not yet decided on a policy regarding the complaints from tax paying business concerns against competition from lessees of state armories which are tax exempt and tax supported. He said the cancelation of a lease on the 8th regiment's armory, 3517 Giles avenue, for public dancing was not the result of complaints from nearby ballrooms but because liquor had been sold in the armory during the dancing.

A board has been appointed by the state to sell bonds to cover its share of the construction of three new armories and additions now on the approval list of the Public Works administration in the event federal funds are allocated. The bonds will be backed by an agreement on the part of the state to rent the armories for at least twenty years. This rental, it is expected, will be sufficient to pay off the bonds.

AID OF HOPKINS BIDS OPENLY FOR RELIEFERS' VOTE

ers and said that the present average $65 a month WPA wage is about 65 per cent of the average wage in industry as a whole. Such increases as have been granted, he said, were made in the face of protests from private industry.

WPA, he said, has not reached the wage level of industry because "there are powerful people in America controling the organs of public opinion who wouldn't allow it."

Urges "Royalists" Be Fair.

"I hope," Williams added, "that all economic royalists and their newspapers will be fair enough to publish that.

"That's what we're up against. You should not cease to fight for higher wages."

And that again reminded Williams of the political factor in relief. The relief enrolees must not forget their friends if they want increased relief pay.

"A government can go no faster or farther than it has support to go," the deputy relief administrator significantly admonished the relief organization. "The people must organize so strongly that no one can take the power away from them. This is the only way to defeat the aims of the few who would seize the power from the masses."

Army of 5 Million Votes.

Deputy Administrator Williams' political appeal to the relief enrolees now indicates that the relief army is to be mobilized in support of the President's campaign to elect 100 per cent Roosevelt partisans to the next congress. There are about 20 million persons dependent on the relief rolls—more than 5 million voters, it is estimated.

In Washington today for a meeting of the Republican national executive committee, R. B. Creager of Texas denounced the favoritism shown Kentucky and Oklahoma in wage increases for southern WPA workers announced yesterday by Administrator Hopkins.

"Obviously this was a political move to aid Senator Alben W. Barkley in Kentucky and Senator Elmer Thomas in Oklahoma, two favored yes-men of the Roosevelt administration," Mr. Creager said.

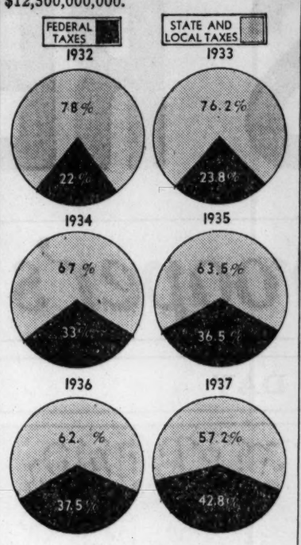
U. S. Takes Taxes

A study of tax revenues in the United States shows that the federal government is getting an increasingly large proportion of total taxes. In 1932 total taxes were estimated at $8,300,000,000. In 1937 total revenues were estimated at $12,500,000,000.



Local communities are unable to finance the present relief burden and the problem should be assumed by the state and federal governments, delegates to the annual conference of the National Association of Tax Administrators were told here yesterday. Approximately 200 taxing officials are meeting at the Shoreland hotel.

Mayor Kelly in his address of welcome urged the tax experts to find a solution to municipal tax problems, which, he said, "have been for so long the football of the states."

Pennsylvania, which last year took over the relief problem as a state function after abolishing county relief boards, has found that under state administration relief costs have been reduced and financed at low interest rates, Thomas W. Bender of the Pennsylvania treasury department asserted.

BRITISH 'SPY ACT' ASSAILED BY M.P.; CHARGES MISUSE

LONDON, June 27.—(AP)—A row between Sir Donald Somervell, Britain's attorney general, and a member of parliament over the latter's liability under the official secrets act was disclosed in the house of commons today.

Duncan Sandys, a Conservative and son-in-law of Winston Churchill, was the member involved. He moved that the row be investigated by a committee of the house.

The stringent official secrets act primarily is employed against spies, but its terms have been stretched to the extent of penalizing a newspaper man for refusing to disclose his news sources.

Asked to Reveal Source.

Sandys told the house that Somervell had demanded that he reveal sources of information on which he had based a question he intended to ask the war secretary, Leslie Hore-Belisha, in commons. He added that the attorney general had told him he was liable to two years' imprisonment if he refused.

The question, which Sandys previously had discussed with the war secretary, concerned an alleged shortage of army anti-aircraft guns. London newspapers have charged Hore-Belisha with failure to provide London defenses with the most modern types of anti-aircraft weapons.

Chamberlain Agrees to Debate.

Sandys told the house that later Somervell assured him he did not intend to invoke the secrets act against him. Sandys then read a letter he had written the attorney general insisting it was clear that the possibility of such proceedings had been contemplated.

He moved that the investigation be extended to cover the applicability of the secrets act to members of parliament.

Prime Minister Chamberlain agreed to permit debate on the subject to "clarify the position."

Somervell, replying to Sandys, said the war secretary had told him that the information which Sandys had made it clear that some one had let out "highly secretive information" and that there had been "a serious breach of the secrets act."

Sandys' father-in-law, Churchill, wartime head of the admiralty, has been a bitter critic of the government's Spanish policy although a Conservative.

JEWS IN PALESTINE GO ON STRIKE AGAINST EXECUTION OF YOUTH

JERUSALEM, June 27.—(AP)—Nearly every Jewish community in Palestine "struck" tonight against the scheduled hanging tomorrow of a Jewish youth condemned to death under emergency military regulations. Shops and cinemas were closed in Jerusalem, Tel Aviv, and elsewhere. A huge crowd sat down in front of the Tel Aviv municipal hall demanding an audience with the mayor. Sermons were preached in many synagogues urging clemency for the youth, Benjamin Joseph, 18, convicted by a military tribunal of ambushing an Arab bus last April.

Saucer Hat Something New Under the Sun

Atlantic City, N. J., June 27.—[Special.]—A new type of hat that looks something like two shallow wash pans turned inside together and perched at an angle upon the head is being worn by women at Atlantic beach. They call it the sun saucer and tout it as advantageous for shading the face and allowing cool breezes to blow upon the wearer's head. Of course, one has to stand with the headpiece pointed toward the sun or there is no shade, but that is a minor drawback for something really new under the sun.

PRODUCER-USER TAXES VOTED IN ILLINOIS HOUSE

$400,000 More a Month for Relief Approved.

BY HAL FOUST.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., June 27.—[Special.]—Two new tax bills, providing for a producer and a user tax, were passed in the Illinois house of representatives tonight.

The house then made it almost a clean sweep for the Democratic harmony program by passing, 120 to 1, an additional relief appropriation of $400,000 monthly until next Feb. 1, or a total of $2,800,000, which was Gov. Horner's recommendation to the second special session. The only dissenter was Representative Calvin D. Johnson [R., Belleville].

Other measures approved were a bill to give Chicago the right to pass supplemental budgets—another relief measure—and a bill sponsored by the governor to appropriate $2,500,000 from the general revenue fund for a new prison and to increase the number of beds in the state's charitable institutions. It is hoped to augment the latter with a federal grant of $2,000,000.

Diversion Bill Also Passed.

The house also approved the bill to divert $2,500,000 of Chicago's gasoline tax revenue from the city's road fund to relief purposes. Republicans fought the measure, saying that there was a likelihood the Illinois highway department would lose $2,900,000 of federal road funds as a penalty for this diversion under a provision of the congressional appropriation act.

Meanwhile, a Democratic caucus in the senate headed the producer and user tax bills toward a threat of death in the revenue committee. It marked a disruption in the truce under which the Horner-Courtney and Nash-Kelly factions were to bury their hatchets long enough to enact a relief and revenue legislation program.

Lieut. Gov. John Stelle broke a 10 to 10 tie vote among his party members to oppose indorsement of the new excises. As presiding officer, he said he will send these house bills to the revenue committee.

Similar Bills Killed.

Senator James O. Monroe [D., Collinsville] is chairman of the senate revenue committee and was chairman last session when similar bills were permitted to die in this committee.

Representative Benjamin Adamowski [D., Chicago], majority floor leader, presented the producer bill as not a new tax but merely a plug in loopholes in the sales tax. It would levy 3 per cent on occupations now exempt from the sales impost.

Representative Elmer J. Schnackenberg [R., Chicago], the minority leader, attacked the measure as an unnecessary additional burden upon business.

"We need no new excises to meet our relief needs, said Schnackenberg, "if our finance department will collect the sales excise from theaters. This producer tax, contrary to the arguments of its proponents, will not equalize the spread of taxation but will place a double tax on many businesses."

Blames Job Printers.

Representative F. W. Lewis [D., Robinson] said that opposition to the producer tax was coming from big job printers who had been exempted from the sales tax by a Supreme court decision on a technicality in the present excise statute.

Schaefer O'Neill [D., Alton], the only Democrat talking against the proposal, said the bill was so loosely worded that its enforcement will be left to interpretation by a state department of finance, which has demonstrated that it has no fixed rules.

The producer tax bill received 78 votes, one more than a minimum requirement for passage. The user tax, which collects 3 per cent on purchases from outside Illinois of property to be used in occupations within the state, received 89 votes.

Preceding a battle on party lines over the tax bills, the house passed six bills to reform relief administration.

They would change the county relief setup and are concerned principally with weeding undeserving cases from the rolls. They also are intended to achieve better control over expenditures of state funds by local relief units.

The Illinois Emergency Relief commission, which now merely allocates state funds, would be authorized to supervise expenditures by 490 local units, including Chicago, where community pauper taxes are supplemented by a share of sales and utility tax receipts. The IERC also would be given power to impose regulations on these local units, which would tend to standardize relief practices and budgets for indigent families.

Provides More Investigators.

To increase the number of investigators watching the changing financial status of relief families, the bills would boost the limits on administrative expenses of local units to 10 per cent of total expenditures. The present limits of 8 per cent in Chicago and 5 per cent down state were set by the legislature two years ago. Another bill provides for county superintendents of public welfare to be employed after competitive examinations in which they must meet minimum requirements.

A drivers' license bill and a companion safety measure, a financial responsibility bill, were postponed until tomorrow. They are bills that have been passed in the senate and amended in the house so that they are in a better parliamentary position in the race against a Thursday night adjournment than are proposals that have passed neither house.

Also postponed until tomorrow were bills intended to ease the present method of amending the Illinois constitution.

RAIN INTERFERES WITH HUNT FOR M'CORMICK BOY

Black Clouds Enshroud Mountain Peak.

Albuquerque, N. M., June 27.—(AP)—Search for missing John Medill McCormick reached an apparent stalemate today with a complete absence of clews to his fate on storm-blown Sandia peak.

Half of a contingent of 120 CCC youths were withdrawn tonight from the search for the publishing heir, and all except two or three of a dozen veteran mountain climbers prepared to return to their homes.

As impenetrable as the black clouds shrouding the mountain summits during the day was the mystery surrounding the youth's whereabouts. The rocky cliffs which Friday yielded up the body of Richard Whitmer, 20 years old, McCormick's mountain climbing companion, disclosed nothing of his fate.

Rain Hinders Search.

McCormick, 21 years old, is the son of former Senator Medill McCormick, who died in 1925, and Mrs. Ruth McCormick Simms.

Today's search was hindered by sudden mountain rain squalls, which beat against the sheer heights of the mile high peak with intermittent fury, and for the most part kept the cliff face clear of climbers.

The hunt continued, however, in rocky arroyos and canyons at the foot of the mountain.

Mother at Scene.

Mrs. Simms, the missing boy's mother, was at the mountain again at daylight, but Gov. Clyde Tingley was forced to leave the scene because of official business.

Telescopes were at minimum value most of the day as clouds and fog shrouded the high crags. The two-way field radios of the forest service kept the base camp advised, however, and broadcast directly from the mountain to the Simms ranch on the Albuquerque outskirts.

That leaders of the search were overlooking no clews was evident when two Albuquerque youths, Russell Weir and Theodore Schyler, were recalled to the peak to try and locate for searchers a spot where last Friday they reported hearing a voice.

Expecting a Baby

Mrs. Franklin Roosevelt Jr.

Hyde Park, N. Y., June 27.—(AP)—A person close to President Roosevelt's family confirmed today that Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt Jr. is expecting a baby some time this summer.

Young Mrs. Roosevelt, the former Ethel du Pont of Wilmington, Del., is the wife of the President's third son. They were married at Christiana Hundred, near her home, last June 30.

The Franklin Roosevelt Jr.'s baby will be the chief executive's eighth grandchild. His daughter, Ann, has two; James, two, and Elliott, three. Young Mrs. Roosevelt is now at Hyde Park.

RYAN IS LEADING APPARENT VICTOR IN VOTE RECOUNT

State Representative John G. Ryan, who was apparently defeated for renomination in the 13th district in the Democratic primary last April by Adam S. Mioduski, forged into the lead yesterday as a recount of the ballots was begun. Ryan was defeated by 140 votes on the face of the original count, but his gain yesterday was 155 votes, putting him 15 votes ahead of Mioduski.

Circuit Judge Stanley H. Klarkowski ordered the recount which is being conducted in the offices of the election commissioners under the supervision of Chief Clerk John S. Rusch. He directed that the ballots of 51 precincts be opened and of these 11 were counted yesterday.

Attorney John F. Tyrrell, representing Ryan, said that 90 votes were gained in one precinct where Ryan had been credited with only 1 vote instead of 1½ votes on each ballot where the voter had marked for two candidates.

AMERICAN LABOR PARTY ATTACKED BY A. F. L. GROUP

New York, June 27.—[Special.]—The American Federation of Labor nonpartisan committee today repudiated the American Labor party as the representative of the wage earners of the state, denounced the party as the political machine of John L. Lewis, C. I. O. head, and urged New York state's 600,000 trade unionists to shun the political organization.

"The committee repudiates the American Labor party and John L. Lewis as representing the wage earners of the state and reaffirms its allegiance to the political philosophy of the American Federation of Labor to support for public office its friends, irrespective of their political affiliations."

U. S. COURT TO GET SURFACE LINES FRANCHISE PLANS

William H. Sexton, special counsel for the city, will inform Federal Judge James H. Wilkerson today that the city council will soon consider a new form of temporary franchise for the Chicago Surface Lines to replace the present day to day extentions of the 1907 ordinances which expired in 1927.

The city seeks to force the surface lines to pay compensation, amounting to not less than 3 per cent of gross revenues, for use of the city streets. The surface lines have paid no franchise compensation since 1931.

It is expected that the city council, after passing the ordinance, will ask Judge Wilkerson to instruct receivers for the surface lines to operate under its provisions. It is expected also that surface lines interests will resist any move to force them to pay compensation except under a new long term franchise agreement.

ENGLAND FUMES AS REBELS BOMB TWO MORE SHIPS

Planes Raid Spanish Port Operated by British.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, June 27—The destruction of two more British ships by bombs dropped from Spanish rebel airplanes and the bombing of the British operated port of Gandia enraged large sections of British citizens today.

The bombings precipitated a bitter debate in the house of commons, with Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain, frequently called England's one man cabinet, turning down angry demands that British merchant ships be equipped with guns to shoot down raiding planes in Spanish waters.

Four crewmen were killed and several civilians were wounded in the raids, making a total of 59 ships flying the British flag that have been attacked since Spain was plunged into a civil war July 18, 1936. Sixteen British registered vessels have been blasted by rebel bombs during this month.

One Ship Bombed at Valencia.

The freighter Arlon was bombed by airmen of Generalissimo Francisco Franco, rebel commander-in-chief, in the port of Valencia. Five trimotored planes swooped down on the freighter and dropped twelve bombs. One of the missils struck the center of the ship.

The Arlon was set on fire by the bomb and began settling in the water. The craft was run aground at Nazaret, about a mile from Valencia. She was a total loss.

About an hour after the bombing of the Arlon six Junkers [German made] planes attacked the ship Farnham at Alicante. Forty bombs hurtled through the air with three missils scoring direct hits. The vessel burned and was wrecked.

Both of the destroyed ships carried cargoes of food.

Bombs Miss Warship.

Six rebel planes attacked Gandia, which is located thirty-five miles south of Valencia. The British warship Arethusa was anchored off the breakwater. Twenty incendiary bombs were dropped, but the warship escaped damage. Several landed on residences near the waterfront.

Soon after the news of the new bombings reached London Chamberlain was bombarded in parliament with demands to do something to stop the attacks on ships bearing the Union Jack. Both Labor and Liberal opposition members and Conservative supporters of the government harassed the prime minister.

Chamberlain was extremely cautious in replying to his critics and promised nothing. He explained that he was awaiting the return of Sir Robert M. Hodgson, British commercial agent, and the government's representatives in territory conquered by Spain's rebels. Hodgson is expected to bring back Franco's regrets concerning the bombings and perhaps explain why the ships were attacked.

May Cut Semi-Diplomatic Ties.

Associates of the prime minister, who observed the mounting anger among the British over the bombings, admitted that Chamberlain might be compelled to withdraw Hodgson and cut semi-diplomatic ties with Franco.

They were agreed that he is in a tight spot. They said he has two alternatives. One is to bring pressure on Franco to halt the operations of bombing planes of Germany and Italy. Such action, no doubt, would be resented by Adolf Hitler and Benito Mussolini—the two dictators Chamberlain is attempting to "appease" to avoid a general European war.

The other alternative, Chamberlain's associates said, is to continue to sit tight and hope for the best. This, they are convinced, would drive the prime minister's loyal followers into the opposition ranks and thereby cause his ouster.

The demand that British merchant ships be equipped with anti-aircraft guns was raised by Robert A. Cary, a Unionist, who deserted the government's backers to join the opposition. He asked the government to equip freighters with such armament or tell shipping companies the government would not object if they saw fit to protect their vessels with guns.

Angers Prime Minister.

"A good many difficulties stand in the way," Chamberlain replied. "One is the necessity of structural changes in the ships."

Clement R. Attlee, leader of the Labor opposition, thereupon asked: "May we gather by the prime minister's answer that it is impossible to fit anti-aircraft guns to British merchant ships now or at any time and so British merchant ships cannot be defended against aircraft in event of war?"

The prime minister snapped back: "That's not what I said. I did not say it is impossible. I said it could not be done effectively without structural alterations."

Spain Approves Bombing Quiz.

BARCELONA, June 27.—(AP)—The Spanish government tonight published a note to Great Britain approving the establishment of a neutral commission to investigate air raids on unfortified Spanish cities.

Denouncing aerial attacks on civilian populations as "mass slaughter," the note asserted "whatever else the continuation of aerial aggressions may require will be based on this consideration." This declaration implied a pledge not to retaliate with raids on defenseless insurgent towns but hinted at possible reprisals against other unspecified regions.

The note charged that "German and Italian aviation has felt itself free to extend its terroristic and destructive action against the civil population" despite the Spanish government's abstention from such attacks.

Holds Up Reprisal Plans.

The government, however, made it plain that any plans for retaliatory raids would be held in abeyance pending a trial of plans of the neutral commission.

The British minister submitted a note announcing the formation of the neutral commission comprising a Briton, a Swede, and a Norwegian. The committee expected to begin work this week. Its investigations of bombings are to be followed by reports seeking to arouse world opinion against bombings of unprotected cities.

Sarajevo Finds a Reminder of War on Assassin's Grave

SARAJEVO, Jugo-Slavia, June 27.—(AP)—Some one placed a handful of carnations today on the obscure grave of Gavrilo Princip, the youth whose well aimed pistol shots 24 years ago touched off the world war.

Otherwise this semi-oriental city drowsed in the heat of a Bosnian summer and took little note that the Archduke Franz Ferdinand of Austria-Hungary was assassinated here by Princip on June 28, 1914.

The authorities didn't know about the carnations and didn't care. Princip was largely a forgotten man, mentioned only by a few of the more revolutionary students loitering in the coffee houses.

Arrow locates town where archduke was slain.

Sharp Turn at Bridge.

Tourists manifested mild interest in the little bridge over the Miljazka river in the heart of the city, near which Franz Ferdinand and his wife, the Princess Sophie, were slain by Princip's shots.

A guide today explained that the spot was well chosen, that young Princip reckoned with the fact the crown prince's carriage would have to slow down before making a sharp turn to cross the bridge. A simple tablet marks the spot, and some Sarajevo citizens think that is too much.

There was some caustic comment when the tablet was unveiled on June 28, 1929, many critics holding that an incident which caused so much suffering to the world should not have been commemorated with such ceremony.

Sentenced to 20 Years.

The body of Princip was brought to Sarajevo for burial in 1929. He and his fellow conspirators, Nedeljko Tschabrinowitsch and Trifko Grabesch, died in prison while they were serving twenty year sentences for their assault on the crown prince.

It was the most severe sentence Austro-Hungarian justice could mete out, because in those days the death penalty could not be imposed on minors.

There was mixed feeling here today, with regard to their act. Some held them to be heroic martyrs, while others believed them to be ordinary criminals. The majority apparently had forgotten about them.

Austria-Hungary declared war on Serbia on July 28, one month after the assassinations. Germany declared war on Russia on Aug. 1, France entered the conflict on Aug. 3, Britain and Belgium on Aug. 4.

FEAR PARAGUAY AND BOLIVIA ARE NEAR NEW WAR

BUENOS AIRES, June 27.—(AP)—A new threat of war between Bolivia and Paraguay over the Chaco wilderness grew tonight, as representatives of six neutral countries struggled to prevent a breakdown in territorial negotiations.

The neutrals are trying to fix a definite boundary to end a century old dispute over the Chaco area, as large as continental Italy but of doubtful economic value. Paraguay's aspirations to retain nearly all the territory gained in the three year war from 1932 to 1935, and refusal to yield Bolivia a port on the upper Paraguay river deadlocked the conversations.

The neutral conferees here fear war any minute if the negotiations break down completely, because both Bolivia and Paraguay have been rearming to the extent of their financial power the past three years. There have been also numerous incidents along the line of separation of the armies, fixed by the armistice of 1935. If the current negotiations fail, there is concern here that the next frontier incident may lead to a repetition of the last war, in which 80,000 persons were estimated to have been killed on both sides.

[Copyright: 1938: By the New York Times.]

LONDON, June 27.—A Reuter's dispatch from Graz, Austria, today said that 80 per cent of the crops of eastern Styria have been destroyed by floods in the last twenty-four hours. The area affected includes large parts of the province of Burgenland, recent scene of extreme Jewish persecutions. Many cattle were drowned and buildings damaged.

LOYALISTS HALT TWO REBEL DRIVES IN EASTERN SPAIN

Gain in Counter Attacks of Their Own.

HENDAYE, France [At the Spanish Frontier], June 27.—(AP)—Government forces on the Teruel and Onda sectors in eastern Spain held firmly before repeated rebel attacks today and countered with offensives of their own.

Dispatches from Sarrion, 22 miles southeast of Teruel and 45 miles northwest of Valencia, said government militia there captured strategic points dominating the countryside for several miles.

Capture Two Important Hills.

Among them was the peak Muela de Sarrion, and what government sources considered an important military objective, known as Hill No. 1373.

Strongly fortified government defense lines checked a rebel drive south of Onda, about 35 miles north and slightly east of Valencia.

Rebel assaults were said to have been halted brusquely by reinforced government forces near Villarreal and Bechi, in the Onda section.

Loyalists Yield Monastery.

A single rebel success during the day's fighting was reported in government dispatches. Barcelona troops admitted having withdrawn from Sauveur monastery, about three miles north of Onda, after resisting rebel attacks for several days.

The government, however, has regarded the monastery as of little strategic importance since the evacuation of Onda.

ADMITS FORGING $10,000 IN CHECKS.

Patrick Voszella, 1641 North 15th avenue, Melrose Park, said by police to have confessed passing forged checks totaling $10,000, was held to the grand jury on forgery charges yesterday by Frank Pavek, Berwyn police magistrate.

WOULDN'T I BE FOOLISH TO EVER USE CHEAP SOAP CHIPS INSTEAD OF AMERICAN FAMILY FLAKES

I SOAK MY WASH IN THE CREAMY SUDS OF AMERICAN FAMILY FLAKES

MY LINENS ARE ALWAYS SPARKLING WHITE
AND IRON UP SO BEAUTIFULLY
MY DAUGHTER'S DRESSES NEVER FADE

YOU, TOO, will be amazed at the difference American Family Flakes' double suds make.

ARE you perhaps being penny-wise and pound-foolish about the soap chips you buy? If so, this advertisement may be the means of saving a considerable amount of money for you.

Cheap soaps usually make skimpy suds that simply won't get clothes clean unless you rub and rub. And it is this constant rubbing which wears out clothes—actually robs you of months of service you have every right to expect.

And the use of cheap soap chips is such a needless risk, with American Family Flakes at your command. Just read what these superb flakes do:

First, American Family Flakes' "double suds" remove grimiest dirt—without ruinous hard rubbing.

Second, American Family Flakes provide fastest washing with utmost safety to clothes because they depend on rich "double suds" instead of harmful chemicals.

For ninety years American Family has demonstrated that it saves time, saves work and, most important, SAVES CLOTHES. That is why more Chicago women use American Family than any other brand. You really can't afford to use cheap, harsh soaps that wear out clothes all too soon, and which require more soap to do the job. Try American Family Flakes your next wash-day—and note the difference.

BRITISH, FRENCH AND NAZIS TAKE HAND IN JAP WAR

London, Paris Warn Tokio; Berlin Turns on China.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

HONGKONG, June 28 [Tuesday].—Three great European powers—Great Britain, France, and Germany—today faced the danger of becoming involved directly in the war between Japan and China to protect their own interests.

The British and French envoys in Tokio warned Japan that any occupation of Hainan, Chinese island off the south coast of China, would be met by joint Franco-British action. The island, which lies near French and British trade routes, was bombed yesterday by Japanese flyers who concentrated on the Yuling forts and Chinese shore batteries.

[In Tokio the Japanese foreign office denied that Britain and France had warned Japan against occupying Hainan Island. An authoritative source said the British ambassador, Sir Robert Leslie Craigie, conferred yesterday with Foreign Minister Gen. Kazushige Ugaki only "on the general subject of British interests in China." The foreign office said the French ambassador, Charles Arsene Henry, had not visited the foreign office recently.]

Gateway to Indo-China.

The Germans have recalled their ambassador from Hankow and now insist that China permit the departure of twenty-seven Germans who have served as advisers to the Chinese army. Diplomatic observers foresaw possible German active support of Japan, her ally, along with Italy in an anti-communist pact.

Hainan Island is on the Gulf of Tongking, 150 miles east of the northern part of French Indo-China and controls the trade route to the northern part of the French possession.

Moreover, Hainan lies close to the sea route between Hongkong and Singapore, Britain's great naval bases in the far east. Chinese reported that a Japanese attempt to land troops on Hainan was repulsed Sunday by machine gun fire. Japanese warships are stationed near the island.

In London Richard Austen Butler, British undersecretary for foreign affairs, told the house of commons that Britain and France would act together in case any complications arose over Hainan.

Warns Against Seizure.

Butler's statement was in effect a reply to the Japanese declaration of last week that they might find it necessary to occupy Hainan.

"His majesty's government and the French government, through their ambassadors at Tokio, have made clear to the Japanese forces and government that they would regard any occupation of Hainan by the Japanese forces as calculated to give rise to undesirable complications," Butler said.

"Should any complications unfortunately arise, his majesty's government and the French government would no doubt afford each other such support as appears warranted by the circumstances."

Butler said that Britain would be glad to act as a mediator in the Chinese conflict, but "the Japanese minister for foreign affairs as recently as June 17 announced publicly that he did not think it possible for any power to mediate between China and Japan."

Chinese Strengthen Defenses.

Hoichow, the chief port of Hainan, has been bombed by Japanese planes and shelled by their warships. The Chinese have strengthened their defenses and trained their garrison to battle against landing attempts. Chinese newspapers have asserted French warships are stationed off Hainan, but this was denied in Paris.

A Paris foreign office spokesman confirmed the facts of Butler's parliamentary statement.

Berlin on Saturday issued the order for the recall of Ambassador Dr. Oskar Trautmann from Hankow. He was expected to leave Hankow by air today. Dr. I. Lauten Schlager will remain as German chargé d'affaires.

Though Trautmann was recalled ostensibly to report to German Foreign Minister Joachim von Ribbentrop, political observers here doubted that he would return to China. Trautmann in January failed in efforts to bring Chinese and Japanese together in peace negotiations.

Definite Break Foreseen.

Japan's insistence that any conclusion of the Chinese war must include the ousting of Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek's régime, it is believed, may lead the Germans to sever relations with Hankow soon.

Coincident with the recall of Trautmann, Berlin issued firm orders to the German military advisers to return. They include Gen. Baron Alexander von Falkenhausen and twenty-six others. They were threatened with loss of German citizenship and confiscation of their property in Germany. Some lesser German militarists already had decided to remain in China.

Earlier—on May 21—Germany had asked Gen. Chiang to release the advisers from their contracts, but he was reluctant to do so. He finally has agreed, but reserved the right to say when and how they might leave. The advisers had reserved space on the international express for today, but it was still possible that Chiang might refuse them permission to leave.

Concerned About Secrets.

The fact that vital military secrets are known to the Germans has caused concern among the Chinese.

[Berlin observers regarded the recall of Trautmann as an indication that Germany planned to break with China, branding the Chinese army as a "tool of Moscow, and thereafter recognizing the Japanese puppet Peking and Nanking régimes. It was pointed out that when Germany decided to support the rebels in Spain, she first withdrew her ambassador and broke off relations with Madrid much later. German militarists were said to be opposed to withdrawing the military advisers from China asserting "a French military mission will take over the positions the German officers developed for themselves." They also saw more hope of obtaining needed raw materials from China because Japan, too, needs them and would keep them.]

Chinese Recapture Positions.

The most active war front today was in the Yangtze valley, about 200 miles down river from Hankow. The Chinese reported the recapture of strong, hilly positions twenty miles below the great boom at Matowchen. In a sector along the north bank, near Tikiang, the Chinese were defending two strategic hills from which their guns could sweep the river when the Japanese assault the Matowchen barrier.

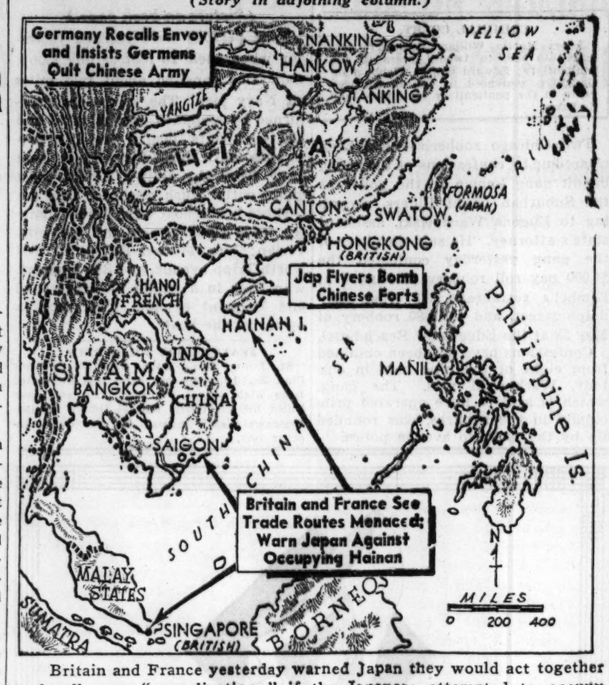
The Chinese reported that from these positions they were able to beat off two spirited attempts to land Japanese marine reinforcements. Japanese gunboats and troop transports had carried the drive upriver after the easy capture of Anking two weeks ago.

A Chinese military spokesman reported Chinese units were successfully encircling and wearing down the attacking Japanese infantrymen while Chinese airmen daily bombed Japanese naval concentrations in the river. He said three Japanese warships were severely damaged.

Japanese aerial operations against South China continued without any further sign that a major South China offensive was starting. Japanese troops were landed last week on Namoa Island, twenty miles east of Swatow. Airmen reported destruction of railroad buildings on a line connecting Swatow with Chaochow, thirty miles inland. Chaochow was bombed.

BRITAIN, FRANCE ISSUE WARNING TO JAPAN

(Story in adjoining column.)



Britain and France yesterday warned Japan they would act together to handle any "complications" if the Japanese attempted to occupy the Chinese island of Hainan which lies on the trade route to northern French Indo-China and near the sea route between Singapore and Hongkong, the great British naval bases. Berlin gave firm orders to German military advisers with the Chinese army to leave China and recalled the German ambassador.

U. S. Protests Jap Sentry's Slapping of Officer's Wife

Washington, D. C., June 27.—[Special.]—Official representations have been made by this government both to the Japanese government at Tokio and by American representatives at Tsingtao regarding the slapping of Mrs. Thomas H. Mrs. Massie was reported to have been slapped by the Japanese sentry as she stepped ashore after visiting the gunboat Tulsa, on which Lieut. Massie is stationed.

SPARKS FROM THE ARK

By CALEB

THIRTY YEARS ago one of our most popular toys was a miniature Noah's ark, complete with animals and gangplank. The hull was red, and the roof was green—and the roof swung on hinges so that (in case of rain—or bedtime) the animals could get into the ark much faster than by the gangplank.

We don't know but we have a suspicion that some of those operators of arks and keepers of animals two-by-two, may be responsible for a rather interesting and recent development in our store.

The fact is, that we still find most of Noah's four-footed passengers extremely popular—but some of them have moved now from the Toy Department into the Silverware. It all happened quite by accident, and the story (like many another) dates back to a recent presidential election.

As the campaign got under way, we displayed a number of small silver donkeys and elephants as possible souvenirs. Before they had been in the store long, it became apparent that others beside politicians were greatly interested in them. Most of the animals were bought simply because the new owner liked the miniature donkeys and elephants—and not because of political affiliation.

In addition, an insistent demand developed for other animals, and when they were added, they, too, found a warm welcome. Now we regularly keep a pretty representative menagerie in silver, and find its units growing steadily in popularity as collectors' items.

It is interesting that in this mechanized and automotive age man's absorption in his fellow animals continues undiminished. In the Toy Department various animals are still among the most popular gifts.

Among children's books "Black Beauty" still challenges the tales of inter-planetary adventure in the twenty-fifth century. The most popular Saturday stage shows in our Children's Theater always are those involving animals or birds. In the movie theater there is no surer way to bring a young audience to its feet than picturing some heroic deed of a noble horse or dog.

Although his apposable thumb, frontal cranial development and erect walking position have separated man from the other animals, he still feels for them a deep affection that assumes many and varied forms of expression. Men still make friends of all sorts of animals—and probably always will.

Indiana Trooper Dies; 1st Victim of Outlaws.

For hours the brothers sat in the rear seat of the deputies' car, guns trained on the backs of their prisoners. They forced Hahn and Kowalczyk to drive westward, following one little frequented county road after another until they neared the Illinois line. Shortly before dawn they released their captives, robbing them of guns and money and leaving them on a road near Cook, Ind.

In the deputies' car the Eastons drove westward, still on back roads, through Peotone, Ill. They followed a road running west from there to Wilmington. On that road, near Symerton, in Will county, they passed two Illinois highway policemen, William Glenney and Forest Gray.

Outdistance Illinois Police.

Glenney and Gray, suspecting these were the outlaws, turned and followed them. Clarence Easton, firing a rifle through the rear window, smashed the headlights of the police car as his brother, at the wheel, outdistanced it. The policemen's bullets scarred their car.

By sunrise their flight had taken the brothers past Wilmington and southeast to the little settlement of Ritchie. There they encountered a miner-farmer, James Novy, who was driving to deliver milk on his way to his other job in a strip coal mine. Novy looked at them suspiciously. The brothers halted him and Orelle Easton got into his car, forcing him at gun point to follow the car driven by Clarence.

Still turning and twisting on back roads, often nearly impassable with mud, the fugitives in their two cars drove east through Deselm and there turned north. At a road on the Kankakee-Will county line they turned west, while up from behind them came a car occupied by three Indiana officers, Sherif Freeman Lane of Porter county, and Chief A. C. Witter and Capt. Charles H. Gilliland of Valparaiso city police.

Alights for Gun Battle.

They were traveling in a car with a bulletproof windshield, through which Gilliland opened fire with a shotgun. The Indiana officers' car stalled. Clarence Easton stopped his car, alighted, and walked fifty yards back toward the police, firing his rifle. His brother covered him with rifle fire from the other car.

Lane stepped out and opened fire with a machine gun, which jammed. A bullet whistled past his head and he took shelter in the car. Then he and Gilliland ran out of ammunition. Orelle Easton also had emptied his rifle, and Novy, seeing this, jumped from the car and fled.

The Eastons got back into one of the cars, drove west a short distance, and turned into a muddy road leading south. When their car became mired they got out and started across the cornfields toward the Warner farm. Warner, warned that the man hunt was in progress, had taken his family and driven them to a neighbor's house a short time before.

Officers Close in on Farm.

Meanwhile Craig and Deputy Jesse Burton had started north from Kankakee on orders from Sherif John Stack. They came up behind the Indiana officers, who pointed out the stalled car of the outlaws. Supplying the Indiana men with fresh ammunition, Craig and Burton turned and raced back east, then south, then a mile west on a road which put them just south of the Warner farm. Behind them other cars of Illinois and Indiana officers were closing in.

Leaving their car, the two deputies reconnoitered from behind a tree, then moved to shelter behind the Warner barn.

Clarence Easton stepped out from behind a corncrib, rifle in hand, and opened fire. Craig shot him, once in the knee, once in the neck. He fell, shouting, "Come on, kill me." He died in a few minutes.

Orelle Easton retreated to the house. While Burton covered his advance from the barn Craig stepped forward, rifle ready, to look for the second fugitive. Orelle fired from the kitchen with a shotgun, but the slugs flew wild. Burton put a bullet through the kitchen door. It struck Easton in the shoulder and he gave up.

He was taken to the county jail at Kankakee and questioned by State's Attorney Sam Schapiro, to whom he denied firing on Dixon. His brother, he maintained, did the shooting and he drove the cars.

Dixon was taken to Holy Family hospital in La Porte Sunday night. He rallied after receiving a blood transfusion yesterday morning, but sank suddenly during the afternoon and died at 4:55 p. m.

ONCE REPRIEVED AT LAST MINUTE, HE DIES IN CHAIR

Indiana Executes British Subject for Slaying.

Michigan City, Ind., June 28 [Tuesday].—[Special.]—Robert Shaw, convicted murderer, who was saved from execution Thursday night by a dramatic last minute reprieve, was electrocuted early today in the Indiana state prison here.

The killer, a British subject by virtue of his birth in Canada, was led to the chair at 1:04 a. m. following a day of Bible reading and pacing in the death house. He had expected no further aid and none was forthcoming.

Delayed by Warden.

The condemned man's life was saved temporarily by the unprecedented intercession of Alfred Dowd, the prison warden, who took office only six weeks ago. Asserting he was not certain as to the legality of a death sentence imposed on a plea of guilty and without a jury trial, Dowd induced Gov. M. Clifford Townsend to grant a short stay.

The governor ordered Attorney General Omer S. Jackson to make a personal investigation of the case and ascertain whether Shaw's conviction was proper under the law. He ruled the slayer was sentenced to death properly, and the execution again was ordered.

British Consul Intercedes.

Canadian friends of Shaw and Lewis E. Bernays, British consul general in Chicago, interceded for him last week, but their efforts were unavailing.

Shaw, 27 years old, shot and killed Deputy Sherif Harry E. Spice near La Grange last Dec. 3 when being sought as a robber suspect. He was captured the next day after he had fought off a posse of 60 men for a time.

After his arrest, Shaw admitted robberies in Indiana, Ohio, Michigan, and Canada. He killed Spice when he was trying to escape after holding up a grocery clerk at Kendallville, Ind.

SOLVE 2 HOLDUPS AS 'SUBURB NIGHT RIDERS' CONFESS

CRIMINAL COURT.

James Martin Williams, robbery, sentenced to one to twenty years in the penitentiary; Edward George Webb, manslaughter, sentenced to one to fourteen years in the penitentiary by Judge John C. Lewe.

Two Chicago robberies have been cleared up by confessions of the young bandit gang known to the police as the Suburban Night Riders, according to Eugene Wachowski, assistant state's attorney. He said members of the gang yesterday confessed the $1,000 pay roll robbery of June 7 at Gimbel's restaurant, 30 West Randolph street, and the $80 robbery of May 28 at the Edgewater Beach hotel.

Confessions have now been obtained from eight of the nine men in custody, Wachowski said. The gang, which is said to have operated principally in the suburbs, was rounded up by the Chicago avenue police.

Four persons were rescued yesterday when their 18 foot sailing sloop, Cape Cod capsized about two miles off Navy pier. The sloop was overturned by a sudden gust of wind and the occupants floated on life preservers until picked up by a boat crew from the United States coast guard cutter Rush, anchored near by.

Those in the boat were Tom Thompson, 5642 Eddy street, and his wife, Vivian; Mrs. Marvel Robinson, 3837 North Tripp avenue, and Roy Bogaert, who lives in a trailer at River road and Belmont avenue. Thompson is owner of the boat.

RAIN MARS FETE ON SITE OF FIRST SWEDISH COLONY

Roosevelt Wades Mud to Welcome Royal Party.

BY WALTER TROHAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Hyde Park, N. Y., June 27.—[Special.]—President Roosevelt returned tonight to his boyhood home on the east bank of the Hudson river at the close of a dreary day.

A driving downpour which set in late yesterday when the President arrived at the Wilmington estate of Eugene du Pont, father of the bride of his third son, Franklin Jr., marred his participation in the 300th anniversary of the founding of a Swedish colony in Delaware.

Continuance of the rain forced him to postpone plans to attend the intercollegiate regatta at Poughkeepsie, N. Y. Instead of leaving his special for the presidential yacht Potomac near Poughkeepsie, Mr. Roosevelt ordered his train on to Hyde Park, where he went directly to his estate.

Stormbound in du Pont Home.

Throughout a drizzly morning Mr. Roosevelt looked from the windows of the Owl's Nest, the du Pont home, hoping for a break in the weather. As the hour neared for his part in the day's festivities Mr. Roosevelt donned his frock coat and set off for the rocks where Swedish and Finnish colonists landed to found New Sweden in 1638.

The chief executive arrived at the rocks more than two hours behind his original schedule. Rain sweeping over the Christiana river, named after Queen Christiana in whose reign the colony was founded, seeped through his frock coat and dripped from his top hat.

The two hour delay was due mainly to trouble in docking the stormbound liner Kungsholm, bearing Crown Prince Gustav Adolf and Crown Princess Louise of Sweden. A kidney ailment kept the crown prince confined to his quarters, but he was represented at the ceremony by his son, Bertil, a tall, handsome youth.

President Wades Mud.

The presidential shoes were thick with mud, gathered in a brief trek to the speaking stand, from which he accepted a monument of the ship of the Swedish-Finnish colonists for the people of the United States.

In his speech Mr. Roosevelt acknowledged the gift of the Swedish people to this country and lauded Finland for payment in full of her post-war obligations to this country. Finland stands alone among debtor nations as settling her debt twice a year to the last penny.

"And to you who are here as representatives of the people of Finland," he said, "I extend an equally hearty welcome. Men and women from Finland also have contributed to our American civilization. Finland, small in size but mighty in honor, occupies an especially warm place in the American heart."

Ancestor Ruler of Colony.

In his brief remarks Mr. Roosevelt put Swedish blood in his veins by proxy. He asserted that one of his ancestors, William Beekman, served as vice director or governor of the colony of New Sweden on the Delaware river from 1658 to 1663. He did not mention that the Dutch—including Mr. Beekman—captured New Sweden by force of arms in 1655.

Mr. Roosevelt will remain at Hyde Park the rest of the week. He will make a brief motor foray on June 30 to make two dedicatory speeches on the site of the New York 1939 world's fair. On his return to Washington before his transcontinental swing, which will begin July 7, he will pause at Gettysburg on Sunday to speak on the seventy-fifth anniversary of the final day of that great civil war battle.

Bicyclist Pedals Himself to Court by Running Light

BARBARA DENIES SEPARATION SUIT HAS BEEN FILED

LONDON, June 27.—(AP)—Countess Barbara Hutton Haugwitz-Reventlow denied at her London home tonight reports circulating in Copenhagen that a petition for separation from her Danish husband had been filed in Danish courts.

The Daily Mail said the Woolworth heiress declared she had "no knowledge of any such steps." Henning Repsdorph, the Danish lawyer whom the countess summoned to London, stated the count and his $40,000,000 heiress wife would have a legal separation soon, the newspaper said.

Repsdorph said no action would be taken until he returned to Denmark. He pointed out judicial separation was very different from a final divorce. "If neither the count nor countess petitions for divorce in addition to separation they would remain separated—but not divorced—for life unless further legal steps are taken," he said. In any event the countess would have custody of the 2 year old son, Lance, until he is 18.

$228,911 Is Paid County by Sweitzer Bondsmen

A check for $228,911, covering a portion of the shortage of Robert M. Sweitzer as county clerk, reached County Treasurer Horace G. Lindheimer yesterday afternoon. The county won a judgment of $269,126 from the United States Fidelity and Guarantee company, Sweitzer's surety, in a Circuit court suit, but the smaller amount was agreed on as a compromise.

Case of Four Continued Until July 13.

State investigators last night were preparing to go before the grand jury in the next few days to seek indictments against four persons for sales tax fraud. The four were charged in Felony court yesterday with conspiracy to defraud the state of approximately $46,000 by making false retailers' occupation tax returns. The court case was continued to July 13.

The defendants are Edward F. Petrak, 1413 South 58th court, Cicero, and his uncle, James J. Petrak, 2337 53d avenue, Cicero, owners of a chain of meat markets in Chicago and Berwyn; Joseph Murray, 2414 North Leclaire avenue, former investigator for the state department of finance and now employed in the city collector's office, and Herbert Bachman, 4701 North Kilbourn avenue, a pickle salesman.

False Bookkeeping Told.

The Petraks confessed to investigators that they had deceived collectors for the finance department by keeping a false set of books. They alleged that Murray had pointed out how to arrange the spurious set of books and that Bachman each month assisted in compiling fictitious figures.

The Petraks were seized Saturday after several weeks of investigation by Attorney Thomas J. Bugan of the finance department and Gus Bartels, special investigator for State's Attorney Courtney. The investigation disclosed that the Petraks had not paid sales tax since last September and had paid but one-tenth of the amount due the state from Jan. 1, 1934, to Sept. 1, 1937. The Petraks did a gross business of between $500,000 and $750,000 in their five stores annually, it was said.

Original Books Found.

Mr. Bugan said the original set of books had been found and were being audited to learn the exact amount that still is due the state.

The finance department has used receivership action in many cases in the past to collect occupational taxes. Attorney Bugan indicated this procedure may be used unless the shortage is paid. The Petraks did not know whether they could pay the back tax, they said.

The investigators admitted that the accounts of 186 other merchants are being examined for fraudulent sales tax returns.

Twelve suits to collect delinquent state sales tax, none of them connected with the present investigation, were filed yesterday in Circuit court by Mortimer Porges, assistant attorney general. The amounts asked ranged from $97.99 to $2,625.

LABOR BOARD AID RULES OUT C. I. O. ELECTION CHARGE

Holds Franchise Rights Cannot Be Abridged.

Catlettsburg, Ky., June 27.—[Special.]—A National Labor Relations board examiner today dismissed C. I. O. charges that the American Rolling Mill company had interfered with municipal elections at Ashland, Ky.

Examiner George Bokat erased the charges from the record after Donald R. Richberg, former NRA administrator, chief of counsel for the company, pointed out that the accusations were flagrantly unconstitutional.

Richberg declared that if such charges were permitted to stand every person whose business is subject to the Wagner labor act would be intimidated by threat of prosecution when he participated in an election.

Must Leave Ballot Box Free.

"The National Labor Relations board must keep its hands off the ballot box," Richberg told the examiner, pounding with his fist for emphasis. "It must not molest a free press or throttle free speech.

"The board has no authority, either directly or indirectly, to call in question the constitutional right of any citizen or person, including the respondent, to participate in any election for public office.

"The national labor relations act, if so construed and applied, is to that extent unconstitutional, since congress is without power to abridge the right of suffrage or free speech."

In permitting such charges to be made, Richberg declared, the board had failed to observe the fundamental differences of acts of an employer as an employer and his acts as a citizen.

Would Abridge Rights.

"If it should be conceded," Richberg said, "that such activities come within the jurisdiction of the board, then freedom of speech, freedom of publication, freedom of suffrage for every representative of management, whose business is subject to the act, would be circumscribed.

The charge was one of several brought against the Middletown, O., company regarding operation of its Ashland steel plant. The complaint was filed by the Ashland unit of the Steel Workers Organizing committee, an affiliate of the C. I. O.

The complainants said the company campaigned against Ashland candidates for municipal offices who had expressed union sympathies. Richberg said the complaint was without precedent.

Teller Admits Shortage of $455; Held to U. S. Jury

Benjamin J. Re, 26 years old, a teller at the Liberty National bank, Kedzie avenue and Roosevelt road, was held to the federal grand jury yesterday by United States Commissioner Edwin K. Walker for embezzling $445. He admitted the shortage and said betting on horseraces took most of it. Re lives at 7627 Monroe street, Forest Park.

N. U. PROFESSOR ASSAILS LEGION; WINS A DEGREE

Educators Are Urged to Shun "Fascists."

New York, June 27. — (AP) — The American Legion was denounced as Fascist and unpatriotic today in a 280 page survey of the veterans' organization published by teachers' college of Columbia university. The monograph was prepared by Prof. William Gellermann of Northwestern university for the annual convention of the National Education association.

William Gellermann.

Gellermann assailed the rôle played by the Legion in the educational, economic, and political life of the nation and called on school officials to cease pandering to it. Columbia university awarded the Northwestern faculty member a doctor of philosophy degree on the basis of his study.

Speaks for Business.

"The American Legion is not an expression of democratic ideals, but rather an expression of entrenched business and military interests which attempts to hide their true purposes under democratic guise," the survey said.

"Its intolerance and persecution of those who advocate change, in the name of those very rights which the American Legion itself substantially destroys, is Fascism in fact, and should be opposed with all the vigor at the disposal of American educators.

Gellermann said the organization was dominated by a small group of reactionary leaders, too powerful to be unseated.

"In the promotion of Fascism and war, the American Legion has done more than its share," he said.

Author's Charge Ridiculous.

Jeremiah F. Cross, New York state legion commander, said Gellermann's study sounded like a communist brain child.

In Woburn, Mass., Daniel J. Doherty, national commander of the legion, disputed the survey's contention the legion was not representative of American veterans.

"Many of our institutions of higher learning," he said, "instead of being sources of patriotism, are hotbeds of communism for the dissemination of theories and philosophies of government which are entirely alien to the American concept and American principles under which we have prospered more than a century and a half as no other people."

AT N. U. FOUR YEARS.

Dr. William Gellermann, professor of sociology and education, has been at Northwestern university for the last four years. He is 41 years old and single.

Gellermann said that he joined the navy toward the close of the world war and did not see overseas fighting. He has been a legionnaire for sixteen years, having become a member of a post in Kent, he said.

WAGE AND HOUR BILL SIGNED BY PRESIDENT AMONG 131 MEASURES

Washington, D. C., June 27.—[Special.]—The wage and hour bill, by which the federal government will attempt to regulate working conditions in all industries in interstate commerce, became law Saturday when President Roosevelt affixed his signature, the White House announced today.

This law was one of 121 approved Saturday night, plus ten signed Friday night. Among the other important laws approved were the new food and drug act, the $279,000,000 deficiency bill, and an act placing 15,000 postmasters of the first, second, and third classes under civil service.

NO MEAN BLOWS.

Mr. Roosevelt's plea for argument without mean blows suffered in his own words, in his fireside chat of last week, when he said: "Do not let any calamity howling executive with an income of $1,000 a day who has been turning his employés over to the government relief rolls in order to preserve his company's undistributed reserves—using his stockholders' money to pay the postage for his personal opinions—tell you that a wage of $11 a week is going to have a disastrous effect on all American industry."

A slow motion picture of that paragraph would reveal the shooting of about as many mean blows as could be packed in one sentence. There are very few thousand dollar a day executives and none who has been howling that $11 a week is an adequate salary for any of his employés. Before Mr. Roosevelt could turn his arguments into mean blows he first had to invent the object of his attack.

It may be aside the point to note in passing that the chief beneficiary of any such salary is the federal income tax collector. The United States treasury is the inactive partner in all such gainful occupations and takes a good deal more than a 50-50 split of what the executive earns. He is working more for the government than he is for himself, his family, and his heirs.

The purpose of the President's remark was to promote animosities and hatred. It was further to create classes of American citizens on a basis of income and make as many people as possible believe that the highest paid men earn their money only by doing gross injustice to every one they hire.

The executive who might fall within the category of those opposing $11 a week wages would be a peanut stand operator who would not want to pay more than that wage to an assistant. This proprietor, however, would not be a good target for a political attack which sought to create invidious class distinctions. The opposition to the wage and hour bill in congress came almost entirely from members of Mr. Roosevelt's political party in the south. They have been New Dealers, but many of them opposed the rates as well as the principle of wage and hour fixing.

Low wages are an economic advantage to southern industry, which insists upon maintaining a differential and paying less than is paid in the north. Mr. Roosevelt attacks the northern industrialists, where wages are higher than those proposed in the law, and skips the fact that it was southern New Dealers who put up the fight against it. In his chat he also said that by mean blows he meant misrepresentation, personal attack, and appeals to prejudice, and said that the man who strikes such mean blows admits that his ideas have given out.

Mr. Roosevelt may be a bit over a thousand dollar a day executive, in salary, general income, perquisites, and expense allowances. He has the White House and its upkeep free. The government gives him a yacht which yesterday was up in the Hudson for his convenience in watching the boat races. He uses battle cruisers for fishing boats and special trains for his travels. He has three houses—his New York town house, the Hyde Park estate, and a place at Warm Springs—not to speak of Campobello on the Canadian coast. With the use of state papers he is a successful author. His autograph in a campaign book will bring $250 for a $2.50 copy.

When he enters a political campaign the United States treasury enters with him. He has been the country's executive five years and four months. He has twelve million unemployed and a debt of thirty-eight billion dollars. He is now beginning a congressional election campaign and the spending of five billion dollars.

In private enterprise an executive who had such a record would need the wages and hours law. He wouldn't be worth $11 a week. But no private executive could make such a record. He wouldn't be given the time to do it. He would have been living on his in-laws five years ago.

HONORS FOR TWEEDSMUIR.

Lord Tweedsmuir, governor-general of Canada, has received honorary degrees in the last few weeks from both Yale and Harvard. In a wise and witty talk at an alumni luncheon at New Haven he said he had reverted to the customs of his Scottish ancestors; he has raided across the border. When he returned home it would not be with empty hands.

It is not of record that the English surrendered their sheep to Lord Tweedsmuir's ancestors with much enthusiasm. It was quite otherwise so far as Yale and Harvard were concerned. They felt they were honoring themselves in conferring their sheepskins upon him. As an historical scholar, as a literary man, and as a public official he has long enjoyed the respect and admiration of men and women in this country.

The conferring of honorary degrees provides one of the few means we have in this country of expressing appreciation of public service and international good will. From both points of view the selection of Lord Tweedsmuir was an admirable one. Harvard and Yale are to be congratulated upon their happy choice.

STRENGTHENING THE DYNASTY.

The Wisconsin Supreme court has just made two remarkable decisions, one justifying Gov. La Follette in appointing a lieutenant governor and the other legalizing the W. D. A., a private corporation operating on state funds to promote the public ownership of utilities and known locally as the little TVA.

By whatever reasoning the court reached its conclusions the decisions themselves are popularly accepted as evidence that the court is well trained. Justice John D. Wickhem, in writing the majority opinion, hints at the influence of the election returns in his reference to the "pressure the complexities of modern life have put on governmental agencies and the demand that relief be sought by delegating to private groups some of the functions of government."

The little TVA decision was by a court divided, 4 to 3. It reversed a recent unanimous decision that W. D. A. was an invalid delegation of executive power to a private corporation. Justice Chester A. Fowler, in his dissenting opinion, clearly recognized the political character back of the W. D. A.

"To me it seems clear," he wrote, "that even as interpreted by the majority opinion of the court on rehearing, the act appropriates public money for the advocacy of the principles of a political party.

"It is no function of government to preach against privately owned and operated utilities. It is propaganda as distinguished from dissemination of information. In effect, it advocates the beliefs of part of the people as correct and the beliefs of another part of the people as incorrect."

Previous to the present decision the procedure by which Philip La Follette landed one of his own political intimates in the second office in the state would have been regarded not only as illegal but abhorrent.

La Follette first created the vacancy by promoting Henry A. Gunderson, the elected official, to a better paying appointive job. Then after a short interval he filled the job by appointing Ekern as lieutenant governor. The possibilities are infinite.

For his authority La Follette went to a reviser's statute enacted in 1921, a statute at best of doubtful legality and in apparent contradiction to the procedure contemplated by the constitution. It was a purely political appointment aimed to strengthen the La Follette dynasty, which had given clear signs of coming apart since the last session of the legislature. If La Follette thinks of retiring from the executive office to stage manage his National Progressives, he with the help of the state Supreme court has created his own succession. Surely such intrigue was far from the thought of the writers of Wisconsin's constitution or even of the legislature which enacted the statute of 1921.

Wisconsin has had much to be proud of in the history of its Supreme court and few decisions that invited either criticism or explanation. Perhaps it is an inherent weakness of an elective judiciary that its ear is too close to popular clamor.

It would be deplorable for Wisconsin and for free government everywhere if a Supreme court were to lose its independence and let its decisions be based on current public opinion rather than on the right and on the law.

A LIBERAL HELPING.

Senator Barkley, laden with choice gifts, has returned to his native Kentucky and to his struggle for renomination in his state's imminent primaries. The gifts came out of the federal treasury and the taxpayers' pockets, but the senator is reported to be hoping that the bountiful largess will be none the less welcome to his Blue Grass constituents.

Barkley, "Dear Alben" and senate leader, is the current darling of the administration and there are evidences that it wants above everything else just now to procure his renomination over his rambunctious opponent, Gov. Happy Chandler. Is it any wonder that when the billions were allotted recently for the federal spending spree Dear Alben fared very well?

A few figures out of the closing days of congress: Of the pump priming 5 or so billions, Kentucky seems to have been awarded 300 million dollars—an estimated $100 for each resident, although it will not be distributed in just that way and some of it is to be spent over a period of years. At any rate it is three times the generously allotted amount per capita for the people of the entire nation.

There is charm, even eloquence, in those funds—a campaign argument to combat the glowing phrases of Gov. Chandler, who is reputed to have had Barkley on the run and badly frightened. But now, who knows?

Flood control in Kentucky's hills and valleys evidently is a passion of Barkley's; he got $132,000,000 for that, about a third of the total appropriated for the whole country. And, though once blocked in congress, Kentucky's projected Gilbertville dam was slipped through to passage in the last days of the recent session. That will cost the people of the United States $112,000,000, but it is expected to help Barkley a lot in his campaign.

WPA, PWA, Federal Housing, and CCC will put 50 or 60 millions into the state during the next year and in addition Kentucky will get new postoffices and plenty in farm benefit checks.

All in all—and why not?—the political skies are brighter for the administration's fair haired boy in the state of blue grass, blooded horses, and bourbon.

ST. LOUIS ADOPTS CINCINNATI.

[St. Louis Post-Dispatch.]

The impetus of gratitude turns our gaze toward Cincinnati, the country's best governed city, so the experts say. Always a comfortable, homey town, the bustle of its central confusion melts quickly into the gentility of suburban spaciousness, bordered by the blue hills of Kentucky. And just look at its baseball team! In third place, a wafer's margin behind the runner-up Cubs, and headed for glory, unless the pranky stars in their courses are spoofing us.

By the fine tenets of good neighbor philosophy we of St. Louis ought to be pulling hard for the Cincinnati Reds. How nobly they stood by our Cardinals of the great days! They were, in the vernacular, our "cousins." They contributed handsomely to our winning percentage. They helped superbly to make us what we were.

And now that the greatest Cardinal team since Alexander Hamilton was secretary of the treasury [Branch Rickey pontificating] is one with the petunias and poinsettias—now that the Gas House Gang has furled its flags and toddled softly into the penumbra of innocuous desuetude, or something just as bad, why should we not adopt Cincinnati for the season and follow Bill McKechnie's warriors to the pennant, if it takes all summer?

A man with a violent case of the shakes asked the bartender for a double brandy and soda. He drank it with difficulty, using a handkerchief as a pully to get the contents of the glass to his mouth without spilling it. Then, still shaking, he ordered a second double brandy and soda.

"By the way, Charlie, what are you doing now?" inquired the barkeep as his customer put down his glass.

"Repairing watches," came the answer.

No title for such a movie was mentioned, so I suggest my own which follows:

The Woods theater building is the stronghold of booking agents, music publishers, and song pluggers, but after 6:30 in the evening they're likely to be still in their offices playing a game called klabiasch. They say it's a Hungarian game, but Hungarians say it's not a Hungarian word, nor are the terms used in scoring combinations—yasch, minel, and bela Hungarian words. It's a stiff gambling game. George Jessel is a klabiasch addict; so is Ben Bernie. In the days when Bernie was in Chicago his games used to run as high as $1,000 a game. Perhaps he gave up klabiasch for the horses.

Any social distinctions between booking agents, music publishers or song pluggers? we inquired of a Woods building tenant. "No, they're all busy trying to chisel a nickel," was the answer, "usually the same nickel."

CHICAGO.

(From the Manchester Guardian of May 31, by its scientific correspondent.)

Chicago is more unique than typical. The avenue along Lake Michigan is rich and enormous. It is protected by concrete promenades from the waves which break on the shore in rough weather. There are stretches of sand, and the aspect is that of an open sea. The weather is exceptionally windy. Behind the wonderful front there are areas of fantastic slums. These look like piles of magnified poultry shanties, but inhabited by human beings. They are made of bits of wood and corrugated iron and are as black from soot as the buildings of Newcastle-upon-Tyne. Then there are the extraordinary wooden stockyards, which look cleaner. The Chicago water supply is chlorinated in order to reduce infections, but so heavily that it makes the gums sore. The transport system is slow, owing to the lack of a subway.

The policies of Mr. R. M. Hutchins, the president of the Chicago university, are exciting much controversy in the United States. He is a tall, handsome man of 38 years. He has severely criticized the superficiality of higher learning in the United States, and has espoused the teaching of classical and mediæval philosophy as the antidote. In conversation he has a masterful personality. He combines earnestness with joy of combat. His criticisms of the cultural limitations of scientists are shrewd and provoking and demonstrate unanswerably that educational changes are necessary. He appears to agree with the principles of the Oxford classical tradition, but he interprets them in a direct American way very different from the indirectness of the Oxford spirit.

CHAULMOOGRA OIL IN ARTHRITIS.

THERE seems to be no end to the number of remedies proposed for the relief of chronic arthritis. The symptoms are so distressing, the results often so crippling that victims, even physicians, are willing to grasp at straws. We understand also that a method valuable with one patient may be useless with another.

We have heard many persons describe unique "cures," such as carrying a buckeye in one's pocket, wearing a ring fashioned from a horseshoe nail, or encircling the body with an electric belt. If improvement occurred, it was purely a coincidence. I know of no virtue in buckeyes other than to recall to our minds the great state of Ohio, and not even this gentle reminder is conveyed by horseshoe nails or electric belts.

Now comes the report that physicians engaged in treating cases of leprosy have noted that arthritis is practically unknown among sufferers from this ancient malady. Because of this observation it was determined to ascertain the influence upon arthritis of the popular remedy for leprosy—chaulmoogra oil. During the trial periods all other measures were discontinued, diet was disregarded, and foci of infection—even though they existed—were not disturbed.

D. W. Smith and others studied 65 cases managed according to this plan. In the great majority alleviation of discomfort occurred in those with the so-called atrophic type of the disease. In some the results were so rapid and so striking that the preparation is recommended by these authors until something better appears. On the other hand, the hypertrophic form [that which comes on late in life and which advances slowly] was affected little if at all.

Among the cases cited is that of a 30 year old woman who exhibited atrophic symptoms involving both hands, wrists, elbows, and the left knee. Disability had persisted for five years to the point where she was unable to comb her hair without assistance. Five injections of approximately one teaspoonful of chaulmoogra oil were given within the first month. After the third dose there was marked improvement, complete cessation of pain after the fourth, and, following the fifth, increased movements of the joints were apparent. In two or three months fingers and wrists returned to normal, although the enlarged knuckles persisted.

A year or two later, after a pregnancy, there was a return of distress until the patient was in the same condition as when first seen. The injections were repeated at weekly intervals, whereupon she regained her strength and was quite herself seven months later. She has since remained well.

Another case, that of a woman aged 55, presented trouble in both hands, wrists, elbows, shoulders, and knees. All the joints were swollen and painful, and motion was limited. The ailment had progressed slowly for the last six years. No clear cut signs of a focus of infection could be found. Nevertheless tonsils were removed, one or two suspicious teeth extracted, and a course of vaccine therapy instituted without the slightest evidence that the disease had been arrested. The patient received ten injections of the oil covering a period of approximately two months. All signs disappeared after the eighth, although there was considerable limitation of movement, particularly of the hands. She now has no pain and joint flexibility is increasing.

Thirteen of the fifteen patients with atrophic arthritis were helped materially. Of the two cases which proved refractory, each was afflicted with heart disease, and such benefit as resulted from the employment of the oil was followed by a relapse within two months. Thirty-three had signs of what is known as mixed arthritis—not typical of either atrophic or hypertrophic. In 55 per cent, distress was eliminated and 42 per cent became somewhat better.

We may say then that we are dealing with a drug the action of which is not clear; but it appears to be effective in some cases of mixed arthritis and positively so in the atrophic variety. No small amount of skill is required in its administration.

VISITING TUBERCULOSIS PATIENT.

M. O. writes: What precautions should be taken on visiting a patient in a tuberculosis sanitarium?

REPLY.

Patients in tuberculosis sanitaria are taught how to avoid spreading infection. Do not allow the patient to cough in your face and make no contact with the patient's skin, particularly the lips. Shaking hands is permissible if you wash your hands thoroughly at the conclusion of the visit.

ACT WITH DOCTOR.

Mrs. E. C. writes: I have asthma and would like to take wheat germ oil as you suggested in an article, but I am allergic to wheat in all forms. What would you advise?

REPLY.

Under your physician's direction, you may try the oil cautiously—a fraction of a drop to begin with, gradually increasing the dose.

YOU'RE REALLY LUCKY.

R. O. writes: I never perspire. What is wrong with me?

REPLY.

You do perspire. If you did not you would be ill. What you mean is that although your skin is throwing off a large amount of moisture, it is not noticeable. You are lucky.

MAY AFFECT BRAIN.

N. S. writes: Is it possible to have tuberculosis in the brain or head? If so, would operation be successful?

REPLY.

Tuberculosis may attack the meninges [coverings of the brain]. The resulting malady is called tuberculous meningitis. The outlook is serious.

MAY AFFECT EARS.

E. T. writes: Can nasal douches affect the hearing?

REPLY.

The careless use of nasal douches, with the ensuing gargling, coughing, and expectoration, may force material up the Eustachian tubes into the middle ear spaces. Any temporary closure of this canal will dull the hearing for the time being.

TIME MAY HEAL.

B. T. writes: Can anything be done to remove scars from the face of a child—the result of chickenpox?

REPLY.

Many of these pits will disappear in time. If a noticeable blemish remains it may be repaired by a skilled surgeon.

A BRIEF PARAPHRASE.

Peoria, Ill., June 25.—Paraphrase of a portion of our President's Friday night radio address: Do not let any bloody-shirt-waving politician with an income of $1,000 a day [see recent issue of Commentator] who has poured out the taxpayers' money like water, ostensibly for relief but actually in order to preserve his party [not the Democratic party] in power—using more millions of taxpayers' money to publicize his personal opinions—tell you anything about the problems of an executive in meeting a pay roll. Unfortunately for business as a whole, and therefore for the nation, that type of politician's name is legion.

EMERSON T. ANTHONY.

A REAL AID TO STUDENTS.

Community High School, Blue Island, Ill., June 22.—I wish to congratulate you upon the series of articles in your Sunday Feature Section on Popular Science, by Dr. Ference. During the school session my high school students have found these articles excellent for study of principles applied in every day life. Not only are these well explained as to development [or history] of the principles themselves, but the practical applications in modern life have been doubly valuable to my students, most of whom will never have the opportunity to attend college and whose high school days are too brief to allow full study of the fundamentals which provide us with practically all our modern living conveniences and necessities.

The science classes have made a collection of these articles and many purchase your Sunday papers especially to get them. Could we obtain these articles in book or pamphlet form? One suggestion to you would be that these articles be printed in such form in your paper that the clipping would more conveniently fit the regular laboratory notebook of students, say the average 8 by 12 inches. The present form of the articles makes it somewhat difficult to mount these to read consecutively column by column in the notebooks, as the columns are longer than the pages of the books. VESTA C. HICKS,

Curriculum Coördinator and Science Teacher.

TOWNSENDITES CONVENE.

Wilmington, Ill., June 25.—Have you news hounds not heard of a certain meeting in Los Angeles this week? The railroads made concessions to the goers and hotels of Los Angeles are crowded with them. From every state in the Union thousands of people have traveled, mostly through Chicago, converging on Los Angeles for one of the most important conventions ever held in America and your paper has not a scrap of news about it. I refer to the third national Townsend convention.

Welcomed by both the governor of the state and the mayor of the city, indorsed by primary candidates of several states, and backed by thousands of clubs and independent voters, it has not a word of notice from you.

Is this the antithesis of a scoop, or is it a conspiracy of silence? Stop playing politics and give us the news.

M. H. M.

A KINDLY POLICEMAN.

Chicago, June 25.—We want to thank Officer Frank [Patsy] Wagner and let the people of Chicago know how we were treated.

My mother was taken very ill on a north bound bus Sunday night and we had to leave the bus at Foster and Sheridan road, where Officer Wagner is on duty. I asked him to please call a taxicab for us, but none was in sight, and he immediately handed the keys of his own car to a young man friend of his, and asked him to drive us home.

We want the public to know about the efficiency of the Chicago police department. BARBARA COMER.

PUBLIC SCHOOLS OUR KEYSTONE.

Chicago, June 24.—The articles appearing in THE TRIBUNE on the smaller colleges have been illuminating. They have emphasized the advantages the smaller college offers over the larger universities. It is to be hoped these colleges will endure and continue to serve the young people fortunate enough to want, have, and use the benefits a college education gives. We know these colleges have for the last few years carried on under heavy financial difficulties. It is because of this financial situation that persons, otherwise skeptical, are supporting the Harrison-Fletcher bill introduced in congress during the session just ended. However, because of certain provisions in this bill, let us ask ourselves if any private institution of learning should be supported at the expense of our public schools? I am sure that many persons supporting this bill do not realize that such support, if successful, would be the beginning of the destruction of our tax supported free public schools.

The public schools have made America the democratic, liberal country it is today, and any movement to weaken them means the demolition of the type of government under which today we still enjoy the freedom our forbears fought for and which is guaranteed us under the constitution.

Many of these colleges are sectarian in that they are supported by sectarian churches, and it is hoped such support will continue to be given. However, let us face the facts and realize that if public tax moneys for free public schools are diverted to aid private schools, we immediately have a coalition of church and state. As worthy as these and other private schools are, we must not allow present exigencies to blot out the greater danger unless the majority of our people want to return to the slavery of the dark ages. JENNIE L. TYLER.

NOISES AND NIT-WITS.

Chicago, June 24.—May you succeed in your war against the noises now needlessly branding our city as the abode of nit-wits. This is the wish, I am certain, of the majority of Chicago's citizens. Unfortunately I live on Michigan boulevard and work at Jackson and La Salle streets. Unless I change my place of abode soon there will be one more inmate in the nearest insane asylum. Michigan boulevard has become a mecca for the crazy bus driver and automobile owner, as horns honk night and day, buses grind and mufflers howl, until one of ordinary makeup can hardly stand the noise. Why is not there some supervision of this unnecessary evil?

Mayor Kelly is busy rushing around in circles in an apparent endeavor to bring Chicago to the notice of the tourists now so present in our town; but why not make their stay happy by arresting these noise makers and forcing the Illinois Central to electrify? True, some of us might change our living quarters. But why? Are a few nit-wits and aliens going to dictate to us where we shall work and live? H. H.

DEPLORABLE.

Chicago, June 26.—The controversy over the mysterious Barry only serves to demonstrate the tragedy that men who by their own or their parents' efforts have obtained the privilege of calling themselves Americans still prefer to be known as foreigners. No wonder we have fourteen million unemployed.

OTTO MCMURPHY.

A PLACE TO LIVE.

Evanston, Ill., June 24.—In reply to H. G. A.'s letter, a notice that no mention is made of the possibility of his cherubs playing in their own back yard. I assume he is trying to have a garden and shrubs as we are. He even may be trying to grow a little grass, as we have tried to do.

For several years we lived in a suburb of New York City next to a vacant lot, without annoyance. Consequently we did not hesitate to rent a house here with a vacant lot adjacent to our living rooms. Obviously there is a noticeable lack of well bred children here in even the so-called best communities.

One Sunday morning not long ago I heard a father shout to his children:

"Go on out, go on! Can't you see I am trying to read the paper? Stop making that noise in here."

Is that selfishness?

We, too, are trying to read our paper in our home, but we live next to a vacant lot. In short, they throw them out and we are to take them in.

It is a deplorable situation when one is unable to come out of his house without meeting a barrage of cat calls from the children, who use such names as I presume the parents use. What sort of citizens can we expect to have when children are not taught respect or consideration for their elders, their property, or their peace? H. C. G.

MAKING OF WILL.

Chicago, June 24.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—1. Is it legal to have a wife living in Indiana come to Chicago and have a will drawn up?

2. Can the husband claim the wife's home in Indiana if the property is only in the wife's name and she passes on before her husband?

3. What is the smallest amount a wife in Indiana must leave her husband to make a will legal?

4. Can her husband draw up a will stating that his wife will not get any of the money he has, or is the Indiana law such that it is legal to disinherit his wife? H. W.

1. Yes, but since the will should comply with the law of the state where the testatrix resides at the time of her death, it would seem possible that the job might be better done by an Indiana than by an Illinois attorney.

2. Depends on whether she leaves a will and on whether there are other heirs.

3. We advise the employment of an Indiana attorney in the drafting of the will.

4. You have not given us the facts as to the residence of the parties.

FIREWORKS SOLD TO CHILDREN ON FRINGE OF CITY

Promise Strict Regulation for Roadside Stands.

Merchants of death and injury started their annual sale of fireworks to Chicagoland children yesterday. Roadside stands were opened in unincorporated areas of the county by those seeking to profit from the sale of the deadly playthings.

State law prohibits the sale of fireworks except during the period from June 27 to July 4. Nearly all the incorporated areas around Chicago and the city itself have local ordinances barring the sale of the explosives at any time.

Chief Lester Laird of the highway police issued orders that none of the stands was to be erected within 30 feet of any highway in the county or within 50 feet of a gasoline station. A tour of the northern part of the county disclosed fireworks stands disregarding these orders.

Stands Border Highway.

Two large stands were within ten feet of Milwaukee avenue in the small unincorporated area between the Chicago city limits and the city limits of Niles. Both of these flimsy shacks, each about forty feet long, were built along the inner edge of a sidewalk bordering the highway.

In No Man's land, the unincorporated area on Sheridan road between Wilmette and Kenilworth, a large shack at the north end of the area was within ten or fifteen feet of the west side of the highway. Another shack farther south in the same area was within 25 feet of the eastern edge of the highway and was built at the edge of a gasoline station.

A third stand, housed in a permanent building, was also at the edge of a gasoline station driveway.

"Those stands will be ordered to move immediately," Chief Laird said. "My order meant 30 feet from the edge of the highway and 50 feet from the driveways of gasoline stations."

Two Escape Injury.

Children from the suburbs rode bicycles to reach the stands and make small purchases. Two small children narrowly escaped injury when larger boys threw giant firecrackers into a field where they were playing.

A message commending the fight for a "safe and sane" Fourth of July was received yesterday by the Illinois Society for the Prevention of Blindness from Miss Helen Keller, the most famous blind woman in the world.

The Greater Chicago Safety council issued a list of ten easy ways to be injured by fireworks. The list suggested, among other things, holding firecrackers until they explode, which probably would result in lockjaw; shooting fireworks near buildings to set them afire, and placing firecrackers in bottles or tin cans so they will be sure to injure some one.

Husband Quizzed

QUIZ HORSEMAN ABOUT SKELETON FOUND IN RIVER

Former Racing Partner Missing a Year.

Northampton, Mass., June 27.—[Special.]—Police investigating the supposed murder of Charles Morris, 48 years old, race horse owner, today questioned Paul Bathelt, 27 years old, a New Yorker with whom Morris formerly was associated.

Morris disappeared last August shortly after he and Bathelt, according to racing officials, had been suspended by the state racing commission for violation of claiming rules at Agawam Park.

Discovery of a skeleton, believed to be that of Morris, in the Connecticut river last week started the investigation.

Find Initials on Belt.

Clinging to the skeleton was a belt with a buckle initialed "C. M."

The man had been shot to death the condition of his skull indicated, and his body trussed with wire and then encased in a poorly made block of cement which had disintegrated.

Authorities theorized that, fearing floods might uncover the crude grave, the slayer had removed the block and thrown it in the river. The concrete, improperly mixed, then crumbled.

Searching a long closed summer lodge near the spot where the skeleton was found near South Hadley, the police were inclined to believe the murder had taken place there.

Questioning the owner of the lodge, police learned it had been rented Bathelt about two years ago before he married Margo Lindewal, an actress.

Pieces of concrete were found outside the cottage, police said. The kitchen floor of the cottage showed evidence that concrete had been mixed there. Ripping a barricade of planking that barred entrance to the cellar, police descended and found a hole that indicated something had been buried. They also found bones which appeared to be those of a man's foot.

BABIES RUSHED TO HOSPITAL ARE SERIOUSLY ILL

Marilyn and Mary Cody, 13 months old, to whose aid the Marquette police and the fire department rushed Sunday night, were reported in a serious condition at County hospital last night. They received blood transfusions during the day. The babies, twin daughters of Mr. and Mrs. William Cody, 2143 Adams street, became ill with pneumonia Sunday. Their father, having no money to pay a doctor, called the fire department. An inhalator squad came and started to work. A police squad then went for a doctor.

The twins, their parents, the doctor, and the firemen working the inhalator then went to County hospital in a patrol wagon.

2 ALLEGE DRIVER'S DRINKING CAUSED MOTHER'S DEATH

Two daughters who were riding with Mrs. Mary Stafin when she was killed in an automobile accident Sunday night testified at the inquest yesterday that the driver had been drinking. They denied his story that another car had forced him to swerve so that his automobile struck a safety island in front of 2915 North Western avenue.

The testimony came from Catherine Stafin, 16 years old, and her sister, Sylvia, 12, who lived with their mother at 1516 Wabansia avenue. The driver was Edward A. Brod, 26 years old, of 2619 North Hamlin avenue. The inquest was continued to Aug. 19. Brod later was charged with manslaughter.

Victim of another collision with a safety island, Nichol Dernoeden, 56 years old, of 4149 North Ashland avenue, died in Alexian Brothers' hospital yesterday. He was injured Saturday at Diversey and Oakley avenues.

James Kelly, 45 years old, 6008 South Halsted street, died last night in the Little Company of Mary hospital of injuries incurred last Saturday when he was struck at Western avenue and 105th street by the automobile of William Schrage, 2051 West 110th place.

Jacob Lew, 20 years old, of 837 Lawrence avenue, died in the Berwyn hospital yesterday of injuries incurred in a collision at McCook.

Up to 4 p. m. yesterday 400 persons had been killed by automobiles in Cook county since Jan. 1. Of these, 306 were killed in Chicago, where 8,794 were injured in the same period.

PWA O. K.'S $91,400 FOR WOODLAWN BRANCH LIBRARY

The board of trustees of the Chicago public library was informed yesterday that the Public Works administration has made a grant of $91,400 towards the construction of a new building for the Woodlawn branch library at 6247 South Kimbark avenue. The total cost of the building will be approximately $200,000, with the remainder furnished by the library fund. The new building will provide space for 50,000 volumes, twice as many as those in the present structure. Last week PWA made an allotment of $36,000 towards an $80,000 addition to the Blackstone branch at 4900 South Lake Park avenue.

REPORTS HIS CAR STOLEN; HE IS THE ONE WHO'S JAILED

When Julian Guerrero of Gary reported that he was unable to find his car, Stockyards police told Judge Stephen Adamowski in Safety court yesterday, they sniffed Guerrero's breath and questioned him further. And instead of going to look for his car, they charged him with driving while intoxicated, upon learning his car and another had collided at 45th street and Calumet avenue.

That was Saturday. Judge Adamowski found Guerrero guilty yesterday and sent him to jail for ten days.

Another ten day sentence for driving while intoxicated was imposed on John Pelech, 5929 South Laflin street. Police said he drove through a stop light and hit another car at Western avenue and 71st street.

Fred Van Riet, 5438 Rice street, and Visle Bran of 1350 Fletcher street, were fined $25 each for reckless driving.

CANOEIST'S DEATH HELD ACCIDENT.

A verdict of accidental death was returned by a coroner's jury yesterday in an inquest into the drowning of Winfred Weiss, 23 years old, 1018 Broadway, Melrose Park, whose homemade canoe overturned in the lake near the Montrose avenue beach Saturday night.

A GREEN FACED HITLER JOINS PUPPETS' RANKS

BY MARCIA WINN.

The ancient art of puppetry, which from its birth in 3200 B. C. has revolved around a few well beloved characters has a new actor, it turns out. The novice is Hitler.

A carved wooden Hitler, his face green and saturnine, his mustache bristling, is one of the hundreds of puppets, animated doll-like figures, on display at the third international puppetry festival and convention which opened yesterday at the Medinah club. As yet, however, Hitler is without wires or other means of animation.

Just how puppeteers go about selecting their characters depends usually on personal whim, Don Vestal, one of the officials explained. Usually they restrict their work to fairy tale or fable. Punch and Judy are the two most popular, with Hansel and Gretel and Don Quixote—whose horse, Rosinante, makes a magnificent object for animation—following in high favor.

"It's more of a personal creation," he explained. "If you have a good imagination you are a good puppeteer."

Three Types in Use.

Three types of puppets are in general use. These are the string puppet, the motions of its intricate, jointed body operated from above by wires or strings; the rod puppet, usually entirely of wood, which is held in the air and animated by long, thin metal rods operated from below, and the hand puppet, in which the head alone is solid and the empty doll body slipped over the human hand.

Of the three, the rod puppet is the most difficult to operate, the hand puppet the easiest. The Hitler head, made at the WPA Puppet center in New York, eventually will be of this type, although it now is bodiless.

A Changeless Art.

Strange as it may seem, puppets have changed little through the century, with the exception of physiognomy. ["The legend is," Mr. Vestal said, "that puppeteers make puppets in their own image."] Hitler is one of the few modern variations, although four modernistic wooden heads have hair fashioned from twisted green metal, several hand puppets have faces made from paper bags, tin cans, and wooden spoons. A desert sheik, swathed in a red and white striped robe, has a fierce mustached face made from a rubber ball.

For pure amusement the ancient favorites still are supreme. Punch and Judy, shown in every imaginable costume, with the features of every race, still are ridiculous. One Juliet has Joan Crawford features and a long yellow bob, but the pearl cap and anguish eyes of the Juliet whom Romeo loved are unchanged.

NEED DR. BLACK IN WEST; LEAVE DENIAL LIKELY

San Francisco, Cal., June 27.—[Special.]—Because of increasing hospitalization problems in Alameda county [Oakland], Dr. Benjamin W. Black, Alameda county medical director, probably will not be given a year's leave to become temporary warden of Chicago's Cook County hospital.

This statement was made today by W. J. Hamilton, supervisors' chairman, following a special meeting of the Alameda county board of supervisors and the Alameda institutions' commission.

Request that Dr. Black temporarily forsake his $10,000 a year post in Oakland to assume the $18,000 a year wardenship of the Cook County hospital was made by Cook county officials after Dr. Black had declined to leave California. The Alameda county board of supervisors will take official action in the matter tomorrow.

ACCUSES G-MAN OF LETTING SPY SUSPECT ESCAPE

New York, June 27.—(AP)—An accusation that Leon G. Turrou, former G-man, allowed a fugitive from the government's spy hunt to escape was coupled today with a proposal that a commission be created to examine in Germany several witnesses in the case.

George O. Dix, attorney for Johanna Hofmann, one of four defendants in custody on espionage charges, obtained an order from Federal Judge Murray Hulbert requiring the government to show cause June 29 why an examining commission should not be authorized.

LANGER AND NYE CARRY OLD FEUD TO POLLS TODAY

Bismarck, N. D., June 27.—(AP)—Overshadowing national issues, Senator Gerald P. Nye and Gov. William Langer carry their five-year personal quarrel to the voters in tomorrow's North Dakota state primary election, both seeking the Republican nomination for United States senator.

Elected to their respective offices six years ago with the backing of a nonpartisan league group of Republicans, Nye and Langer served political relations shortly thereafter and have been heading for this primary tussle ever since. Nye has the backing of a progressive Republican slate while nonpartisan league Republicans indorsed Langer.

The nonpartisan leaguers face a slate of candidates many of whom formerly were affiliated with that organization but have left to form an anti-Langer organization known as the Progressive Republican party.

CALISTA FOWLER, 106, DIES; OLDEST ELGIN RESIDENT

Elgin's oldest resident, Mrs. Calista Fowler, who was born in Connaught, Pa., on Aug. 28, 1831, died early yesterday at the Elgin Old People's home where she had lived for 27 years. Her memories went back to the presidency of Andrew Jackson, for she was 106 years old.

Mrs. Fowler came with her parents to Burlington, Ill., in 1846. Five years later they moved to Batavia, Ill., and there the following year she met and married Milo Fowler. He died two years later and she never remarried. For 17 years she taught school in and near Elgin. She is survived by four nieces, two nephews, and a sister-in-law. Funeral arrangements have not yet been made.

2 BROTHERS DIE 10 MINUTES APART IN NEARBY STATES

Kemman, two miles south of Hebron, Ill., in McHenry county. His death occurred at 7:35 a. m. in a field, apparently from a heart attack.

At 7:45 o'clock his brother, Theodore Van Der Haelen, 75 years old, retired policeman of Milwaukee, Wis., died in St. Joseph's hospital there as a result of chest injuries incurred in a collision between his automobile and a laundry truck last Friday. The brothers were born at Fort Washington, Wis.

DROP CONSPIRACY CASE AGAINST 2 IN POLICE SCANDAL

Conspiracy charges against Detectives Earl Flannery and Frank McKune, central figures in the Town Hall police scandal case, were dismissed by the state yesterday in Judge Desort's Criminal court.

A jury acquitted the detectives June 13 of allowing two prisoners to escape. It was reported that the state dismissed the conspiracy charges, involving the same set of facts, because the defendants had objected that they could not legally be tried twice. The state charged that the detectives released two men arrested by uniformed police after an attempted holdup.

Dies Without Being Told Wife Had Passed Away

The body of Frederick A. Munson, retired custom tailor, will be taken to Cedar Rapids, Ia., today for burial there. Mr. Munson, 75 years old, died Sunday in the home of his daughter, Mrs. Ray W. Hawkins, at 6122 North Artesian avenue, a week after the death of his wife, Lizzie. Both had been in ill health and Munson was not told of his wife's death because of his condition.

Constipated? You Should Get at the Cause!

Lots of people think they can't be "regular" without frequent trips to the medicine chest. "I just dose up and get it over," they tell you. But doctors know they don't "get it over" at all—until they get at the cause of the trouble!

Chances are it's simple to find the cause if you eat only what most people do—meat, bread, potatoes. It's likely you don't get enough "bulk." And "bulk" doesn't mean a lot of food. It's a kind of food that isn't consumed in the body, but leaves a soft "bulky" mass in the intestines and helps a bowel movement.

If that fits you, your ticket is a crunchy breakfast cereal—Kellogg's All-Bran. It contains the "bulk" you need plus the great intestinal tonic, vitamin B_1.

Eat All-Bran every day, drink plenty of water, and just watch the old world grow brighter! Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

IN ONE MONTH 2,100 REACT TO SYPHILIS TESTS

City-Wide Drive Puts More Under Treatment.

More than 2,100 persons given syphilis tests during May in the city-wide testing program were found to have positive reactions which means they probably are infected.

This represents 8 per cent of the 25,936 persons who had diagnostic blood tests during that period, according to a report yesterday by Dr. Herman N. Bundesen, president of the board of health.

More New Cases Reported.

The tests were made by the health department's clinics and field stations, private physicians, and private clinics, which reported a total of 1,694 new cases of syphilis under treatment during the month. This is 60 per cent higher than the monthly average of 1,065 cases reported in 1937.

Persons found to have positive blood tests in the syphilis dragnet are requested to obtain complete examinations and anti-syphilis treatment, but are not reported as syphilitics until they have done so. Those who do not go to a clinic or physician are sought out by health officers as rapidly as the increasing number of positive reports permits.

Age Groups Studied.

The 2,194 positives found were distributed by age groups as follows:

Age Group.	Number Tested.	Number Positive.	Pct. of Positive.
10 to 14	1,317	28	2
15 to 19	4,191	127	3
20 to 24	5,673	285	5
25 to 29	4,049	407	10
30 to 34	2,672	349	13
35 to 39	2,062	311	15
40 to 49	2,889	403	14
50 and over	2,168	262	12
0 to 9	935	20	2
Total	25,936	2,192	8

Dr. Bundesen expressed satisfaction that more than a third of the tests were made in the 20 to 29 age group, the period of life when most syphilis is contracted. He said that the vast majority of those whose tests indicated infections insisted that they were unaware they had the disease.

The number of positives varied according to source of the test, as follows:

Field Stations	5,090	425	8
Private Physicians and Clinics	7,934	469	6
City Clinics	12,912	1,300	10
Total	25,936	2,192	8

GLAMIS, Scotland, June 27.—(AP)—The countess of Strathmore and Kinghorne, mother of Queen Elizabeth of England, was buried today in a rhododendron lined grave on the estate of Glamis castle, storied home of the Strathmore family.

The bereaved queen walked part of the way from the castle to the burial plot, but the rain became so heavy that she, her father, and other members of the family, took a motor car for the remainder of the distance. King George, however, walked the full distance, about a mile, bareheaded.

The bishop of St. Andrews read the graveside service, which was inaudible at times because of the heavy downpour. All Glamis village was in mourning for the 76 year old countess, who died in London last Thursday with the king and queen at her bedside.

Peers, 67, veteran Chicago theatrical manager who died suddenly last Friday, will be held at 9:30 a. m. today in St. Thomas the Apostle church, 5468 South Kimbark avenue. In his youth Mr. Peers acted at Elitch's Garden, Denver, with Douglas Fairbanks, Blanche Walsh, and other players who became stars. After vocal studies in Chicago he went to New York where he appeared in Mrs. Osborne's playhouse, an early art theater venture.

F. G. HARTWELL, PIONEER COAL DEALER, IS DEAD

Funeral Services Today at Rosehill Chapel.

Fred G. Hartwell, a Chicago resident for more than sixty years and one of the city's pioneer coal merchants, died late Sunday in his summer home at Lake Geneva, Wis., it was learned here yesterday. Mr. Hartwell, who was 77 years old, was stricken with a heart attack while recovering from a severe cold.

Born in Amsterdam, N. Y., on Aug. 1, 1861, he was brought to Chicago by his parents the year of the great fire. Leaving school when he was 14 years old, he persuaded his father, who owned a fuel company, to give him a job. Within four years he was the sole proprietor of the business.

Formed Company in 'Teens.

While still in his teens he formed the F. G. Hartwell company, which continued to function until 1930, when it was consolidated with the Chicago branch of the Berwyn Fuel company. During those years Mr. Hartwell remained in active direction, although he also became president of the Berwyn Fuel company in 1907 and had other business interests here.

His home was on the west side of the city from the early '80s until 1898, when he moved to the south side. In 1886 he married Jennie Barbour. Mrs. Hartwell died in 1927 after a long illness.

Took Up Golf at 70.

In 1931 Mr. Hartwell retired from active business and became an ardent and proficient golfer. He entered a number of senior golf tournaments—for men over 50 years of age—and competed in many of the Old Timers' tournaments at Palm Beach and Winterhaven, Fla.

He is survived by his two daughters, Margaret and Ruth. Funeral services will be held at 10 o'clock this morning at the chapel at Rosehill cemetery.

Baby Dies in 20 Foot Fall from High Chair on Porch

Nancy Horvath, 8 months old, was killed yesterday when she raised herself in her high chair on the second floor rear porch of her home at 5602 South Elizabeth street and toppled over the railing twenty feet to the ground.

AMISH LOSE TILT ON SCHOOL BUILT WITH PWA FUNDS

Philadelphia, Pa., June 27.—[Special.]—Amish and Mennonite farmers of East Lampeter township, Lancaster county, today lost their long federal court fight to save the township's eleven little red schoolhouses for their children. A $125,000 modern consolidated building was erected with PWA funds last year over their vigorous protests.

Judge Joseph Buffington, who retired recently from the federal Circuit Court of Appeals at the age of 83, wrote an opinion holding the federal courts had no jurisdiction over local school boards' policies.

He overruled Judge George A. Welsh of the federal district court, who, a year ago, issued an injunction restraining completion of the consolidated school of Smoketown. Judge Welsh held the school authorities had "violated the religious and moral precepts" of the two sects and he took the position that the federal court had authority in the matter because $52,250 of PWA funds was advanced to the school board toward construction costs.

Tell Engagement of Rosemary Sauer.

A romance that began two years ago when Miss Rosemary Sauer and Trevor A. Cushman Jr. were vacationing at a ranch in Arizona has culminated in their engagement which has been announced by Miss Sauer's mother, Mrs. William A. Sauer of Evanston. Mr. Cushman, who is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Trevor A. Cushman of Melrose, Mass., visited Miss Sauer at her home in March. He will visit here again in August.

Miss Sauer, who made her debut with Miss Barbara Bentley at a tea dance at the Blackstone hotel in 1936, attends Barat college in Lake Forest. During her sophomore year she was decorated by the French government for her excellence in French. Mur. Cushman prepared at Andover for Yale university, from which he was graduated this spring. Miss Sauer was present at his graduation exercises and is expected to arrive back in town about the first of July from a visit to Mr. Cushman's family.

Miss Sauer will not receive her degree from Barat college until next June and it is probable that the wedding will take place shortly after that time.

Three More Couples Take Wedding Vows.

Headed north, west, and east, yesterday's three sets of brides and bridegrooms started on their wedding trips. The junior Mr. and Mrs. Frank F. Fowle [Betsy Ballard] who were married at 5:30 o'clock in Christ church, Winnetka, will end their honeymoon at the Seigniory club in Canada to go to Williamstown, Mass., for the wedding on July 23 of his brother, William C. Fowle, and Miss Antoinette Treadway. Yesterday's bridegroom is to be the best man at that wedding.

Miss Treadway and her fiancé, who was best man yesterday, were among the guests who came from out of town for the wedding, which was a quiet one because of the recent death of the bride's grandfather, Ellis Ames Ballard, of Philadelphia. The John McEwans [Margaret Hamill] returned to Winnetka from Indianapolis for the occasion, and some other friends of the bridegroom, the James Bells of Pittsburgh and John

THROUGH THE LOOKING GLASS

Sun worshipers who like to go to the beach with the minimum of paraphernalia will be enthusiastic about the new and sensible sun tan pads. One little flannel disk saturated with oil will suffice to oil you from top to toe.

We were delighted when we saw the first cleansing pad. We are delighted again because the pad idea has now been adapted to sun preparations. The cosmetic business gets more sensible every day.

Today you can get sun tan pads that are as handy as cleansing pads. They are little flannel rounds, generously saturated with a protective oil that checks the danger of burning and gives you a running start in acquiring a tan. With these there is none of the ridiculous business of setting out for a swim with too much luggage. You simply slip the streamlined container into the pocket of your robe and defy the sun.

One pad is so generously saturated it will oil you up well from head to toe. While you're sun worshiping renew the oiling from time to time with one of the little orange colored discs.

The sun pads aren't messy. When you use them you won't smear everything and every one around you. They're rather economical too, because there is no waste as there so often is when you must smear stuff on out of a bottle.

We are a great believer in protectives and know they are as efficient as science can make them, but we urge every one to keep her fingers crossed. Don't ignore all the sane rules about prolonged exposure. If you're thin skinned you can't lie in the blazing sun for hours on end with absolute safety. And remember that when there is a gentle breeze you're apt to be deceived into thinking the sun isn't so strong after all. That's just the time you'll fry if you don't take care.

Name Chicago Pastor Head of Merged Church

BY THE REV. JOHN EVANS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Columbus, O., June 27.—[Special.]—The Rev. Dr. Louis W. Goebel of Chicago today took office as president of the Evangelical and Reformed church of America, the first president to preside over the merged synods under a new constitution adopted by the united general conference in sessions here.

Dr. Goebel.

The presidency will require Dr. Goebel's resignation as pastor of First Evangelical church in Chicago. He probably will live in St. Louis, Mo., where it is expected that the headquarters of the church will be located. He was described by the Rev. Dr. Frederick Krohne of St. Paul's house, Chicago, as the originator of the now consummated church union. For 15 years, Dr. Krohne said, Dr. Goebel has been promoting the proposal.

"At first, Dr. Goebel's proposal received little encouragement," said Dr. Krohne, "but at Cincinnati in 1933 the two churches adopted a plan of merger and the next year at Cleveland, O., the two churches announced their 'marriage' based upon mutual affections rather than upon the solution of all problems involved, such as constitution and polity.

"We like to think of the merger in terms of marriage. What couple ever could solve all problems before the ceremony takes place? Our two churches looked at the question in that way and decided to 'marry' and then solve our problems on the basis of love rather than on legalistic prearrangements. We now have our constitution and it is now in effect."

Dr. Goebel is a graduate of Elmhurst college, Elmhurst, Ill., and of Eden Theological seminary, St. Louis, Mo. He has been pastor of the Chicago church for a quarter of a century. The church over which he will preside consists of nearly 700,000 members with 2,647 pastors and nearly 3,000 congregations.

Summer Gloves Are Airy, Cool, and Decorative

BY RHEA SEEGER.

Summer gloves have been reduced to a minimum, not only in length but in weight, and downright magic has been used to make them airy, cool, and supercomfortable. For instance, there are very open affairs made of long wearing thread in crocheted patterns. These fit surprisingly well and are just what you need for any sultry day in town or country. They come short or long, in all whites, pastels, and a few come in navy, black, and brown.

New arrivals of this crocheted variety have inset bands of Irish lace, not real, of course, but good copies of that effective trimming. Short gloves called "little girl gloves" are snappy as they are brief. The long pull-ons boast this Irish lace trim, too, and are grand ideas for afternoon clothes. Just as new and with plenty of eye appeal are the fine mesh and dotted material combines for a sizzling day in town. The dotted material looks exactly like exceptionally fine dotted Swiss minus the starchiness. The mesh is delicate in pattern to match and the finished results are superior buys indeed.

Fabrics not quite so airy are just as snappy, trimming devices are as new and unusual, with the eyelet embroidery designs stealing the best showings. See the gay confetti dotted numbers if you want a change from the embroidered rosebud patterns—or the colored thread stitched seams for accent. The whites are all good, the pastels a close second for popularity, and when you remember every pair is guaranteed to take frequent tubbing without disaster, and you can have the most expensive for less than $2, these are the shopping finds of the week.

The Housewife

Going on a picnic? Did you know you can buy pads of sandwich paper? These sheets of waxed paper are cut just the right size and they seem twice as convenient in this form. Keep a couple of these handy pads in the drawer of your kitchen cabinet.

For special occasions try the new sandwich paper that is printed in jolly colors and designs. It's a bit more expensive, but even so it is not costly. It comes in a convenient package.

New to me were the special picnic wire roasters for frankfurters. These come with long handles so you won't scorch your hands while cooking the wienies in an open fire. And they're made with curves that fit neatly over each red hot, holding it in place.

A Gay Throng Sees Opening of Arlington

BY INDIA MOFFETT.

They're off at Arlington Park for another season. The roads from the north shore leading to the track will be put to good use during the next month for Arlington is the favorite race track of social circles. There may be several reasons for this, but whatever the probable reasons one certain one is that it is easier for north shore residents to reach it than any of Chicagoland's other tracks.

The most successful opening ever, every one in authority at the track said yesterday. The weather was almost perfect; the sun was brilliant, quantities of green and white paint, gay red geraniums and blooming rose bushes in front of the Post and Paddock club all contributed to the beauty and perfection of the picture. The only fault to be found was that it was cool enough so that every woman had to wear a coat, a slight fault and one that only a reporter interested in what the spectators were wearing would find, no doubt.

The Post and Paddock was gay and festive for an hour and a half before the racing started, for luncheon parties assembled early. One of the largest parties was that given by the president of the club, Laurance H. Armour, and Mrs. Armour, on the terrace. Among their guests were the William H. Mitchells, the Chauncey McCormicks and one of their sons, Brooks, and their house guest, Miss Hope Baldwin of Bedford, N. Y.; also the Lester Armours, the William McCormick Blairs, I. Newton Perry, the Clifford Rodmans, Mrs. William E. Clow Jr., and the Farwell Winstons.

The hostess was charming in a powder blue and white print, short sleeved white sweater, white shoes, a crownless hat of the same material as her frock, and a big closely packed bunch of pink carnations on one shoulder. Mrs. Lester Armour's black dress and bolero jacket were accented by a white belt, and her perky little black sailor was faced in white. Mrs. Mitchell also was in black, a long alpaca coat and a big halo hat.

One of the most attractive outfits was young Mrs. John Hurley's. It consisted of a long black taffeta coat, tight to just below the waist and then flaring into sunburst plaits. Her halo hat and dress were of periwinkle blue. Mrs. Hurley's sister-in-law, Mrs. William A. Ryan, also was smartly attired. Her skirt was of sheer black wool, sunburst plaited, and her jacket was of blue, black, and white plaid taffeta. Her black hat was trimmed with a bit of the taffeta.

The envy of many a young girl who was unescorted was Miss Alice Vansickle of Woodmere, N. Y., who lunched with six young men, one of them the host, John Behr. Miss Vansickle was becomingly clad in white. Another young woman who had enough masculine attention to rate envious glances from less fortunate females was Miss Carlotta Lagorio in floral printed frock with a blue background, a pine needle green wool coat that reached to the bottom of her dress, and a large scoop hat of burnt straw trimmed with a green ribbon and a black veil.

Mr. and Mrs. John E. Hughes had a large party of luncheon guests, including Mrs. Kimball Salisbury, the junior William B. McIlvaines, the "Ned" Kings of New York, Mrs. Orton Prime of Milwaukee, the junior

Looking at Hollywood
By Ed Sullivan

The Observation Post

Hollywood, Cal., June 27.—The foreign glamor girls have landed and have the situation well in hand out here in the Hollywood hills, or hadn't you noticed? The days of Garbo and Dietrich are numbered, possibly, but led by Luise Rainer, a new crop of frauleins, señoritas, and mademoiselles has taken over the town. Take a look for yourself—Luise Rainer, Sonja Henie, Dannielle Darrieux, Hedy La Marr, Simone Simon, Annabelle, Olympe Bradna, Gracie Fields, Franciska Gaal, Merle Oberon, Jacqueline Laurent, Isa Miranda, Rose Stradna, and Ilona Massey. There are others, but these will suffice.

Luise Rainer.

The Rainer miss, No. 1 candidate for the Garbo crown when she finds herself, has won the academy award two years running. Sonja Henie of Norway is the industry's biggest single box office draw. It is the box office angle that explains the influx of these foreign glamor girls. With 40 per cent of the gross revenues coming from Europe, the picture makers go out of their way to buttress their pictures with European names. Whether Gracie Fields is or is not successful with United States audiences, her presence in a picture insures that particular flicker of rolling up record grosses in the fruitful English market, which includes the colonies.

There is no doubt about it that these foreign girls bring to the screen a concentrated femininity that few American players achieve. Loretta Young, Myrna Loy, and Virginia Bruce are outstanding exceptions to the rule. These home breds, one from Utah, the other from Montana, the third from Minnesota, match the European entries in softness and purely feminine appeal. I don't know how to class Olivia de Havilland. She was born in Tokio of English parents, but she has the same quality that these others possess abundantly.

The Louis-Schmeling fight pictures deny a lot of extravagant things that were said and written on the night of the fight. There is an electricity at the ringside of an important fight that colors the report of it, but the motion picture of the fight, free from that crowd tension, is a fairly cold document when you look at it days later.

Reports drifting westward had it that Louis, in this fight, came surging out of his corner, à la Dempsey of 1919, raining blows so furiously that the German was overwhelmed. The fight pictures show instead that Louis came out quite cautiously, his left shoulder held high to ward off Schmeling's right hand, and that they fiddled around cautiously for thirty or forty seconds before a blow was struck. Louis, in other words, offered no more resemblance to Dempsey's slashing, reckless attack than your Aunt Minnie. What made Louis appear so great was Schmeling's second rate effort. The German appeared to be fighting in a fog of indecision and his effort was hardly worth a championship setting. Most surprised person must have been Louis, who expected to find a lion and instead found a lamb.

Recommendations: Tiny Margaret Quimby in "The Devil's Party," the Victor McLaglen picture. Working in just a few scenes this youngster is an attention grabber. . . . Fortune's article on Robert Moses, which makes a New Yorker homesick. . . . Sigrid Gurie's fine performance in "Algiers" [never saw such a pair of eyes as she has].

The Hollywood history of "Gone with the Wind" offers the most confused example of show business inefficiency that has come to the attention of this desk. Had the picture been made while the country was at fever heat over the Margaret Mitchell book, it would have rolled up the greatest grosses in the history of celluloid. David O. Selznick really fumbled the ball on this one, a black mark on a fairly commanding production record. The memory of it will rise to haunt him through the remainder of his career—and he deserves it.

Notes: "Marie Antoinette" may solve the problem of double bills. It went to the laboratory in 14,300 feet, which will be the release length. Film is projected at 90 feet per second, so the Norma Shearer starrer will play exactly 2 hours, 39 minutes. . . . Must get up to San Francisco before I go back. New Yorkers returning from there say that it is more like New York than any city, not in the buildings or skyline, but in the "air" of the town. Want to see the Chinese telephone exchange there too. The Chinese subscribers, instead of calling a number, just tell the Chinese operator the person's name and she finds him. If they can't think of the name, the subscriber describes the Chinaman he is calling, and in nine cases out of ten, the operators track him down.

Good Morning!

EXTRA! Cupid Runs for Mayor!

EXTRA! Cupid Arrested for Murder in Roadhouse! BLUES SINGER IMPLICATED!

EXTRA! CUPID BECOMES MAYOR! CAMPAIGN MANAGER becomes SON-IN-LAW!

NOW you have a sneaking idea that in "This Marriage Business" Cupid is somehow or other involved. But as to the identity of Cupid—well—

The real name is Jud Parker, and Jud is license clerk of a small town called Middleton.

He issues auto, dog, and marriage licenses. And no couple to whom he's given one of the last has ever got a divorce!

This surprising record comes to the knowledge of a smart young newspaper man in the burg on trail of another story. All is grist to Bill's mill—and he makes the Middleton "Cupid" famous, the while falling head over heels in love with the latter's pretty daughter.

Daughter Nancy wants papa to be mayor. So, decides Bill, mayor Jud shall be—despite the fact that to be such he must buck evil elements controling local politics. . . .

As the bucking proceeds intrigue keeps right up with it and things look pretty dark for the reform party. But, always there are Bill, the unbeatable; Candid, his faithful henchman, and Corky, Cupid's very canny dog. So—

You've guessed. It does!

This is a pretty fair little comedy drama with quite a lot of suspense and some excellent acting. [Isn't that Victor Moore the cute thing!]

PASSENGER LIST

SYNOPSIS.

On board the S. S. Panama Queen, sailing from Los Angeles via Panama to New York, are Anne Sydney, who has a part in a Broadway play, and her crippled and embittered sister, Mena; Arnold Vernon, rich English motion picture producer, and his coldly beautiful wife, Claire; Isobel Butler, who has a stateroom next to the Vernons and hopes to get in pictures through him; Alex Reed, young surgeon, returning to work after two years' illness; and gossipy Mrs. Panting. Isobel meets and arouses Vernon's interest. Anne and Alex are mutually attracted.

INSTALMENT VIII.

ATTRACTION.

Mr. Vernon could see through a plain face to a beautiful modeling of bones and find a star. Isobel was not star material—but then neither were a lot of players who made an enviable living. Every picture carried at least a dozen minor parts. He said kindly—"I'll give you a letter to my casting director. He'll give you some small parts while you're over there."

"Thank you. That's exceedingly kind of you." Isobel felt deflated. So that was his opinion of her potential talent. No offer to test her to see if she would make a featured player or a star. Well, it was better than nothing. She felt a little cold and forlorn in the cheerful sunlit atmosphere. Was it worth taking the risk to go to England for that?

His voice brought her back to the immediate present. "Have you any talent for writing, Miss Butler? Could you write down clearly and concisely the things you have just told me? If we used any of it for story material, naturally you would be paid for it."

She smiled eagerly—"O yes, I could do that very well."

She would do it if it gave her brain fever. If she were doing some work for him, Mrs. Vernon couldn't push her out of the way. This would be another link. She looked up and saw Anne Sydney pass with Dr. Reed and that slow limping sister. Mr. Vernon looked too. He said—"I must talk to that girl. She's a find for color. She has everything. Grace, fire, voice, personality, and what a marvelous face!"

Sunk, thought Isobel, without trace. He was looking for stars as producers always were. And he hadn't even thought of her that way. What did it matter what she said? There was nothing at all to lose. She looked at him humorously. "What's the matter with mine? Is it quite without class?"

He rewarded her courage with candor. "No, Miss Butler. It's an attractive face. But it wouldn't do for leads. I'm looking for distinction—the thing that Miss Snyder has——"

"There's no hope at all for me?"

"Yes. n supports. You have a robust, earthly charm—but my dear child, if you insist upon knowing—your voice!"

Isobel laughed. She was not embarrassed. This was welcome on the mat compared with the knocks she had been handed in Hollywood. She felt herself getting on famously. She liked him. "But couldn't that be fixed? Lots of stars have their voices made over."

"Yes. If you're the uncrushable type, a lot of things could be fixed." He was warmed surprisingly by her look of admiration and gratitude. It was frank and genuine—even humble, since he had told her so clearly how small were her chances to become a star.

It was a long time since a woman had looked at him like that. He had plenty of pretense, plenty of skilfully simulated gratitude and adoration, but he was an excellent judge of acting off the screen as on. This girl wasn't acting. She liked him for himself apart from the things he could do for her. He put out his hand impulsively and for a moment laid it over hers. "Don't worry. When you go to England I'll see that you get along."

A deck steward came purposefully along the deck and halted at Mr. Vernon's chair. "Excuse me sir, Mrs. Vernon said to tell you she was expecting you down at the pool shortly."

"Thank you, steward."

Isobel saw the irritation in Arnold Vernon's face when the steward had gone. "I'm going in too this morning," she said tactfully. "The water's lovely. Guess I'll go and get ready. And thank you for everything."

Vernon watched her walk away. She had a certain grace, but it was the unnatural exaggerated grace of the trained model—if needed, you could call that sinuous motion grace at all. Curious how he couldn't help liking her. She had given him back something—the feeling that he was important to people. That was irony if you like, considering he had long since passed the classification of important person and became a personage. He would not go down to the pool and allow Claire to reduce him again. He reached for his book.

Anne had unpacked her camera. Mena was determined not to leave her alone with Alex for a minute unless requested to do so—if then. Anne loaded her camera with a color film. "I'm going to take some snaps at the pool. They ought to look fine with those orange umbrellas and vivid blue water."

Mena went with her and Alex joined them. Anne leaned over the rail at the end of the promenade deck and looked over before she went down. Mrs. Vernon was lying on an orange sunbed scantily covered by a brief suit of clinging black silk. She looked a symphony in color with her shining blonde head and her slim brown satin limbs. Anne said—"what a picture! I'll ask her if she minds."

Alex helped Mena down the companion. Mrs. Vernon did mind. She said lazily, but not offensively. "But Miss Sydney, I hate having amateur photographs taken."

"You shouldn't worry. They couldn't help but come out well. These are going to be in color."

Mrs. Vernon raised herself on her elbow with a faint show of interest. She knew her color scheme was good. It might be entertaining to see what they turned out like. "All right," she said, as if conferring a favor. "But don't be long. You can go ahead."

Anne found herself taking a dislike to the woman. It was unusual for Anne to take a dislike to anybody.

"Yes, Mrs. Vernon?"

"Can you have those developed on the ship? I mean, seeing they're color films. I know they're special."

"Yes, I got them from the photographer. He has the chemicals. He takes these films himself."

"That's nice. I'd like to see them soon. I've never been taken in color. The results will be interesting."

"Vain as a peacock," Alex whispered in Anne's ear as they moved along the promenade deck. "Glad she's not my responsibility."

Arnold Vernon was wondering again about the same thing. He felt restless and unable to enjoy his book because he had defied Claire's wishes. So he leaned back in his chair looking out to sea and thinking about her. Trying to remember when and how she had first shown him a glimpse of the hollowness of her heart.

She had come to him originally with a letter from an old school colleague asking him if possible to do something to help his eldest daughter obtain employment. She had been hopeless for pictures. Nothing human got across. He had thought she was too reserved—or too inhibited. Now he suspected she was too unemotional—too empty.

For a time she had worked in his office. Thinking back he saw now how warm she had been to him, how sympathetic, how grateful, how feminine—how girlishly charming. He had been intensely lonely then—going through hell on account of the loss of his first wife. What more natural than to take his friend's daughter out now and then to new shows, to premières, to little dinners?

She had receded from him immediately after marriage. But he had put that down to her temperament, her narrow environment. But he knew better now—or thought he did. That early sympathy had been a deliberate campaign to capture him. She hated so many things his money would free her from—office work, cheap clothes, monotony, poverty, insecurity.

Arnold Vernon sighed and struck a fist into the palm of his other hand. Well and good—if she'd been honest. It was her possessive frigid tolerance of his presence, her adroit avoidance of his caresses which hurt him so bitterly now. She was so clever too. He could only get rid of her on her own terms. She would like that. It would be her crowning achievement. A plentiful supply of money for nothing.

Cool Thrills Promised for Sally's Party

BY SALLY JOY BROWN.

[Activities of the Sally Joy Brown department are sponsored by Tribune Charities, Inc.]

You boys and girls will actually be cool, no matter what the weather is, if you're my guests on July 7. That's the day of our first party—and it's going to be a grand one.

Fifty boys and fifty girls will come with me to see the "St. Moritz Express," which is a sparkling show of music and comedy and dancing—all on real ice. It's at the famous College inn of Hotel Sherman, which has been so transformed for this particular show that you'll think you're in Switzerland instead of Chicago.

To the music of Frankie Masters' band you'll see one of the finest collections of ice skaters to be found. There are two foreign stars. The Brandt sisters; two champion figure skaters, Jenna and Robin Scott; Bud Lewis, who jumps barrels, and Charles and Vida, who can waltz and tango on skates. Marcus is a magician who'll pull things out of the air and make them disappear again for us, and the show also features a clown named Carl who's the funniest thing you ever saw.

If you'd like to be included in this party write and tell me so, and don't be slow about it. The boys and girls who can prove to me by their letters that they'd really and truly enjoy a party such as this will be selected as my guests and will have their names printed in next Sunday's TRIBUNE.

My choices will be made on Thursday, June 30, so be sure your letter arrives before then. Tell me why you'd like to come, and remember to give me your full name, address, and age. If you forget to include that information you can't possibly be a winner.

There are no requirements other than a real wish to be my guest. Your letters don't have to be like compositions. I just want to know about you, so get busy and get that letter off to Sally Joy Brown, THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE, Chicago.

Shakespeare Lovers Ask Funds to Rebuild Old Globe Theater

LONDON, June 27.—(AP)—American and British Shakespeare lovers today joined in an ambitious scheme to raise $1,250,000 for a Shakespeare memorial in London to honor "The Bard of Avon."

Sponsoring the plan is the Globe-Mermaid association of England and America, formed in 1935 to establish a permanent Shakespeare foundation on the bankside area south of the Thames.

The program calls for rebuilding of the Globe theater where many of Shakespeare's plays were first produced and where he himself acted, rebuilding of the Mermaid tavern frequented by the poet, and foundation of a Shakespeare library and museum.

The fund raising campaign started today with a "Shakespeare festival week."

Study Camps to Find One Best for Your Child

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS.

The advantages and disadvantages of camp for your particular child is not the subject of today's article. This column is for those parents who already have decided on sending their child to camp for some part of the summer. Its purpose is to make parents aware of the essentials of a good camp—meaning a camp which looks after a child's physical well-being, his enjoyment, and also his happiness in the group he is to be with.

On the whole it makes some difference whether your child is to be away for a short time or for a long time; but, all in all, a camp must embrace a number of features to fulfill its threefold purpose of health, personal enjoyment, and social adjustment.

It is my belief that every parent should visit the camp that his or her child is to attend. If your child is to go next year it is not too early to make plans. Get in touch with the director of the camp or camps you are considering and make a trip to them. There is nothing like seeing things with your own eyes.

Talk with the director and, if possible, the head counselor or counselors. The prevailing tone of the camp is set by the head or heads.

A camp may be one of the best—but not necessarily for your child. For instance, a very large camp may be right for some, but not for others. One camp may have a closely scheduled program of activities—another may have a looser plan for each day. Also the location of a camp is a point to consider.

Gifts to Camp Algonquin Swell Fund Total to $376

Three new contributions from readers of THE TRIBUNE swelled the Camp Algonquin fund yesterday to $376.36. The gifts were $10 from the Delta Phi club, $1 anonymous, and $2 from E. A. M. Contributions to the fund may be sent to Chicago Tribune Charities, Inc., Tribune Tower.

Never Allow Hot Days to Wilt Your Charm; Be Flower-Fresh

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

These warm days laziness is apt to set in unless we are endowed with an unusual tenacity of purpose. It does take courage to go through the stretching exercise in the morning and stick to the complexion rules daily. On the other hand, there is no time of year when an average woman can look worse unless she does apply herself rigorously to the job of looking flower fresh and crisp and sweet. Likewise, there is no clothes season that helps her so much when she does pursue the lettuce-crisp pattern. Frocks are made and designed to bring out the best and most romantic beauty. Sports clothes, street things, and evening gowns are all styled to furnish the old sweetheart flavor if one's person and the clothes are crisp and clean.

There is this good point to drive every one of us to extra activity in the hot weather: One does not begin to feel the heat half so much if one isn't confronted with a greasy, grimy, wilted reflection in the mirror. It's the shiny nosed, straggly-haired, and messy-clothed one whom the weather downs and won't let up. So, the moral is to fight the heat with a little more personal attention, not less.

One thing that can be done now that is invaluable, and from which you will enjoy benefits later on in the fall, is putting on the cream mornings while you do your housework. Keep it on for an hour or so as you hustle around straightening up the house, rinsing out a few clothes, etc. Then go in and wipe off the cream. Give the face a warm water and soap washing, a warm water rinse and then, which is what we are leading up to as most valuable, an ice rub for face and throat. You are more ice-minded now and you can wrap the ice cube up in a fine guest towel and use it. Use it several times a day and see how it does tone the skin, even correcting considerably the shiny nose and forehead.

You are salad-minded and here is your chance to get in that promised good work on your figure. You are shower-minded, so get the habit daily, several times a day, as it is fine for the circulation, to say nothing of clearing the complexion. You are more pedicure-minded because you see so many pink toes peeping out of sandals. Add the pedicure to your upkeep. It will make you feel like getting around more. Instead of sitting down every possible chance, you need a good reason to be up and doing.

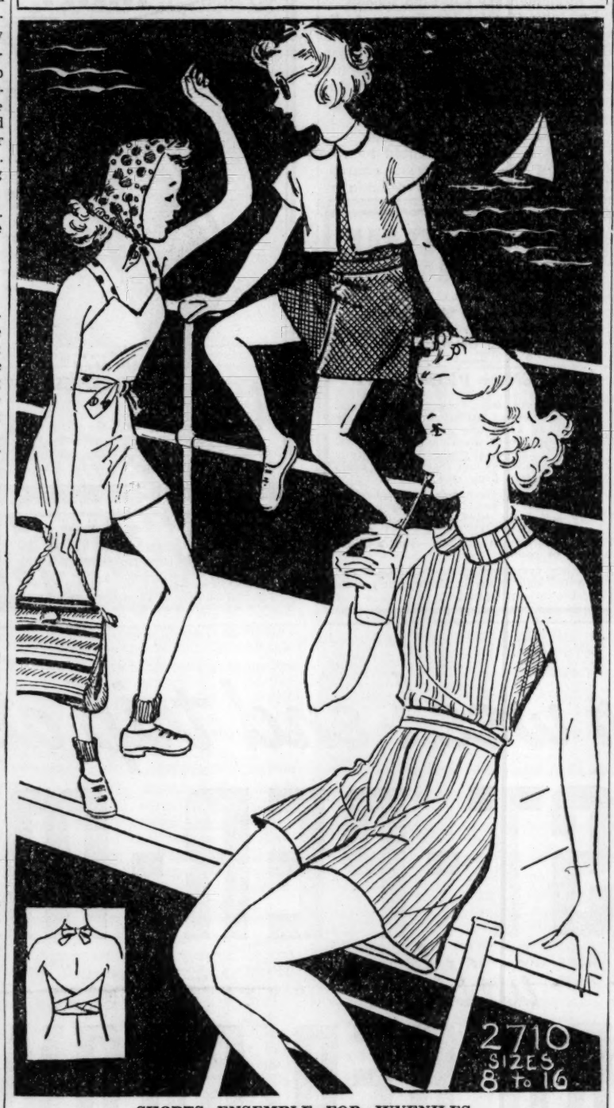
Shorts Ensemble for Girls



SHORTS ENSEMBLE FOR JUVENILES.

Growing girls fairly live in shorts these days. They are outdoors all day, especially now that vacation time is here. The ensemble in our pattern today includes a smart topper to go with the shorts. This outfit is so simple to sew that your daughter, if she is old enough, will enjoy making it herself. There are two toppers, one with a low neckline and the other with shirt collar. Both leave the shoulders bare to the sunlight and are cut low in back. You can have a matching bolero, too, if you like, which will serve well with street frocks, if you wish an extra little wrap.

The gayer the print, stripe, or plaid cotton you choose for this outfit, the better, since brilliant colors, splashy and really "loud," are the fashion this season. You may select any type of cotton or linen, and some of the washable novelty fabrics also will make up well, provided they are not too sheer or "slimsy."

Style No. 2710 is designed for sizes 8, 10, 12, 14, and 16 years. Size 12 requires 1⅛ yards of 39 inch material, with 1 yard of 39 inch material for separate jacket.

Universities Study Plan for Creation of Central Schools

Presidents or deans of 10 middle-western colleges and universities agreed yesterday to increase educational coöperation between their institutions. They met at the Stevens hotel with Dr. George E. Zook, president of the American Council on Education. "The group has agreed to return to their institutions to determine how such coöperation can be affected," Dr. Zook said. "There are many developments we are not needed in every institution. Any such coöperation will be voluntary." Central schools for such courses were suggested.

Institutions represented by their presidents were Purdue university and the universities of Indiana, Wisconsin, and Kentucky and the Michigan State College of Agriculture. The Universities of Iowa, Illinois, and Michigan and Ohio State university were represented by deans.

Paris Says New Hats Will Be Doll Ones Tied with Ribbons

New York, June 27.—[Special.]—Millinery stylists who arrived today from Paris said the latest creation would be small doll hats perched on top of the head with ribbons down the back and tied under the hair. The colors will be wine red, russet, and moss green. The styles have been modeled from the portraits of Mme. Du Barry and Mme. Maintenon, it was said.

TODAY'S QUILT

Twinkling Star.

Patterns of this design are 5 cents, stamps or coin. Address Nancy Cabot, Chicago Tribune, or call at one of the Tribune Public Service offices, 1 South Dearborn street or street and Tribune Tower.

BY NANCY CABOT.

Nursery rimes are responsible for geometrical pieced quilts for grown-ups' beds, as well as for amusing applique blocks for infants' cribs. "Twinkle, twinkle, little star——" was the inspiration for this gay star pattern which is fashioned of a combination of printed and plain materials. The clever reversal of the colors in the points of the star produces the desired twinkling effect. The small block measures 10 inches square when finished, and 63 blocks are required for a coverlet. A 10 inch border surrounds the quilt, which is bound with a one-half inch bias binding. Thirty-two of the squares have reversed the points of the stars.

Mrs. King was one of the most stunning women at the track in a high necked black gown with multistrand pearls, a black coat and a flowered turban.

Mrs. Salisbury and Mrs. McIlvaine both wore prints, Mrs. Salisbury's of black and white and Mrs. McIlvaine's with a tomato red background. Mrs. Salisbury's black coat was lined with the print and the crown of her black hat was of it, too. Mrs. McIlvaine wore a turban to match her dress and three-quarter length black coat.

Pretty Miss Anne Jay Bryant was in a yellow dress, a brown sweater, and a brown felt hat. She was a member of Mrs. Robert R. McCormick's box party. Miss Narcissa Thorne and her fiancé, Charles L. Peet, were visiting the Post and Paddock betting windows as often at the end of a race as at the start, which would seem to indicate that it was a successful afternoon for them. Mrs. Paul Walker was another who paid post-race as well as pre-race visits to the betting windows, so perhaps her young satchel was filled when she went home.

One of the oldest but none the less enthusiastic visitors at the track was Mrs. John G. Shedd who was with her daughter and son-in-law, Mrs. Kersey Coates Reed and Charles H. Schweppe.

Among others there were Mr. and Mrs. John D. Hertz, Mr. and Mrs. Warren Wright, the Otto Lehmanns, the Silas H. Strawns and their daughter, Mrs. James C. Cathcart, Mrs. Orville Taylor, Mrs. Edward C. Kohlsaat, John T. Pirie Jr., Mrs. Kenneth Curtis, Mrs. Charles F. Glore, the Misses Eleonore and Lois Thompson, Mrs. Otho F. Ball, Mrs. Mark Trude, Mrs. A. Watson Armour, and Mrs. Donald R. McLennan.

Weddings Announced

Miss Jean McCorkle, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Graham K. McCorkle of Evanston, was married yesterday afternoon to William Mesick, son of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert V. Mesick of Kenilworth. The ceremony took place in the study of the Winnetka Congregational church. The Rev. Samuel D. Harkness read the service in the presence of the two families. After a wedding trip west Mr. Mesick and his bride will be at home in Des Moines, Ia.

The wedding of Miss Glory Kennedy, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward T. Kennedy of Los Angeles, to Earl Arden Butts Jr., son of Mrs. Virginia Clement Butts of Chicago and Earl Arden Butts of Oklahoma, took place at 4 o'clock on June 10 in St. John's Episcopal church in Los Angeles.

Miss Kennedy attended the Westlake School for Girls and the Emerson School of Oratory in Boston. Mr. Butts attended the Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

Use Cucumbers as 'Boats' for Salad Mixtures

[Copyright: 1938: By The Chicago Tribune.]

It would take two cucumbers, each 10 inches long, to furnish 100 calories in the diet. We don't eat "cukes" for their calories, neither do we eat them for food value, although smatterings of some of the minerals and vitamins are present. We eat cucumbers chiefly for the variation in food texture which they provide, for their quality of crispness.

Yet cooked cucumbers in which the crisp quality is about 75 per cent lost are good, too. This, I think, is because cooking develops the delicate cucumber flavor enough to make up for the loss.

Never overcook cucumbers, that is, never cook them until they become soft. Cucumbers which are cooked to a mush are unpalatable. Better to have them a little on the raw side.

Cucumber "boats," used as a base for summery salads, may be made from raw or cooked cucumbers. The idea is to cut the vegetables lengthwise in halves, scoop out the seeds, leaving a hollow for any kind of filling you like—shrimp salad, crabmeat, vegetables and the like. The skin may be left on for color, or the cucumber may be peeled for convenience in eating.

If the cucumber boats are cooked, it's best to drop them into boiling salted water, being careful not to let them get soft. Then they may be drained, hollowed side down, and chilled thoroughly before they are stuffed. It's possible, too, to tint them as they cook, with a few drops of green or other liquid food coloring.

For the most part, I favor raw cucumber boats. They should be crisp and cold, and it's wise to cut them part way through crosswise in several places so that they may be eaten with ease. It may be funny to other diners, but it's seldom funny to the with ease.

Almost any good salad combination will do, just so there's something tart about it, in the dressing if not in the mixture itself.

Cucumber boats may serve not only as salads, but also as main dish. Fill them with creamed meat, fish or vegetables, top with buttered crums, and place them in a pan with enough water to keep them from scorching. Bake at 375 degrees until the cucumbers are tender and the crums are brown. Cucumbers may be parboiled in salted water for 5 minutes before they are stuffed. Then they may be placed in a greased pan and water needn't be added for the baking.

According to CULBERTSON

[Copyright: 1938: By Ely Culbertson.]

Preference bidding requires deft and discriminating handling. The beginner learns that when partner has bid two suits he must show which he prefers, and when he has no real preference, should return to the first named suit. This is all very well, as ground work, but the matter is not nearly cut and dried enough to be covered by a rigid rule. There are times when even showing a preference should be declined because of the risk that it may lead to further bidding. Consider the following situation:

Both sides vulnerable.

NORTH
♠ 8 6 2
♥ Q 9 5
♦ 8 6 4
♣ K 10 5 2

WEST
♠ Q 7 3
♥ A 8 4 2
♦ 9 3

EAST
♠ 9 4
♥ K 7 6 3
♦ K 10 5
♣ A 7 4 3

SOUTH
♠ A K J 10 5
♥ J 10
♦ A Q J 7 2
♣ 8

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
1 spade	Pass	1 no trump	Pass
2 diamonds	Pass	2 spades	Pass
3 spades	Pass	Pass	Pass

Although North passed to the three spade bid in a hurry, the damage had been done.

West opened the club queen, and declarer found that he could not avoid the loss of one spade trick, two hearts, a diamond and a club, thus suffering a 100 point penalty.

North's first error had been to make any bid whatever in response to South's spade. With as bare an honor trick as North held, and with the horrible 4-3-3-3 distribution, North should not have made even the negative no trump response. He should have passed! Considering that he did make this shaded response, however, he should have realized that if South had a good two suiter he might make one more try toward game if North gave him the chance to do so. Although North's bid was nothing but a preference, South still cannot be criticized for having made his game try with three spades. He had two reasonably solid suits. If North could deliver as much as the spade queen and another entry there would be a good play for game.

The point was that North knew very well he had shaded his no trump response, that South might be counting him for a shade more and that, consequently, there would be some danger, however slight, that over the preference bid of two spades South would make another bid. North should have nipped this possibility in the bud by passing to two diamonds. He was not playing duplicate and, therefore, a minor suit part-score contract was just as good as a major suit. The real crux was to make certain that the bidding did not pass the two level.

It follows, therefore, that under certain circumstances even preference bidding must be used with great discrimination.

ALDERMEN LASH FINES FOR MINOR LIQUOR PATRONS

Subcommittee to Weigh Changes in Ordinance.

The new ordinance designed to keep minors out of taverns and liquor stores by making the young patrons liable to a fine was assailed yesterday as a violation of personal liberties by Ald. James J. McDermott [14th]. He said it is the beginning of a return to conditions which existed during national prohibition. Following his attack on the measure before the city council committee on licenses, a subcommittee was appointed to consider amending the ordinance or calling for its repeal.

At its last meeting the council suspended the rules to pass the ordinance, which provides for a fine of from $5 to $50 for minors who buy or drink liquor in stores and taverns. Previously, only the tavern keepers or store owners were liable under the law. The new law was drawn to aid in the battle against juvenile delinquency which frequently has been traced to drinking parties in taverns.

Recalls Dry Law Dilemma.

Ald. McDermott asserted that police must depend on the testimony of minors to convict dealers and to have their licenses revoked.

"The new ordinance is a double-edged weapon," he asserted. "We can't make a defendant testify against himself to convict another man and we learned during prohibition that if he is granted immunity to testify he immediately becomes a co-conspirator with the officers of the law. Thus the ordinance will block a police drive against offending tavern keepers.

"It was just such an arbitrary action on the part of the national government in passing the prohibition law that led to all the evils of those years," he said. "Actually we are tempting young people to break the law by telling them they can't do something. Never doubt it—they will get liquor. They are just as human as their parents were ten years ago. They'll have it delivered to their clubrooms or meeting places where they will be away from supervision and proper guidance."

Alderman Thomas P. Keane [31st], chairman of the committee, after appointing a subcommittee to study the ordinance, asked Martin H. Foss, assistant corporation counsel, to prepare an opinion whether a young woman reaches her majority at 18 or 21. Foss told the committee that neither the state liquor law nor the city ordinance specifies.

Seek to Clarify Law.

An amendment to the existing city code clarifying the section on employment of minors in taverns and liquor stores will be introduced at the next meeting of the council.

Another subcommittee was appointed to study a proposed ordinance which would limit the number of tavern licenses to 7,500, compared with nearly 9,500 now operating. Representatives of several liquor dealers' associations appeared and spoke in favor of the limit.

Married 38 Years

Clayton F. Smith, president of the county board, and Mrs. Smith yesterday celebrated their thirty-eighth wedding anniversary in their home at 2703 Logan boulevard. Surrounded by relatives and friends, Mr. Smith described their wedding in Chicago June 27, 1900. They were in St. Paul, Minn., on their honeymoon, he said, when a cyclone struck the city.

STATE HONORS 54 NAVY MILITIAMEN FOR FLOOD WORK

Three officers and 54 men of the Illinois naval militia were decorated last night in the Naval Reserve armory for services to the state of Illinois during the disastrous floods of January, 1937. The medals were presented on behalf of the state by Capt. Edward A. Evers, commanding the militia.

The officers were Lieutenant Commander A. R. Pieper and his two aids, Lieut. H. P. Michiels and Lieut. D. M. Strong, junior grade.

JAMES MILLIKIN 'U' MEETS NEEDS OF COMMUNITY

Decatur Institution Found to Be on Upgrade.

BY PHILIP KINSLEY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Decatur, Ill., June 27.—[Special.]—The James Millikin university, which is not a university at all, but a vocational liberal arts institution, is an example of how a college can meet the needs of a community and still remain an independent, church related, but nonsectarian institution.

During the early part of the depression the college enrolment dropped from 600 to 228. A special study of the clientele was made, harmony established between town and school, a reorganization of curriculums undertaken, with the result that today the enrolment has climbed back to 550, largely from the Decatur area.

With an endowment of $1,200,000, including $251,000 for student loans, and an income of $30,000 a year from the trustees of the estate of the late James Millikin, Decatur banker and founder of the institution, with a $1,000,000 plant on a thirty-five acre campus three-quarters of a mile from the center of town, the Millikin institution appears on the upgrade.

Founder Charts Course.

With no hampering traditions, for Millikin was not organized until 1900, the educational course of the institution was charted by the founder. In addition to the customary college courses, it was decreed there should be a coördinate branch in which young men and women would be trained for the practical duties of life, on the farm, in the shop, in the counting room, and in the home.

It was to be an institution in which the scientific, the practical, and the industrial should have an equal importance with the literary and the classical. Christian, progressive, practical—this was the key to the development of the young college.

Through personality, intelligence and other tests and comprehensive examinations, the college seeks to keep track of the progress of students and place them in the lines for which they are best fitted. Guidance is offered in high school courses and on entrance. The liberal arts courses are kept as a foundation for all the vocations.

Must Know How to Make Living.

"We can't live without knowing how to make a living," said Dean Clarence Lee Miller, professor of history and political science, who has been at work reorganizing courses for the last three years.

The business administration course, which is the strongest of the vocational studies, outside of the conservatory of music, illustrates the integration of courses. The freshman in this course takes English, laboratory science, social science, business mathematics, reflective living, religion and physical education. The sophomore takes world literature, European civilization, religion, science survey, economics, accounting and physical education.

On this basis in the junior and senior year there are offered a selection of strictly business subjects, such as organization, auditing, accounting, commercial law, investments, marketing, public finance, advertising and selling, or special research. This department has been successful in placing its graduates and is tied in with local plants.

Wide Range of Courses.

The work in home economics, which prepares for positions in industrial, governmental, and educational fields, has a similar liberal and wide foundation. A department of engineering is maintained which offers two years work in civil, electrical, and mechanical engineering, taking the students to junior rank in any of the leading engineering colleges. Other courses are offered in industrial arts, fine arts, journalism, law, library science, medicine and dentistry, ministry, nursing, physical education and coaching, secretarial service, social service, teaching in elementary and high schools.

Dr. John Charles Hessler, an A. B. and instructor in chemistry at the University of Chicago, later professor of chemistry at Millikin and assistant director of the Mellon Institute of Industrial Research, is president of the college.

Trustees Named by Synod.

The trustees are appointed by the synods of the Presbyterian church. Throughout the courses religion is treated as the permeating and motivating force in an effective life. Extra curricular activities are encouraged as a valuable part of education. These include dramatics, debating, journalism, athletics, musical and religious groups, departmental clubs, honor societies, social organizations, and a student governing agency.

Any student may receive a rebate of $15 on each semester's tuition by completing two credit hours in religion in each of the first three years. Members of the band get a rebate of $12.50 per semester.

Note—This is the seventeenth of a series of articles on liberal arts colleges of the middle west. Another will appear soon.

Virginia Sappington.

New York, June 27.—[Special.]—A certificate of honorary life membership, the highest award of the National Education association, was presented tonight to Virginia Sappington, teacher who saved the lives of twenty pupils and a visiting child last March in a Kansas tornado which destroyed her schoolhouse.

Miss Sappington, who is 19 years old, is the youngest person ever to receive the N.E.A. award.

When the tornado approached the Piety Hill school near Chetopa, Kas., Miss Sappington herded her pupils together and started running north. Finding the storm was headed in that direction, she turned her pupils southward, running about an eighth of a mile and finding refuge for the children in a deep ditch just before the twister made splinters of the school. None of the children was injured, but Miss Sappington's hand was lacerated by barbed wire as she clung to a fence during the storm.

ARLINGTON MEETING OPENS; MOWER WINS

TAKES 12 OF 16 EVENTS; FENSKE WINS MILE, 880

Five Marks Fall as Conferences Meet.

BY WILFRID SMITH.

Track and field stars from the Pacific Coast conference overwhelmed the Big Ten last night in Dyche stadium, 101 to 35. Five records in the interconference competition, which was begun last year, were broken—four by athletes from the far west. Ten thousand watched the twilight games.

The Pacific Coast swept all scoring places in five events, won ten of the fourteen individual championships, and captured both relay races.

Arnold Nutting of California and Charles Fenske of Wisconsin were double victors. Nutting won the 100 yard dash and the broad jump. Fenske captured the half mile and the mile, handing Louis Zamperini of Southern California, the national collegiate champion, his first defeat since he began running in high school, in the latter event.

Fenske Gets Revenge.

Fenske won the Big Ten championship last month and failed by only one-tenth of a second of equaling the record. Earlier this month he set a record in the Central Collegiate meet in Milwaukee. But Zamperini whipped the Badger runner in the N. C. A. A. meet in Minneapolis.

So last night, when Fenske flashed across the finish line 12 yards in front of Zamperini he obtained revenge over the Trojan star. The manner of achievement was doubly satisfying.

Zamperini was willing to run in fifth place in the early laps, but he carefully followed Fenske, who was fourth. Leonard Spencer of California set the pace and his time of 67 seconds for the first quarter, 71 seconds for the next quarter mile, and 68 seconds for the third lap were exactly as if Fenske had planned it that way.

Fenske Too Far Ahead.

At the start of the last lap, Jimmy Smith of Indiana sprinted into the lead, followed closely by Fenske. Zamperini lagged in following and the Big Ten runners, with Fenske now in front, had ten yards advantage going down the back stretch. Moreover, Zamperini wasn't willing to pass Smith on the north turn. Zamperini's sprint finally whipped Smith, but by this time Fenske was so far ahead Zamperini's task was impossible.

Fenske's time for the mile was 4:20.9, probably the slowest mile either he or Zamperini has run this year and certainly the slowest in major competition.

Dave Albritton of Ohio State won the high jump championship with a mark of 6 feet 6⅝ inches, one inch higher than Bob Law of California could jump.

The other championship for the Big Ten, a new meet record, went to Wisconsin's Walter Mehl, who ran two miles in 9 minutes 13 5-10 seconds. In this year's campaign Mehl now has established new marks in the Big Ten, the Central Collegiates and the National Collegiates as well as in the meet last night.

Other Meet Records.

Other meet records were established by Nutting in the 100 yard dash and the broad jump, by Earl Vickery of Southern California in the 220 yard low hurdles, and by Jim Humphries also of the Trojan squad, in the 120 yard high hurdles.

Elmer Gedeon, Big Ten champion,

NAVY VARSITY SETS NEW RECORD AT POUGHKEEPSIE

Poughkeepsie, N. Y., June 27.—(AP)—The United States Naval academy's courageous varsity crew simultaneously broke the far west's grip on college rowing supremacy and smashed all four mile records today in a dramatic drive to victory tnat climaxed the Collegiate Rowing association's regatta on the Hudson river.

While their injured coach, Charles [Buck] Walsh, watched the finish from a hospital window overlooking the rain-swept course, the Midshipmen withstood the pressure of California's closing challenge to win the big race by barely one-third length, a margin of only one and one-fifth seconds on the official stopwatch.

Washington's famous Huskies, champions for the last two years and heroes of two successive sweeps of the Poughkeepsie regatta, trailed the victorious sailors by fully two lengths.

Hard Pressed to Beat Columbia.

The Huskies, beaten for the first time in any varsity competition since 1935, were hard pressed to whip Columbia's boatload for third place in a race that saw four of the seven varsity crews surpass the former four mile record.

Navy signalized its return to triumph, achieving the east's first varsity victory since the Middies themselves led the fleet home in 1931, by lowering the record to 18 minutes 19 seconds, with the aid of a brisk following wind and a strong ebbtide. The Middshipmen wiped out the record of 18:33 3-5 set last year by Washington.

California's time was 18:20 1-5 Washington's 18:25 2-5, and Columbia's 18:27. Wisconsin, which sent only the varsity to the regatta, after battling with the leaders for two miles, finished a strong fifth, with the two upstate rivals, Cornell and Syracuse, sixth and seventh.

Navy's varsity victory interrupted what looked like another sweep for the brilliant oarsmen from the Pacific coast. The west coast crews were one-two in each of the preliminary races.

California's freshmen came from behind to beat Washington by one second in the opening two mile race, with Syracuse, Columbia, and Cornell trailing in that order.

Huskies Win Junior Event.

Washington came back, however, to capture the three mile junior varsity event for the fourth successive year. The Huskies, in salvaging their only triumph, came from behind in the last 150 yards to beat California by a third of a length, a margin of one and one-fifth seconds. Navy, Syracuse, Cornell, and Columbia brought up the rear of the six crew junior varsity fleet in that order.

Except for Wisconsin's early spurts, which twice carried the Badgers to

Tonight I sink down at your feet and mourn
For days of happiness we might have known

How high our lives or how close to the sod,
If only sacrifice were not forgot,
And we were loyal to ourselves and God.
But we have spurned all counsel from above
Mistaking youthful passion for true love—
And there is left but this world's cold caress
Where we had sought for lasting happiness.

CUBS COME HOME HOPING FOR SOME RUNS AND LUCK

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

The Great Diz Dean, who has been doing nothing, and the other Cubs, who have been trying to do something, will be back on their own stage this afternoon. With them will be the St. Louis Gasless Gang. They will open a three game series, after which Manager Charley Grimm will take his boys back on the road for a limited trip.

The Cubs came home yesterday on a fast train, but the train couldn't move swiftly enough to shake off the depressing effects of the team's road record—made up of five victories against seven trimmings. That sorry performance has left them only two and one-half games behind the leaders. So long as they are close and the race still has more than three months to run there is reason to hope that something might happen. For instance, a few timely hits and an occasional homer with a couple of blokes on the bases.

Carleton Will Pitch.

The Cubs' pitching today will be in the care of Tex Carleton, who will sub for Bill Lee, the original nominee. Lee was removed from today's plans as the result of being called on unexpectedly in Sunday's game at New York. Going into the seventh the Cubs were only one run behind Carl Hubbell, so Grimm naturally lead with an ace, the idea being that the Cubs might get the tying run and that Lee then could carry on. Lee yielded three runs in his one inning of work, but there should have been only one tally, the others being

Sox Gang Up on Old Pal, George Cox; Beat Browns, 9-4

BY EDWARD BURNS.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

St. Louis, Mo., June 27.—Ted Lyons, who won his 200th American league victory on May 22, today got started on his way to 300 when he and associate White Sox whipped the St. Louis Browns, 9 to 4, in the opener of a four game series. It was ol' Ted's fifth try for No. 201.

The Sox proved again that they play much better in gray uniforms than in white. In their recent home stand they lost eight out of ten games. Today's triumph was their sixth in their last eight road games.

In the seventh the Sox scored three comforting runs on doubles by Boze Berger and Hayes and an in-the-park homer by Steinbacher. They added three runs off Ed Cole in the ninth in a lot of sloppy business in which a single by Kreevich was the only hit.

Hank Busts One.

The scoring off Lyons consisted of a score tying homer by Harland Clift in the first inning, a run on Beau Bell's double and Kress' single in the sixth and two runs in the eighth on a walk to Bell, singles by Kress and Glen McQuillen and an error by Marv Owen.

A triple, two walks, and a single netted the Sox one run in the first inning. Hayes opened the game with a triple and scored on Steinbacher's out. Kreevich walked and was caught stealing, after which Radcliff singled to right and Owen walked. Then Clift threw out Rensa.

The Sox stepped out for a cluster in the seventh, doubling their score. Berger started things with a double, advanced on Lyons' sacrifice and scored on Hayes' second extra base hit, a double to right. Steinbacher's line drive took a high bounce over Almada's head and rolled to the flag pole. Hayes scored and so did Steinbacher, credited with a homer.

Mike Is Cheated.

In the eighth, Bell walked with one out and Kress singled. McQuillen singled to center, Bell scoring and when Kreevich's throw got away from Owen, Kress scored and McQuillen reached third. Sullivan fouled to Rensa and Heffner flied to Radcliff.

Cole walked Berger at the start of the ninth. Lyons bunted a fly into Cole's glove, but Cole dropped it for an error, Berger reaching second and Lyons first. The runners advanced on Hayes' sacrifice and Steinbacher was given an intentional pass, filling the bases. Kreevich drove the ball to the right field screen, a cinch double, but the lads on the base lines were back on their heels and only Berger scored. Radcliff popped to Heffner, but Owen was hit by a pitched ball, Lyons scoring. Rensa walked, Steinbacher scoring. Then Kuhel fouled to Sullivan.

12,000 See Inaugural Handicap.

BY FRENCH LANE.

The Arlington Park race meeting opened yesterday under bright skies before a crowd of 12,000, many of whom had not encountered each other at a race track since Arlington closed its meeting a year ago.

The spectators were almost too busy renewing acquaintances to bet on the outcome of the races. Still they found time to pour nearly a quarter of a million dollars into the betting machines.

Mower, a handsome brown from the Millsdale stable of Chicago, helped add to the gayety of the occasion by romping home in front in the Inaugural handicap which had a gross value of $5,000 and was worth $3,690 to M. L. Emerick, the Chicago banker who owns the stable.

Mower Wins Handily.

For some reason or other Mower became a hot tip. The tip circulated from the Post and Paddock club to the head of the stretch. When he came home the winner by two and a half lengths after leading all the way, a mighty roar of approval went out for him. Then another roar went up when he paid off at $7.80 to win, $5.20 to place, and $3.80 to show.

Nearest Mower at the finish was the almost completely neglected Grey Gold. In third place came Marmara from the Le Mar stock farm stable. Grey Gold paid $17.40 to place and $12.40 to show. Marmara was at $8.40 to show.

Mower Takes Lead.

Mower moved out of the starting gate in full stride. Almost instantly he had raced his way into the lead. First his margin was half a length. He increased it to two going down the backstretch out of the mile chute. He was three lengths in front of his nearest rival on the last turn. He kept busily at his task and went on to win by two and a half lengths.

His time was excellent, in the heavy going. He stepped the quarter in :23 2-5, the half in :47, the three-quarters in 1:13 1-5, and the seven furlongs in 1:26 4-5.

Mower formerly raced for Joseph E. Widener and is a son of Widener's successful sire, Sickle. He was purchased from Widener at a big price by his Chicago owner. It was Mower's second start of the year. He won his first engagement in the mud at Lincoln Fields a week ago.

Good Weather at Last.

For the first time since the Arlington Park Jocky club opened its track there was no rainfall to drench a first day crowd. There was a reminder of the rains of other years, however, because the track was heavy. It dried rapidly during the afternoon.

Just as expected the little excited band of fashionably bred 2 year olds that represented some of North America's most noted racing establishments almost stole the show from the Inaugural handicap. They opened the program and battled gamely over the heavy track for five and one-half furlongs.

At the finish On Location, owned by Mrs. Ethel V. Mars' Milky Way Farm stable was in front, Book Plate from the barn of Mrs. John Hertz was second, and Calumet Red, owned by Warren Wright, was third. Sky Ball, a longshot from the stable of J. R. Neville, was fourth.

MARICA ASSIGNED 132 POUNDS FOR ARLINGTON STAKE

Racing secretary Charles McLennan of Arlington Park indicated yesterday that he considers the French Lick Springs stable's Marica the best in North America by assigning her 132 pounds for the renewal of the Matron stakes on Saturday.

Few mares ever have been asked to tote such a package. Endurance did it successfully, so did Imp, the coal black mare from Chillicothe, O. Both did their racing more than twenty years ago.

Next in line in the weights for the Matron is Fair Knightness, a stable companion of Seabiscuit. She is asked to carry 124 pounds. Idle Miss and Millie M. each were assigned 118 pounds and Mrs. Ethel V. Mars' Mars Shield 117. The Matron is at a mile and was won last year by Marica.

Warren Wright was being congratulated at Arlington's opening yesterday for the honor bestowed upon him by the New York Turf Writers association, which last week proclaimed him the leading breeder of thoroughbreds in America. Robert McGarvey, trainer for Mrs. Ethel V. Mars, also was being congratulated. He was selected by the association as the trainer to have accomplished the most.

Chicago turf writers have known for a long time that Wright was tops in the breeding ranks and that McGarvey led the trainers, but to have the New York writers go west unanimously and publicly declared for the two is really something. There may be more distinguished and more illustrious bodies in New York than the New York Turf Writers association, but there certainly is none more difficult to impress, especially when carrying the handicap of a Chicago address.

Wright and McGarvey deserved all the cheers they got yesterday. And for style and beauty, Chicago's women folks accepted a few cheers themselves. This is direct from Artist Frank Hoffman, who has spent enough time studying beauty lines to know. Hoffman is here from Taos, N. M., to do a number of horse paintings, among them a scene in Arlington's open air paddock at saddling time.

Prominent Kentuckians represented by horses at Arlington include former Senators John N. Camden and Arthur B. Hancock, the noted breeder. Young Sheriff Ward trains for both. Camden owns Royal Palm, a leading contender for the Lassie stakes, and Lazarnes, a son of Display. Hancock's horses are the juvenile fillies, Explosion, No Risk, and So Rare, and Recussion, a 4 year old.

Jocky J. G. Wilson simply can't make himself behave when he gets into the saddle. He was suspended for the last five days of the Lincoln Fields season for rough riding. He rode Merry Caroline in the second race yesterday, cut over in front of his field, and for the offense was penalized with another ten days' vacation.

Kangaroo Lake Bass Hit—Then Hit Some More

BY BOB BECKER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Door County, Wis., June 27.—While fishing Kangaroo lake the other night we found the large mouthed black bass so eager to hit either a fly or a floating plunker type casting lure that they would make not one, but several smashes to crack down the lure. This persistency on the part of the fish developed some very amusing incidents during the course of the sundown hours we spent on the lake.

One bass weighing about two pounds caught us flat-footed with a third strike at our lure. It was around 7 o'clock in the evening. The sun was close to the timber line on a hill rising on the west side of the lake. Already an owl in the woods about an eighth of a mile from us was beginning to broadcast.

Our canoe was in the middle of a large area of rushes, but by careful work you could get a surface lure through this vegetation. We had found that a small surface plug was the best lure in this shallow water because the bass were in the rushes and a jerking, dancing plug stirred them into action. Lee Thorpe, our fishing partner, was casting his plug into a fairly thick stand of rushes on the left, while we kept a lure going to the right of the canoe.

On one cast we had a dandy strike. The water fairly boiled behind the lure. But we didn't feel the fish at all. The floating plug did a few more jigs and moved ahead a little. Again a swirl behind the lure. But the bass didn't close down on it.

We were disgusted. Taking our left hand from the rod we turned around to speak to Thorpe, comment ing on the way that blamed bass wouldn't cooperate. Meantime our lure floated quietly among the reeds. Just as we spoke the bass surprised us by walloping the plug for all he was worth. After refusing to take it when it was moving this fish couldn't resist a smash at the plug when it was still. It was not a big one, weighing only about a pound and a half. But in the weeds he gave us a lot of fun.

While using a fly rod a little later in the evening we located a school of crappies. They announced their presence by coming up and knocking the bass bug into the air. Casting around a clump of rushes, we were amazed to see our bass bug zooming into the air after a crappie bunted it. Switching to a small surface bug we picked up a couple of crappies and then a small bass hit it—an example of how one fly rod lure sometimes will take two kinds of fish.

lead and he stayed there until it ended.

On Location was purchased by Mrs. Mars at the Saratoga auctions last August for $16,500. He is a son of Teddy-Cinema and was bred on Arthur B. Hancock's farm in Kentucky. He mustered all kinds of backing and finally went to the post as the favorite. In the mutuel betting he paid $6.60.

Another 2 year old race also threw the crowd into a frenzy. This was the Hyde Park purse. In a thrilling nose finish American Byrd, owned by W. H. Whitehouse of Kentucky, got the decision over Wiskover from the stable of Charles Cleary of Chicago. Range Dust, a Texas colt from Valdina farms, was third.

This brought an upset in the betting. American Byrd returned $15.60 to those who wagered two dollars on him. He was up in the final strides under a powerful ride by Porter Roberts to gain the nod of the judges.

FLOWERS SHOOTS 72 TO LEAD IN COLLEGE GOLF

5 Others Tie for Second with 73.

Louisville, Ky., June 27.—(AP)—Edward J. Flowers of Grand Rapids, Michigan State senior, set the pace today for a record field in the opening qualifying round of the forty-first annual national intercollegiate golf tournament.

The tall, husky Michigan state golfer, like the 158 other collegians who went to the post out of an entry list of 174, failed to solve the puzzling par of the Louisville Country club, but his one over par 72 gave him a stroke lead at the halfway mark of the qualifying test.

Five Shoot 73s.

Five players were a stroke back with 73s, well within striking distance of the medalist trophy that will go to the low scorer at the end of tomorrow's final eighteen holes of the qualifying program.

Two University of Michigan entries, Robert Palmer, also of Grand Rapids, and Bill Barclay of Flint, along with Sid Richardson of Northwestern, Robert E. Bingham of Amherst, and Lew Oehmig of Virginia, were deadlocked with 73s.

Fifty-seven players scored 78 or better with indications it would take around 152 or 153 to get into the championship division of thirty-two that will start match play with two eighteen hole rounds on Wednesday.

Northwestern Leads Teams.

In the team competition, Northwestern took the lead with 302, followed by Stanford with 305, Michigan with 306, and Louisiana State at 308. Virginia and Dartmouth were tied at 310, Michigan State had 311 and Georgetown 312. Princeton, the defending champion, appeared hopelessly out of the running with 316.

Richardson was elected president of the National Intercollegiate Golf association at the annual meeting tonight. Vincent D'Antoni, Tulane, was elected secretary-treasurer.

GORDON, ANNAN WIN PLAYOFF IN ONWENTSIA GOLF

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.

The tourney resulted in a tie between George Smith, the host pro, who was paired with W. I. Osborne Jr., and Bill Gordon, Rockford pro, whose partner was D. H. Annan. Both finished with a best ball of 33—32—65, six strokes under par.

Three 67 twosomes followed the leaders. They were Jock Hutchison Sr. of Glen view and T. A. Connors, 31—36—67; Dick Metz of the Mill Road Farm course, and E. K. Welles, 33—34—67, and Herb Johnson of Butterfield and E. W. Proxmire, 33—34—67.

Johnson had the best individual card of the day, a 34—34—68, three under par.

Bob o' Link's annual hullabaloo opens today with more than 300 members and guests playing 18 holes today and 18 tomorrow.

Other tournaments scheduled today and tomorrow are the Builders' Tee club outing at Southmoor today and the Chicago Dental society's annual tournament for new members at Olympia Fields tomorrow.

Navy Varsity Sets Record at Poughkeepsie

the fore, Navy set nearly all the varsity pace. The Midshipmen had the lane farthest from the shore, where the going figured to be toughest and roughest, but they were paced perfectly by Paul G. Schultz Jr., a comparatively inexperienced stroke, and they had the combined stuff to stand off the closing bid of California's favorites.

Navy was never headed after passing the two mile mark, where Wisconsin faded and the two western crews moved up to the challenging spots. The Midshipmen had three-quarters of a length over California at the halfway point and a full length advance passing under the railroad bridge, with one mile to go.

Middies Stick to It.

The crisis was reached as the leaders came to the last half mile. There it appeared through the mist and rain that Navy had little more than a deck length, perhaps ten feet, to spare. California had come up with a rush.

But the Midshipmen weren't through. With only a furlong to go Navy had matched California's spurt with a comeback sprint of its own. Both shells drove at a record-smashing pace to the finish, but the Midshipmen refused to crack under the strain. Their margin of triumph was slender, but they added perhaps a half dozen feet to it in the last few strokes.

SEEKS DELAY FOR AMBERS IN BOUT WITH ARMSTRONG

New York, June 27.—(AP)—Al Weill, manager of Lightweight Champion Lou Ambers, said today he would ask the New York state athletic commission tomorrow to sanction a postponement of one week of Ambers' title fight with Henry Armstrong, featherweight and welterweight champion, scheduled for July 26 in New York.

Promoter Mike Jacobs said that if the commission approved he would present the show Aug. 2, either in the Yankee stadium or in the Madison Square Garden bowl in Long Island City.

CubsAreHome Looking for a Few Base Hits

due to Reynolds' misjudgment of Bob Seeds' fly ball, which went for a homer. Yes, sir, that unexpected something always happens to the Cubs.

Another chapter will be written today in the trials and tribulations of Dean. The $185,000 arm will undergo reëxamination.

Last winter Dr. Hub Pruett, who as a southpaw with the Browns was a man dreaded by Babe Ruth, took a look at Dean's arm which had been injured with the Cardinals in early August. Pruett advised a cast for no other reason than that it would prevent Diz from moving the arm far enough to hinder nature's efforts to repair the injured muscle. Diz stood the cast for a limited stretch and then pulled it off. It annoyed him. Now Diz wants to go back to Dr. Pruett in St. Louis.

Why Not Let Him Pitch?

Diz still is defying orders of the various doctors who have given him a look since he was acquired by the Cubs on April 16. The lad is bubbling over with energy and anytime he notices that none of his bosses is watching he'll throw a ball. He simply doesn't believe in rest cures, to hear him tell it; so it might not be a bad idea to let him pitch and prove his argument.

INDIANS BEAT RED SOX, 7 TO 3, BEHIND FELLER

Cleveland, O., June 28.—(AP)—The Indians backed up Bobby Feller's seven hit pitching today with a fifteen hit attack of their own to trounce the Boston Red Sox, 7 to 3, and boost their American league lead to four full games.

Feller got himself into several tight spots, but pulled out of all of them. He was particularly cool in the third, when the Red Sox loaded the bases on two singles and a walk, with none out. Feller then fanned Pinky Higgins and forced Ben Chapman to ground into a double play to end the threat.

It looked bad again in the fifth when Jimmy Foxx clouted his 21st homer of the year and Joe Cronin followed with a double, but again Feller struck out Higgins to pull through. Altogether, he fanned ten Boston batters. Score:

PROBE AMATEUR BOXER'S DEATH AFTER KNOCKOUT

The coroner's office began an investigation into the death last night of Peter Cribari, 17 years, old, who failed to recover from a blow in a neighborhood amateur boxing bout in Davis square, 44th street and Marshfield avenue. Cribari was fighting Raymond Maher, 16, of 6344 South Seeley avenue, when he was knocked unconscious in the last few seconds of their three round bout. Cribari lived at 1108 South California avenue. Police said his death may have been due to the head blow or a heart ailment. Both boys were novice featherweights. Cribari had won the first two rounds decisively.

Next Question Is Who Will Start All-Star Game?

New York, June 27.—(AP)—Following announcement of the American and National league squads for the sixth All-Star game to be played at Redland field, Cincinnati, O., July 6, fans have turned their attention to speculating on what players Managers Joe McCarthy and Bill Terry will name for their starting lineups.

Except that he intends to use Johnny Vander Meer, the double no-hit game star, and Ernie Lombardi, both of the Reds, as his opening battery, Terry has given no indication of how the National leaguers will line up, and neither has McCarthy ventured an opinion as to the American league team for the game which was originated by THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE in 1933.

For the first time since the game has been an annual feature, the National league has chosen freshmen. Besides Vander Meer, Frank McCormick, Cincinnati first baseman, is a first year man. The American league set a precedent by naming Joe Di Maggio two years ago while he was in his first season with the Yankees.

Gabby Hartnett, Cub catcher who has been in all five previous All-Star games, will be back again this season on the National league team. Pitcher Bill Lee and Infielders Billy Herman and Stanley Hack were named.

In addition to Hartnett and Herman the other veterans of All-Star competition who were named yesterday include Joe Medwick of the Cardinals, Carl Hubbell and Mel Ott of the Giants, and Tony Cuccinello of the Bees.

Catchers—Leo Hartnett, Chicago; Ernie Lombardi, Cincinnati; Gordon Phelps, Brooklyn.

Manager—Bill Terry, New York.

TURIELLO SNAPS ARON'S STRING OF 7 VICTORIES

Turiello, who weighed 147½ pounds to Aron's 148, displayed a shifty, two fisted style which puzzled his opponent most of the way. The defeat snapped Aron's string of seven victories.

Turiello piled up points in each of the first five rounds, but in the sixth Aron almost floored his foreign opponent twice with two rights to the ear and won the round. In the ninth Turiello's right eye was cut by a left hook.

Sherman Edwards and Joe Delya fought four rounds to a draw in the opening match. In two other preliminary matches of four rounds Frankie Agnes whipped Sonny Batson and George Nelson beat Georgie White.

Irish Boxers Look to Lacey in C.Y.O. Bouts

The Irish boxing team is depending on Matt Lacey of Waterford for a heavyweight division victory in the bouts with the Catholic Youth organization July 13 in Soldiers' field.

Lacey will go into his fight with a reputation to live up to. This reputation was acquired by stopping four opponents as he won his way to the Irish championship. No one of these four was able to get through the second round.

When training begins Thursday in the C. Y. O. camp at Rockford the coaches will start right away to study the heavyweights in order to find a boy with a strong defense against the punches Lacey is expected to shoot. Clarence Brown, Fred Washington, Herman Stamer, Ed Chapman, and Ray McNally will be competing for this assignment. After ten days or so of rigorous intrasquad competition the team will be named.

Lacey has height and reach, but his weight is not particularly impressive. Though he is over six feet tall, he weighs only 186 pounds. However, he's a rugged fellow, having put in several years on the Waterford docks. He has also worked as a seaman on several voyages.

The C. Y. O. coaches will depend on the cleverness and experience of their fighter to beat Lacey, for the Irishman has put in only one year in organized boxing. He has established a reputation for hitting, but the Chicago coaches are confident that their nominee will be able to stay out of reach of the knockout punch that won the Irish championship.

Keepsakes.

Yesterday I cleaned closets,
Sentiment held full sway,
For things I didn't need at all
I couldn't throw away.

There were pictures of the family
Taken many years ago,
Like something that the cat's brought in,
But I couldn't let them go.

Then those old faded letters
Kept in a little bag,
Written by my son in France,
They are wrapped in his service flag.

And when I went to put things back
I seemed to be stuck in a mire,
The only way to clean closets well
Is to throw keepsakes in the fire.

EXPLAIN CHANGE IN NEW FEDERAL BANKRUPTCY ACT

Chicago Lawyers Analyze Chandler Measure.

Copies of the Chandler bankruptcy act, which was passed by congress just prior to its adjournment, arrived in Chicago yesterday and immediately became the object of an intensive study by attorneys specializing in bankruptcy law. The statute, which "modernizes" the national bankruptcy act of 1898, becomes effective in three months.

The existing fundamentals of the present bankruptcy system are not changed by the new legislation, attorneys said, but the new act is designed to increase efficiency in the administration of bankrupts. It makes discharge provisions of the law more effective, provides a more workable partnership section, improves enforcement of criminal provisions, and minimizes evasions of bankruptcy requirements.

Act Extended to Individuals.

Through a chapter on "arrangements," the new act enables a business man to arrange his affairs with his creditors and obtain benefits previously accorded to corporations reorganized under section 77B of the amended bankruptcy law. Similar relief is also provided for wage earners, and the district attorney's office may become a party to practically all such proceedings to prevent, or detect federal offenses.

Most important of the changes, it is said, is the re-writing of the section 77B amendment dealing with corporate reorganization, as chapter 10 of the new act. Two major improvements in procedure provided by section 77B are made: the mandatory appointment of a disinterested trustee in cases involving scheduled liabilities of as much as $250,000, and administrative assistance for the courts in their consideration of proposed plans of reorganization.

Trustee to Assist Court.

The trustee, under chapter 10, becomes one of the more important sources of assistance to the court. If the court directs, he is to investigate the debtor's liabilities and property, the quality of management, the reasons for insolvency, and the likelihood and method of successful reorganization.

This information may then be given to the creditors and stockholders, who may in turn submit plans of reorganization to the trustee. The effect of these provisions, according to attorneys, is that the formation of plans of reorganization takes place inside, instead of outside, the court, with the trustee having the primary responsibility of submitting the plan to the court.

Another source of administrative assistance is offered to the act by making it mandatory for all plans involving more than $3,000,000 to be submitted to the Securities and Exchange commission for an examination and report. Cases of less than this amount are discretionary with the court, or the SEC may come into the case on its own motion.

Ohio Associated Telephone.

Investors' Guide: I would like to have some information on the Ohio Associated Telephone company 6 per cent preferred stock. Is this a conservative investment for a widow's funds?—E. M. L.

Answer: The Ohio Associated Telephone company, an operating company controled by the General Telephone corporation, provides local and long distance telephone service to about 275 communities in 19 Ohio counties. The population served is about 113,000 persons.

The company is rather small. Its total assets were $4,164,121 at the end of 1937, of which $221,626 were current assets. The current liabilities amounted to $135,509. Operating revenues and net income for 1937 were the largest since 1931. Revenues for the 12 months ended March 31 were higher than in the preceding year, but net income was lower due to higher expenses.

The recovery peak net income in 1937 amounted to $101,392, equivalent to $11.02 a preferred share. Charges and preferred dividends were covered 1.35 times in 1937, 1.24 times in 1936, and 1.26 times in the 12 months ended March 31, 1938.

Dividends were not paid on the preferred from March 1, 1933, to July 10, 1936, when arrearage was cleared.

Because the combined coverage of fixed charges and preferred dividends is rather small and because the company was unable to maintain dividends through the last depression, we hardly believe the preferred is suitable for all or even a large part of a widow's funds if she must depend on income from her investments. We would, in view of present economic conditions, regard the stock as more a speculation than an investment.

Washington National.

Investors' Guide: Please tell me what the cash yields were on the assets of the Washington National Insurance company in 1936 and 1937.—M. J. K.

Answer: The cash yield on the assets of the Washington National Insurance company was 3.6 per cent in 1936, a fair rate of return, and 3.0 per cent in 1937, a low rate of return.

Mutual Life of New York.

Answer: The Mutual Life Insurance company of New York had 19 per cent of its physical assets, excluding policy loans, invested in mortgages at the end of 1937. The average for the insurance business is 22 per cent.

Day By Day Story of the Experimental Farms

By Frank Ridgway

Berry Crop Good

June 27, 1938.

BERRIES are making a good showing in the combination vineyard and berry plantation started on the Tribune's Du Page county farm in 1936. However, heavy frosts killed the blossoms on the grapevines and there will be no fruit this year.

A fair crop of strawberries is now being picked from sixteen different varieties of plants started two years ago. Despite the fact that 1936 was an extremely dry year, some of each variety lived. They are known as Chesapeake, Pearl, Kentucky Aroma, Senator Dunlap, Gibson, Grand Champion, Premier, Blakemore, Claremont, Fairfax, Catskill, Dorsett, Champion, Wayzata, Gem, Mastodon. The last four are everbearing varieties.

Six different varieties of grapevines—Moore's Early, Fredonia, Concord, Niagara, Caco, and Delaware—were set out in 1936 and all managed to have some plants that survived the drouth.

Raspberries Abundant.

A bumper crop of raspberries is now developing on some of the eight different varieties represented in the plantation. A check revealed that the canes were loaded with green berries in many cases. The new Logan, a black raspberry, has a good crop of big berries forming. The leaves were only slightly injured by killing frosts.

The Chief, a red raspberry, started ripening a week ago. There is a big crop to be picked. Pickers are finding a fairly good crop on the Latham, a red variety. There also is a fair crop of berries on the St. Regis, an everbearing red fruited variety. These are now ripening; some were ready to pick a week ago.

The Cumberland, a black raspberry, and the Patomac, a purple berry, are producing heavy crops of fruit. There is a good crop of berries on the Pearl, a black variety. Golden Queen, a yellow variety of raspberry, is making only a fair showing. The bushes are the smallest in the plantation.

Big Blackberry Crop.

In the blackberry patch there will be a heavy crop of fruit to pick this summer. An abundance of berries is developing on all of the varieties in the plantation, including Alfred, Eldorado, and Early Harvest.

Two varieties of gooseberries, Joselyn, with a red fruit, and Downing, with a green fruit, were set out in 1936. All but one of the Joselyn plants died. About half the Downing plants lived. There are a few berries on the latter.

Of the four currant varieties started in the plantation Wilder is the only one that has berries this year. The fruit is red when ripe. There are only a few berries on the bushes. About two-thirds of the plants started in 1936 lived. About half the plants of the white grape lived.

TAX TO AID IDLE DECLARED CAUSE OF FEWER JOBS

Taber Says Workers, Employers Are Hurt.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., June 27.—Representative John Taber [R., N. Y.] presented figures today showing that a total of $364,402,673 was collected by the various states in unemployment insurance taxes and turned over to the federal government from Jan. 1 to May 31, but only $159,710,000 was withdrawn by the states for distribution in unemployment benefits during the same period.

Representative Taber.

He charged that the unemployment insurance pay roll tax increased unemployment far out of proportion to the meager benefits provided by it.

Pay Out Less than Half.

"In other words, during the period from Jan. 1 to May 31—five months—the total receipts have been just $204,692,673 more than the disbursements," said Taber. "We have been through five months of probably the slackest period in the employment of our people in modern history. In this time we have paid out to the states less than one-half of what has been collected in unemployment insurance taxes.

"When we are taking out of the employer twice as much in taxes as is being used to pay benefits to the employés, where does the employé get off? The employé, in one way or another, has the tax deducted from his pay, or it prevents the employer from giving him an increase in pay.

"At the present time, when it is almost impossible for any one to run any business at a profit, the employer and the employé are being obliged, by this social security tax for unemployment insurance, to pay in five months $204,000,000 more than the states withdraw for benefits to the employés.

Explains How Tax Operates.

"These figures indicate that this tax is acting as a drawback to the employment of our people and to the prosecution of business, and that this scheme should be greatly modified if not entirely wiped out, so that our employers of labor may have a chance to employ the people."

Tabor explained the unemployment insurance provision of the social security act went into effect in the calendar year 1936, with a federal tax on employers' pay rolls of 1 per cent. For 1937 the tax was 2 per cent and for this year, as was as all succeeding years, it is 3 per cent.

Employers receive a credit against the federal tax of 90 per cent of the amount paid to states under their unemployment compensation system. The remaining 10 per cent is apportioned among the states for the administrative expenses of their unemployment compensation boards.

Taxes collected by the states are deposited, for safe keeping, with the secretary of the treasury, who is required to invest the funds in obligations of the United States government and issue to the states certificates of indebtedness bearing interest of 2½ per cent against the funds in hand.

Nearly Billion Collected.

Prior to last Jan. 1 Taber said, the states collected and deposited with the secretary of the treasury a total of $633,825,937. Collections since then, amounting to $364,402,673, brought the total of deposits in the federal trust fund to $998,228,610, he said.

"It is not a benefit to the working man to have this fund piled up in the treasury, allegedly for his benefit in unemployment insurance, when the working man can never get this money under the operations of the law," Taber's statement continued. "It is a curse to the working man when he cannot get a job because the employer is so burdened by this tax that he is unable to operate at a profit."

Roosevelt Approves Rail Unemployment Insurance

Washington, D. C., June 27.—(AP)—President Roosevelt approved today an act establishing a separate system of unemployment insurance for the nation's 900,000 railroad workers. The measure substitutes a single national system for benefits that states now pay in conjunction with the social security program. The act provides benefits ranging from $1.75 to $3 a day with a maximum possible annual payment of eighty times the daily rate. It must be made operative before July 1, 1939.

Standard Oil to Restore Third Grade Gasoline Price

The Standard Oil Company of Indiana announced yesterday that effective tomorrow the tank wagon prices to consumers on third grade gasoline will be restored to "normal" in Illinois, Indiana, Iowa, Minnesota, Missouri, North Dakota, South Dakota, and Wisconsin, where prices recently were reduced.

Dollar Gains Moderately on Foreign Currencies

The dollar advanced moderately in terms of leading European currencies yesterday in quiet foreign exchange dealings. The British pound closed ¾ of a cent lower at $4.95½,

I. C. C. Grants Pullman Fare Boost of 5 Pct.

Washington, D. C., June 27.—[Special.]—The interstate commerce commission today granted the Pullman company, sleeping car affiliate of Pullman, Inc., a 5 per cent increase in sleeping car fares and charges. The company had requested an increase of 10 per cent.

Agreeing that existing revenues of the company are inadequate, the commission said that an increase of 5 per cent would "result in a rate adjustment for the applicant's services which is just and reasonable. An increase of 10 per cent, the commission ruled, would result in "unjust and unreasonable rates."

Further Adjustments Permitted.

Permission was granted the company to make the higher charges effective on ten days' notice. In addition to the 5 per cent increase the company was authorized to add a sufficient amount when necessary to make each rate end in a multiple of 5 cents.

The ruling was accompanied by a statement from Chairman Splawn concurring only in part of the findings. Commissioner McManamy dissented.

The commission also began rehearings of the application of eastern railroads for an increase from 2 cents to 2.5 cents per mile in passenger coach fares. A few weeks ago the commission voted 6 to 5 to deny the boost.

N. Y. Central Head Testifies.

F. E. Williamson, president of the New York Central railroad and the first witness to testify at the rehearing, told the commission that the financial situation of eastern railroads was "much worse" than it was six months ago.

Williamson said that net operating revenues of the New York Central were 20.4 per cent less in 1937 than in 1936 and that the road has had a $1,700,000 deficit in operating revenue during the first four months of this year. He also cited large increases in operating expenses.

In response to questions from Commissioner Aitchison as to New York Central's interest in Central Greyhound, Williamson said that his road owned a "substantial interest" in the bus line, but not control. He said that the bus line was meeting with heavy expenses and would petition the commission for increase in rates if the railroads' plea for higher rates were granted.

MARSHALL FIELD STAF WILL JOIN SALES CAMPAIGN

Frederick D. Corley, president of Marshall Field & Co., yesterday announced his intention of asking the 3,000 sales persons employed by the company to participate in the "national salesmen's crusade," which was started six weeks ago by George W. Mason, president of Nash-Kelvinator corporation, as a means of combating the depression.

Mason, who explained the "sales mean jobs" campaign last week to a gathering of 1,800 Chicago business leaders and sales executives, will present his plan again to the Marshall Field employés at a meeting at 8:30 a. m. tomorrow before the store opens. H. W. Burritt, vice president of Nash-Kelvinator, who aided Mason in first introducing the crusade with a sales drive in Lincoln, Neb., also will be present.

Marshall Field & Co. will be the first State street store to participate in the crusade, which is based on the theory that a national sales campaign will materially increase consumer purchases, which are now dwindling.

C. I. O.'S THREAT OF STRIKE BREAKS PRICES OF HOGS

The C. I. O. threat to call a strike in six of the principal small hog packing plants in Chicago was blamed yesterday for the sharp break in hog prices at the Chicago stockyards. Packers who would be affected by such a strike bought sparingly and yard traders, who are usually good buyers on Monday, remained almost idle, leaving the market in the hands of order buyers and the three big packers.

Packers said they hoped to avert a strike and expected to reach an agreement with officials of the union of packing house workers at a meeting this afternoon. However, in the meantime they will restrict operations.

It was estimated that the break cost farmers approximately $7,500. Declines ranged from 10 to 25 cents per hundred pounds in the various classes.

BROKER REGISTRATION LAGGING IN STATE; 100 WITHDRAWALS MADE

Less than half of the Illinois brokers and investment dealers who took out state licenses a year ago have applied for re-registration so far, Edward J. Hughes, secretary of state, reported yesterday. Present licenses expire Thursday night.

Applications for re-registration now total 222, compared with the 582 brokers and dealers in business July 1, 1937. Approximately 100 registrations have been withdrawn in the last six weeks, Hughes said.

Applicants for licenses were required for the first time this year to file financial statements prepared and certified by outside accountants instead of by their own stafs. Applicants also were required this year to show a liquid net worth of at least $5,000. Former regulations required only that net worth of $5,000 be shown.

Hughes said that notices of granting of re-registrations were being mailed yesterday to 150 applicants. He predicted a last minute rush of applications.

Lawyers' Fee Claim Lashed in Utility Case

A recommendation that fees of $45,000 requested by seven lawyers for work in the Utilities Power and Light corporation reorganization proceedings be slashed to $20,000 was made yesterday by Carl R. Chindblom, special master in chancery, in a report filed with Federal Judge William H. Holly. Judge Holly has jurisdiction over the company, which is undergoing reorganization under section 77B of the federal bankruptcy act.

The petition for $45,000 compensation, which is one of many claims made or to be made by various parties connected with the case, had been filed by the law firm of Adams, Nelson & Williamson, counsel for James H. Houghteling, one of Judge Holly's special investigators. The attorneys in the petition reported that they spent a total of 1,876 hours in aiding Houghteling in his investigation and filing of his report.

Calls Claims Unreasonable.

"No reasonable explanation or excuse appears in the record for the hundreds of hours of time apparently spent by the petitioners in their interoffice conferences," Chindblom said.

Chindblom recommended that a fee of $7,500 already allowed the attorneys be deducted from the $20,000 which he deemed adequate compensation, leaving $12,500 due.

Members of the firm are Robert McCormick Adams, Murray Nelson, and Burke Williamson. The four others associated with the firm who worked on the case are Paul S. Davis, Douglas Schwantes, Jack Williamson, and Newton L. Jenkins.

CLARKES DENY LOAN

Denial that the Webster Securities corporation loaned $350,000 to Mrs. Hildur F. Clarke was made yesterday before Special Master John R. Heath by her husband, Harley L. Clarke, former president and sole stockholder of the now bankrupt corporation and former head of Utilities Power and Light corporation.

Admitting that such a loan had been contemplated and the papers drawn up, Clarke testified he thought both the note and a securing mortgage on the Clarke home at 2603 Sheridan road, Evanston, had been destroyed by him in 1928, shortly after Mrs. Clarke decided not to mortgage the home, which is owned by her.

The hearing is in connection with an attempt by Frederick Z. Marx, trustee for Webster Securities, to foreclose the mortgage, found with the note recently in files of the bankrupt firm.

WHEAT EASIER; GOOD WEATHER HELPS HARVEST

Generally favorable weather conditions for harvesting winter wheat in the west and southwest, and further beneficial rains in the American and Canadian spring grain belts weakened wheat prices yesterday. Net losses on the Chicago Board of Trade were ¼ to ½ cent, and declines in other North American markets ranged up to 1¾ cents.

Corn futures had a somewhat wider range than recently, firming early on buying induced by fears of crop damage in parts of Illinois as the result of flooded low lands. Prices weakened later and closing trades were unchanged to ⅜ cent lower.

Price changes in oats and rye were confined to small fractions of a cent. Soy beans advanced ⅛ to 1 cent.

Brazil Denies Exchange Policy Will Be Modified

[Copyright: 1938: By the New York Times.]

RIO JANEIRO, Brazil, June 27.—A denial of persistent rumors that Brazil contemplated modifying its foreign exchange policy was made today by Tancredo Ribas Carneiro, national exchange director. The rumor was that Brazil was considering adoption of an exchange control system similar to that of Argentina.

Pipe Line Firm's Revenues Gain 24 Pct. in 12 Months

Gross revenues of $9,667,969 for the twelve months ended May 31 were reported yesterday by Panhandle Eastern Pipe Line company. This was a gain of 24 per cent.

INT. HARVESTER WILL CLOSE MANY PLANTS TO CUT INVENTORIES

The International Harvester company announced yesterday that its West Pullman and Tractor works in Chicago will be closed for the last two weeks in July and that part of the McCormick works will be down the entire month. The company will close tractor and farm implement plants in seven other cities for the entire month.

Officials said the closing has been ordered to run off inventories and permit employés to take their paid vacations during July. Although inventory position compels the shutdowns, officials said they hoped that large crops and better farm income the rest of the year would result in enough business to permit much improved operations in the fall.

Cities in which plants will be closed all July are Auburn, N. Y.; Richmond, Ind.; Canton, Ill.; Rock Falls, Ill.; Chattanooga, Tenn.; Milwaukee, and Rock Island. Truck plants in Fort Wayne and Indianapolis will operate on reduced schedules during the month, and the East Moline plant will not be affected by the shutdown. Twine mills in Chicago and New Orleans have been put on 4 day a week schedules, and reduced operations also prevail in the company's steel mills and iron and coal mines.

BETHLEHEM CUTS PRICES; ERASES DIFFERENTIALS

New York, June 27.—[Special.]—Following closely upon the United States Steel corporation's announcement of drastic price reductions on a wide range of products, the Bethlehem Steel corporation tonight posted new prices for shipment of products not later than Sept. 30, with cuts ranging up to 17 per cent. The Bethlehem announcement goes even further than United States Steel's in wiping out practically all price differentials.

According to the new schedule of prices, which apply for delivery and consumption only in the United States, the basing point system appears to have been destroyed and prices for steel products are now practically the same at every manufacturing center.

MOST RAILWAYS SHOW GAINS IN FREIGHT TRAFIC

Varied freight trafic trends were shown yesterday in first car loading reports issued for last week. The Santa Fe, Rock Island, and Milwaukee roads had larger total loadings than in the week ended June 18, but showed declines from last year. The Baltimore and Ohio not only reported a large drop from last year but a slight decline from the preceding week. Car loadings reported yesterday, with comparisons, follow:

	Wk. ended June 25.	Prev. wk.	Yr. ago.

Coal Company Is Building 7½ Mile Railroad

Construction of a 7½ mile railroad has been started by the United Electric Coal company to connect its Buckheart mine, at Dumfermline, near Canton, Ill., with the Illinois river at a point three miles north of Liverpool, Louis Ware, president, announced yesterday.

Louis Ware.

The railroad will be standard gauge, will use about forty regular bottom dump coal cars, and will have two steam locomotives. At the river point a modern dock will be constructed for loading coal into barges. It is estimated the cost of the railroad and the river loading facilities will be about $300,000.

Cement Firm Takes Coal.

United Electric has undertaken the construction in accordance with an arrangement with the Marquette Cement Manufacturing company, which wants the Buckheart coal for its cement plant at La Salle, Ill. Marquette Cement, Ware said, for years has been a leading user of barges on the Illinois and Mississippi rivers, and desired to take advantage of the economies of barge operation in getting coal for its La Salle plant.

The cement company will spend about $350,000 on construction of an unloading dock at its La Salle plant and for additional coal barges, making the total cost of the development about $650,000.

United Electric has engaged the Koppers company to design and instal the coal dock but its own engineering department will construct the railroad line.

Automatic Dock Mechanism.

The mechanism at the Illinois river dock will consist of a large hopper with an automatic feeder delivering to belt conveyor having a capacity of 400 tons an hour. An adjustable mechanism will raise or lower the belt for feeding barges irrespective of the river level.

It is expected the improvements will be completed next autumn. Walter A. Wecker, described as an advocate of river transportation, is president of Marquette Cement.

Treasury Gets 100 Million Loan at Record Low Rate

Washington, D. C., June 27.—[Special.]—The federal government again obtained money at new record low interest rates today when the treasury announced the sale of $100,000,000 of 91 day bills at an average rate of 0.011 per cent compared with 0.016 for the similar issue sold last week. Of the $281,464,000 applied for, the treasury accepted $100,095,000.

STOCKS PAUSE AFTER UPRUSH; TURN IRREGULAR

Pivotal Issues Sink in Late Selling.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, June 27.—Except for aviation shares, which displayed independent strength, and a sprinkling of utility and industrial leaders, the stock market today paused after six days of rising prices and closed irregular. A last minute selling attack unsettled the pivotal issues and forced concessions reaching 2 points, and volatile issues dropped as much as 4 points.

However, strong underlying sentiment kept the majority of issues on the plus side, so that 401 closed higher, 343 lower and 163 unchanged from Saturday's final quotations. Trading continued at last week's fast pace, some 2,105,000 shares moving.

Prices Swing Widely.

The session was remarkable for wide price swings. Some pressure at the opening forced many issues to sag under previous final prices, but midway through the first hour a wave of buying swept over the list to send the leaders fractions to 4 points higher.

So active was the market at this stage that brokers and their clerks had difficulty in executing orders, which reportedly came from all parts of the country and were brought out by the early dip. Moreover, the ticker ran behind trading by about four minutes for the space of half an hour.

Following this demonstration, the market settled back to a more orderly course, with each setback bringing forth a fresh supply of orders until the final outbreak of offerings.

Aviation Shares Climb.

Gains in the aviation group ran to almost 2 points, that honor going to Douglas. Other popular issues included Curtiss-Wright, United Aircraft, Glenn Martin, and North American Aviation, each of which registered a substantial fractional gain.

Coppers received some support late in the day and whittled sharp early losses. Anaconda, which moved in the best volume of the day, sagged ⅝. Kennecott and International Nickel lost similar margins. Early losses had run to 1 point.

Steels and motors bore the brunt of the late selling to incur losses reaching 2 points. United States Steel, of 1¼; Chrysler, off 1⅝; General Motors, off ½; Republic, off ⅞, and Bethlehem, off 1¾, were particular targets.

Rail Group Gives Ground.

Carrier shares gave ground in the afternoon after a steady forenoon trend. Public utility issues became active for a time and a number of leaders made good gains as the result of more aggressive buying. However, the group could not maintain its strength and toward the end gave way to irregularity.

Chemicals turned weak. Allied Chemical, du Pont, Air Reduction, and Union Carbide lost between 1 and 4½ points. Some wide changes also appeared in the heavy machinery group. General Electric and Deere declined fractions, and Westinghouse, J. I. Case, and Allis-Chalmers lost 1 to 3 points.

Barton Assails Coal Act as 'Unholy Price Fixing'

Washington, D. C., June 27.—(AP)—Representative Bruce Barton [R., N. Y.] criticized the Guffey coal control act today as "an unholy piece of price fixing directed specifically at consumers." Barton said, in the Congressional Record, that the bituminous coal commission which the act created "is nothing more or less than a monopoly," and that "Wall street would be ashamed of it."

'Mop' Accused of Falsifying to Get Loans

Washington, D. C., June 27.—(AP)—Trial Examiner Richard Townsend told the Security and Exchange commission today the Missouri Pacific Railroad company published "false financial statements" to facilitate the borrowing of $115,700,000 from the public and the Reconstruction Finance corporation.

Townsend, sifting evidence obtained at recent public hearings, made no recommendation on what penalty, if any, should be imposed on the now bankrupt carrier. The only penalty the commission could impose would be to suspend or prohibit further trading of Missouri Pacific securities on the New York Stock exchange. Townsend, however, called attention to a letter from the exchange saying this penalty would "impose a hardship and possible loss upon the stockholders who are innocent of wrongdoing."

The commission took Townsend's report under advisement.

Part of Funds from Public.

"There can be no gainsaying the fact," the report said, "that the false financial statements were of material aid in enabling the Alleghany corporation [which controled Missouri Pacific] and Missouri Pacific in securing monies in the sum of at least $115,700,000 both from the public and governmental agencies, to wit:

"[a] The sale of $37,500,000 of Alleghany securities to the public; [b] the sale of $61,200,000 of Missouri Pacific bonds to the public; [c] the securing of loans by the Missouri Pacific from the Reconstruction Finance corporation in the approximate amount of $17,000,000."

Townsend said annual reports of the railroad for 1935 and subsequent years misled the public because they failed to show a $14,000,000 liability of the carrier on contracts with Terminal Shares, Inc.

Evasiveness Is Charged.

"The outstanding aspect of this case," he said, "is the atmosphere of evasiveness, indirection, and utter lack of consistency which has characterized the conduct of certain officials of Missouri Pacific Railroad company and Alleghany corporation."

Townsend also accused Price, Waterhouse & Co., the firm of auditors employed by the railroad, of certifying to balance sheets which "failed to present fairly the financial position" of the railroad.

Any commission order on the trading of Missouri Pacific securities would affect the present holders of 718,000 outstanding shares of preferred stock and 828,395 shares of common stock.

Firm Defends Its Audits.

New York, June 27.—(AP)—Price, Waterhouse & Co., certified public accountants accused before the SEC today of failing "to present fairly the financial position" of the Missouri Pacific railroad in audits, tonight issued the following statement:

"In the balance sheets of the Missouri Pacific Railroad company on Dec. 31, 1934, and Dec. 31, 1935, the Terminal Shares transaction was reflected in precise accordance with instructions given to the chief accounting officer of the railroad by the accounting division of the interstate commerce commission.

Litigation Is Cited.

"Neither these instructions nor good accounting practice called for inclusion in the balance sheet of the so-called liability of $14,000,000 under these contracts, then the subject of litigation. As a result of this litigation, this so-called liability was completely and forever barred as a claim against the trustee and the debtor estate [see annual report for 1937, pages 9-10].

"The balance sheets of Dec. 31, 1934, and Dec. 31, 1935, both contained foot notes mentioning the existence of the Terminal Shares litigation, and in each year the certification by the accountants was expressly made subject to the qualification that "no provision has been made for pending claims and law suits, the amount of which cannot be determined at this time."

RFC LAUNCHES UTILITY BUYING LOANS TO CITIES

Lets Knoxville Have $5,800,000.

Washington, D. C., June 27.—(AP)—Chairman Jesse H. Jones offered the resources of the Reconstruction Finance corporation tonight to finance large scale public purchases of private utilities in huge areas of the south, midwest, and far west.

Jesse H. Jones.

He started the program by lending $5,800,000 to Knoxville, Tenn., to buy the distributing system of the Tennessee Public Service company in Knox county. It was the first loan of its kind ever made by the RFC.

The Knoxville transaction is the first in a contemplated series of purchases by the Tennessee Valley authority and municipalities in that area to end the problem of competition between public and private untility capital.

Wilkie Still Negotiating.

TVA Director David Lilienthal and Wendell Wilkie, head of Commonwealth and Southern corporation, have been negotiating for weeks concerning proposed sale of Commonwealth properties in the TVA area.

Jones said he had "inquiries" but no formal applications for loans from municipalities around the huge new Bonneville and Grand Coulee dams of the Columbia river and the Fort Peck dam in Montana.

He also said a proposed $100,000,000 deal in Nebraska would be eligible for RFC money.

The chairman said he already had sent an agent to the Columbia river area to investigate the loan prospects. He made it plain, however, that his offer was limited to areas where federal or PWA power developments created a special competitive problem and that he was not inviting municipalities alsewhere to apply.

Not Going into Business.

"We are not going into this business as a business," he explained.

Meanwhile, the Public Works administration, which has been pouring out millions for such construction work as schools, bridges, etc., continued to allot money. Allotments of $51,509,478 today brought the total in the last few days to $340,000,000.

NEBRASKA PROJECTS ASSAILED.

Charges that the Public Works administration is attempting to alter normal economic development in Nebraska by huge allotments for hydro-electric dams were made yesterday by George J. Leahy, vice president of the Republic Coal and Coke company and a member of the board of directors of the National Coal association.

Leahy asserted the government has granted 32 million dollars—34 per cent of the total national allotments for such projects—to development of hydro-electric plants in Nebraska, where all the electricity now used is generated satisfactorily in coal burning steam plants. Completion of the federal projects will throw thousands of coal miners, railroad men and other workers on relief rolls, he warned.

Directors of the National Coal association will be asked at their meeting in Cincinnati, O., tomorrow and Thursday to appropriate funds from the treasury of the organization to fight the hydro-electric program.

NEW BANK RULES TO BE HELPFUL; SAY CHICAGOANS

Assert Depositors Are Safeguarded.

The new rules issued by the treasury department with respect to bank loans and investments for the purpose of encouraging the flow of funds into business were commended yesterday by Chicago bankers who have followed the conflict in Washington between the treasury department and the federal reserve board as to the best way to aid business. The regulations, which were approved Sunday by President Roosevelt, will become effective July 1. They represent a compromise between the treasury and the reserve board.

Explaining that they had not yet seen the official text of the rules, bankers said that a study of newspaper reports indicates that while business—particularly small business—may receive some needed help, the position of bank depositors will not be weakened as a result of bank loans and investments made in accordance with the new regulations.

"Several things appear to have been accomplished under the treasury's rules," one banker said.

Standardization Is Aided.

"First, a degree of standardization appears to have been reached among the various agencies which make bank examinations.

"Second, the changes appear to have been made without much that is objectionable—from the banker point of view—creeping in. In fact the controler's office, which has had a fine record over the last seventy-five years, appears to have won a victory in its efforts to defeat the effort of the federal reserve board to use the nation's banking system in a scheme of 'managed economy' experiments.

"Third, it appears that the major consideration in banking rules, protection for the depositors, has been maintained."

No Change in Class I.

Class I. covers "good" loans and in this category there is no change.

Class II. covers loans hitherto designated as "slow loans," calling for attention on the part of the management and involving the possibility of future loss to the banks. Under the new rules not the length of time the loan is outstanding, but the assurance of its repayment is to be considered by bank examiners.

In the past business loans were made for from 60 to 90 day periods. Where a line of credit was established loans all were expected to be cleared off in a year. The rating allowed under the new rules opens the way to what are called intermediate loans, running from three to five years, or even to seven years. This opens the way to banks to make loans to sound small businesses.

Old Requirement Kept.

Class III. consists of the doubtful loans and there is no change from the old requirement—which was for the bank to get what it could by liquidation.

Class I. consists of securities of the highest grade such as receive the highest rating in manuals. However, under new classification the importance of ratings by the commercial rating agencies is minimized.

Class II. consists of securities in which "the investment characteristics are distinctly or predominantly speculative."

Defaulted Issues Form Group.

Class IV. consists of stocks. A bank may hold for a time stock which it has taken in as collateral for an unpaid loan.

One other provision of the new rules permits banks to invest in local securities, even if the issues are not listed on any exchange, provided they mature in ten years and have a provision for the amortization of at least 75 per cent of the principal amount by maturity. Chicago bankers said that this provision should be helpful to sound small businesses in the smaller communities.

Steel Scrap Prices Boosted; Production Increases Again

Another markup of 25 cents a ton in scrap steel was made in Pittsburgh yesterday as the American Iron and Steel institute estimated that operations in the steel industry will show a small increase for the fourth consecutive week since the Memorial day low point was reached.

The institute estimated output at 28.7 per cent of capacity this week, compared with 28 per cent last week, 27.1 per cent two weeks ago, and 26.2 per cent three weeks ago. A month ago operations were figured at 26.1 per cent.

Far Below Year Ago.

Steel mills were operating at 75 per cent of capacity a year ago, off 0.9 of 1 point from the preceding week. They were running at 74 per cent, up 3.8 points, in the corresponding week of 1936.

Operations three years ago were at 37.7 per cent of capacity, a decrease of 0.6 of 1 point from the preceding week, and in the corresponding week of 1934 they were at 44.7 per cent, a decline of 11.4 points from the preceding week.

Recovery Has Continued.

Although the improvement in production in the steel industry has been small since the end of May, June has been a month of consistent recovery. The gain is regarded by the steel trade as an indication of more active buying by various consuming industries after a long period of inventory reductions and subnormal demand.

Sales of No. 1 heavy melting steel scrap at $12.75 a ton, a new high on the sudden and sharp price recovery move in the last week, was reported in Pittsburgh. This represents a boost of 25 cents since the last previous sale. Quotations were at $12.25 to $12.75 a ton.

JUDGE REFUSES TO QUASH BILL FOR RECEIVER

Judge Michael L. Feinberg yesterday denied a motion to dismiss a bill for receivership filed against the Resources Corporation International by two stockholders, Mr. and Mrs. Magnus Brinkman of Sheboygan, Wis. The motion was made by Attorney Jacob L. Fox, counsel for the corporation, who charged that the facts as recited in the complaint do not constitute a cause of action.

The judge, however, refused to appoint a receiver to take over assets of the corporation, saying that strict proof must be made of the allegations made by the complainants that Harper S. Hoover, president of the company, has converted more than $2,000,000 of its funds to his own uses. The case was continued until July 8, when evidence may be presented.

An injunction preventing the company and its officers from using funds from any of five different bank accounts was granted early last May, when the Brinkmans' petition was filed.
